

PRESENTING YOUR S. G. A. OFFICERS

Big Three: Harrell, Hendrick, and McGlinn.

Tuesday night, March 16 the student body elected Sandy McGlinn President of Student Government Association.

When her election was announced, Sandy told the student body. "I promise to do all I promised and more." Sandy is from Haverford, Pa. and is majoring in art with minors in history and English. She has many ideas of what she would like to do when she graduates. Included in these are to be a wife, do something in the theater, be an art critic, write an art book or become a doctor.

Sandy said that one of her general aims for her office were to do as good a job as Fran Hicks has done this year. "I really want people to give me their ideas. I feel communication is so important. I wish to bridge this gap between students, student government, faculty and administration."

When Sandy's pin-mate, Rod Adams, was asked if he would be jealous if Sandy were president of the student body he said, "Just as long as I'm in charge of your student body."

Eleanor Harrell is the new Chairman of Honor Council. She is a psychology major with minors in sociology and German. She is from Wadesboro and after graduation she wants to go to graduate school in psychology.

Eleanor is excited about her election because she feels that there is so much that Honor Council can do now. She wants to have informal monthly meetings with anyone who is interested in Honor Council. She wants to give the students a chance to do something about their complaints. Eleanor also wants to get into the system and do away with rules and punishments that serve no purpose. "I'm going to be realistic all the way and not cry because ideals have crumbled."

Hewitt

Ren Hewitt, of Burlington, is the newly elected President of Interdorm Council. Her first reaction to being elected was "oooooo, giggle, giggle." Since Ren wishes to get her MAT after graduation from Salem so that she can teach, she feels that her new job will help her in the future when she has to deal with high school young people. Ren knows that she'll have to work closely with the girls in the dorms to deal with dorm problems and questions, and she knows that all the duties of this newly-created council have not been defined yet. But she is ready to cope with any problems that may arise. She's ready to help, that is, after she's through celebrating her victory.

Susan Hendrick did not get a chance to say anything when it was announced that she had just been elected Vice-president of S.G.A. Everyone around her tried to tackle her.

After she caught her breath Susan did have time to reflect on her office. "It is going to be a huge job but it will be a good chance to work with the whole student body. SSC will be the big part but it is not the only thing. I want to make sure I can do other things like be a big help to the president. And I'll enjoy being on Leg. Board again."

Susan, from Rutherfordton, is a history major with a minor in English. When she graduates she plans to get married, teach and, if possible, get a masters degree in guidance counseling.

Scottie Newell is Salem's 1971-72 Student Government Secretary. From Richmond, Va., Scottie was immediately surrounded by fellow Virginians when her office was announced. Scottie cried, Libba McPherson who was seated next to Scottie, cried also. Holly Materne leaped down the aisle and screamed before she enveloped Scottie in a wild embrace! Scottie, a French major, knows that next year won't be easy, and will be a lot of work. "But I think it will help me in fostering good relationships with other people." Scottie's mother and grandmother were both in Winston-Salem visiting when she was elected. "This will be a nice surprise for them!"

Catherine Cooper's initial reaction to her election as Secretary of Honor Council was, "I GOTTA CALL MY FATHER AND MOTHER!" Catherine was ecstatic but she reiterated that Honor Council will have to do some interpreting this year since it has been separated from the other student government official boards, etc. "Since they're being separated from the others, they'll get a chance to think what penalties and objectives are... whether our priority is protection of the girls in the school, or whatever," Catherine concluded her interview by yelling, "I'm so glad I'm finally gonna get to DO SOMETHING and HELP at Salem."

Le Newell, of Charlotte, is the new Secretary of Interdorm Council. Le worked on Judi Board this year and is looking forward to working with Ren Hewitt next year. Le emphasized the importance of this new council, saying "I think that we'll get some really good social changes next year that will be better for everyone. We will have to work very closely with Honor Council to get things coordinated. I just hope problems don't arise, but we'll handle them if they do." Le concluded her interview by thanking everyone standing around... she was very excited.

The whole audience cheered when Anna Moore Butzner was declared the new Student Government Treasurer. Her initial reactions were quick and varied... "It's like a dream. You really want something like this and then it happens... Will somebody please tell me what the hell this office entails?... I believe the budget is the big concern, and it will be my main issue in the coming year. I am interested in writing treasurers of student governments of other schools to find out money-making projects to keep our student government out of the hole... Doi-oi-oi-oinnng!!!" Anna Moore then stated that she fully intends to live up to her promises made in her Salemite campaign speech. She feels that our student government must try to get enough money to work without a lot of unnecessary pressure.

From High Point is Beth Bencini, President of IRS. She majors in art and history and wants to go to graduate school in art history. Beth has a dog named Ralph and a poetic brother. Beth says "with the help of the students next year we will be able to have a creative year for IRS."

Laura Crumpler, of Clinton, is President of YWCA. She is a history major and plans to teach when she graduates. Her plans include building "a whole new image for the Y. I want to pull the students closer together. Maybe we could have a beer blast." Laura also wants to "broaden the base of Johnny Jewels — make them more than just a poem every week."

Mary Davis was re-elected President of Pierretes. She is from Belmont and majors in art and math. She hopes to have another New York trip next year. Mary hopes to get more students involved in Pierretes activities.

Susan Popper, from Macon, Ga., is President of IRC. She majors in history. Susan plans to "continue the current events program but involve more professors and speakers." She also plans to involve foreign students in more organizations.

Marily Saacke was re-elected President of WRA. She plans to have inter-collegiate matches in sports without scheduling games months in advance. Marily also plans to have more skiing next winter. From New Canaan, Conn, she is a psychology major who is "very happy to be out of teacher education." Marily plans to do graduate study in guidance counseling.

Jeannie Dorsey, a very definitive woman at any time, proved herself composed and fast-thinking in the face of what she called an extreme shock, when she was elected Chief Marshall. Jeannie phrased it this way; "First let me express my feelings. I am deeply honored, and I wish to say to the Student Government that I will do my best to improve assemblies in every way possible.... Thanks

Mary Dashiell is Salem's newest FITS Chairman, and promises to be a gentle guide of the uninitiated of next year! Mary was all smiles as she spoke to the Salemite reporter, "I'm excited... and we had SUCH a good experience this year. I hope next year will be even better than this. One thing I really like is that the chairman really gets to know the freshmen."

Anne London is Honor Council Representative for the Senior Class. She is from Pittsboro, and majors in history with a minor in English. Anne plans to teach when she leaves Salem. She too is excited to be able to work with Honor Council in this transitional period.

Melinda Vick, newly-elected Junior Representative to Honor Council, is very honored, and promises to try to do her best during the next year. "... and I just hope that Honor Council, and my role in it, can be as good and efficient as Judicial Board was this year and in the past."

The sophomore representative to Honor Council is Kathryn Kirkpatrick, who was so excited at her victory that she could not talk. All she could do for a while was say, "I really am speechless." A friend standing nearby said that Kathryn will be the best honor council representative on the whole Council.

New Editors

Three new publications editors will assume their positions shortly after spring break. Jeannie Patterson, Editor-in-Chief of The Salemite for 1971-72 will tackle her new job immediately following the vacation, while Kathy Manning, the new Incunabula Editor and Libby Seibert, the new Editor for Sights and Insights will have to wait till the current editors have completed their year's work.

Libby is from Roanoke, Virginia, and hopes to use her major—art—in her treatment of the school annual next year. She has been on the annual staff since her freshman year, and has served in the capacity of co-freshman editor, sophomore editor, junior editor, and in charge of honors. She also was The Salemite's circulation manager this year. Libby says that what the annual can do next year depends on several things, the main one of which is the amount of money the annual has to use. So far this year, the yearbook is in the red, so Libby is trying to think of ingenious ways to earn money for the staff next year, in order to have a free hand in the composition of what she hopes will be a terrific yearbook, with new innovations, depending on student reaction to this year's annual.

Kathy Manning is a North Carolinian with an identical twin sister been studying French and German at Goethe University in Paris. She at Queens. This year Kathy has has worked closely with the Incunabula staff since her freshman year, and was very excited to hear the good news from Mary Pickens, its current editor. She likes the new format of printing being initiated this year, and also has some very artistic ideas for the magazine's composition next year. She feels that life has been very hectic for her this year, but it has been very enjoyable; and she is looking forward to coming back.

The new Salemite editor, none other than Miss Jeannie Patterson of Shelby, North Carolina, has also worked on her publication's staff since her freshman year. Jeannie has been everything to and for the Salemite from headline writer-in-residence to news editor. She has been very pleased with the improvements made on the newspaper this year, and hopes to continue the upgrading process in the coming year. Jeannie extends her condolences to outgoing Salemite editor, Fluvanna S. Engram, and wishes nothing but the best for her future, since she knows that old editors never die... they just get older and more conservative.

The new editors have a tough job ahead of them: Salem's standards of communication improve more each year, and it is the responsibility of the publications editors to keep updating the forms of communication on campus, but all three offer great promise as editors.
