Realtor Speaks

The second speaker in Salem's informal luncheon meeting with career women was Mary Ann Parrish, director of Residential Housing at Ferrell Realty Company. A graduate of Salem Academy and College, she is outstanding as a real estate agent and has brought much success to the two real estate companies with which she has been associated.

The discussion was very revealing and it was easy to see that she is not a member of the "blessed are they who marry" cult. She definitely believes in marriage and a family, but she stated that a woman should be something more than a stale housewife.

Mrs. Parrish started her own real estate career when she was forty out of boredom. But when she became a widow with two children to support, her training proved invaluable.

She also cited the various rewards of her job. One encounters many interesting people and the financial rewards are great. In fact, just this week she closed her largest deal—a $100,000 house. She concluded her talk by offering her time to help and advise any girls who might be interested in real estate.

Outstanding women scheduled to speak in the future include Mayressa Schoonmaker, Attorney, on November 2, Judge Rhonda Billings on November 9, Florence May, City Planner, on November 16 and Louise Thomas, Merchandising Director at Thalhimers, on November 23.

Schools should turn out students that can teach themselves . . . nurture confidence to shape their environment.

Schools should develop the sense
of responsibility of the student.

Schools should recognize and accept individual differences.

Dr. Charles Silberman converses with Dr. Chandler.

of the National Urban Coalition

October 27—

There is a growing awareness of a need for an educational and cultural identity which in the past has excluded blacks from the mainstream of American life.

Parents are a stumbling block in the acceptance of integration. Administrations need to take a unified stand.

Who are our schools responsible to?

Graduate School of Education of good will toward humanity."
