

REGISTRATION TIME

Registration for the spring term is scheduled for the afternoons of November 27, 29, 30, and December 1.

On the afternoon of Monday, Nov. 27, seniors will take to the Registrar's Office the preliminary registration cards signed by their advisers, and will sign class cards for their courses during the hours 1:00-5:00 o'clock. On Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, Nov. 29-30 and Dec. 1, during the hours 1:00-5:00 p.m., all other students will secure their class cards at the Registrar's Office. Special students will register on Dec. 1, 1:00-5:00 p.m.

Since the head of your major department, or your adviser if you are a freshman, must sign the preliminary registration card, you may want to talk over your program with him or her before November 27. Note the schedule of conference time posted by heads of departments and freshman advisers.

Pick up from the Registrar's Office a schedule of classes, yellow preliminary registration card, schedule conflict report slips, pass/fail cards, and application forms for an honors course or independent study.

The preliminary registration card should indicate courses that must be taken in the spring term and a listing of approved alternate courses in the event that preferred courses are filled.

With the head of your department, or adviser, list courses by number, section and course credit. In continuation courses which have sections (A,B,C,etc.) register for the same section in which you are now enrolled except in special cases. Check the fall term schedule posted on the bulletin board in case of uncertainty as to your present section.

If a course at Wake Forest seems advisable, please secure the necessary approval blanks from the Registrar's Office and fill them out. After you have secured the necessary two signatures, return the blanks to the office. The course will be listed on your registration card by your adviser.

Make certain that you complete the information on the top section of the yellow card. Fill in the time schedule.

If a course which you wish to take is already filled, you may fill out a Waiting List slip in the Registrar's Office on Nov. 29-Dec. 1.

All juniors, and any student who expects to graduate in 1974 (January or June), must fill out green cards listing courses needed.

Place Enjoys Salem Activities

by Chris Minter

Mr. Place may be a New Englander at heart but he has grown to love Salem. Having been the comptroller at a New Hampshire boys' prep school, being the business manager here at Salem is nothing new. He admits that a girls' school is a bit different than a boys', but the gripes concerning the rules, regulations and requirements are basically the same. Mr. Place admitted that he had imagined Salem in the midst of a big mill and factory city filled with smokestacks and grime. Instead he was pleasantly surprised to find the Salem Square, which as he describes it "prevents you from believing you're in the city."

Upon learning that Mr. Place was from New Hampshire, I was interested in how he would describe New England. He enthusiastically described the countryside and informed us of the best ski areas. He claims that New Hampshire has taught him to ski in the winter and swim in the lakes in the summer. Being a nature-lover, he and his wife took a road trip to Boone last weekend. The mountains of North Carolina and those of New Hampshire are definitely a lot alike.

Originally from Boston, Mr. Place attended Boston University. After graduation he served in the Navy. Following the service he began work in an accounting firm as a CPA in Boston. His most recent position before coming here to Salem was at Tilton, a boys' preparatory school. Mr. Place knows the college routine well as he has two sons who have already graduated and a daughter who is a senior at the University of New Hampshire.

Mr. Place is extremely interested in Salem's students. The interview was a chance for him to ask our opinions on subjects like the refectory and the interior decorating problems in some of the dorms. We in turn became acquainted with one of Salem's new faces. So if you see a quick smile, a white shock of hair and a clipped Boston "Hi" you can be sure it's Mr. Place.
