Campus Issues

- Questions:
- (1) If you were asked to describe Salem to an outsider, what would you tell her?
 - (2) Are you in favor of or opposed to family planning facilities on campus?
 - (3) How do you feel about the call-down system?
 - (4) Should the SGA president work closely with the President and the faculty-advisory board?
 - (5) Should the students have a faculty advisory board as a link between students and administration?
 - (6) Does our faculty-advisory board operate successfully at present?
 - (7) Is Salem's honor system valid?
 - (8) How could our honor system be made more (if necessary) effective?
 - (9) Do you think rule infractions this year have been handled too harshly or too lightly in general?
 - (10) Does IRS have an important role in upholding Salem honor and traditions? And should IRS continue as an organization for all students?
 - (11) Do you think Salem should switch to cafeteria food service . . . explain your reason.
 - (12) Do you think the book exchange could be run more efficiently? If so, how?
 - (13) To what extent do you think clubs should work together for communication?
 - (14) Do you think club fees should be included in SGA fees?
 - (15) How can you make your position (if elected) more efficient?

President SGA

Lynn Mappus

- (1) Salem is not a "high class school for social butterflies." She has the potential of becoming a very progressive girl's school; however, at the present time "things" seem to be stagnating due to an administration which seems to turn a deaf ear to student opinion.
- (2) I'm sorry that this type of question even needs to be asked on an all girl's campus. The present generation no longer places the social stigma on birth control that has existed in the past. I feel that Salem College has its financial interest in mind rather than the interest of the student body and its future society.
- (3) It's trivial, but no one has thought of a better way. If we are as mature as we say we are, we shouldn't even need a system to call us down for being loud during quiet hour, forgetting to sign in, etc. It's all a matter of student responsibility.
- (4) Yes - especially since the the issue concerns students either directly or indirectly. One of the most important duties of SGA president is to keep a channel of communication (as narrow as it may be) open between students and administration.
- (5) Most definitely.
- (6) One of the major duties of Faculty Advisory Board is to make decisions on petitions submitted by the legislative board. When we ask if FAB is working "successfully", I therefore interpret the question as asking how
