

Exciting January Program Planned; Travel to England, Wales or France

By Jan Warner

In January 1976 Salem students will have the exciting opportunity of studying the gifted and handicapped as they learn and have learned in England and Wales. Dr. Lucia Karnes and Ms. June Samson plan to take all interested students on this unique trip. One-half of the time will be spent visiting special centers for the mentally retarded, emotionally disturbed, deaf, blind, and physically and learning disabled. The other half of the time will be used to visit the theater, ballet, and visual arts areas where the gifted have communicated with society. There will be a one-week visit to the countryside, including centers at Bath, Cardiff, Wales, and Manchester.

Accommodations will be in a student hotel, no private baths, near the University of London. A research paper on a specific topic will be handed in before departure from London. The three final days of the trip will be allowed for individual study in London or for free travel.

A prerequisite for the course is one of the following, completed with at least a 2.0: Introductory Psychology, Survey of Art, or Survey of Music, or by special permission of the instructors.

Any interested student should contact either Dr. Karnes at the Center for Special Education or Ms. June Samson in the Fine Arts Center by May 20.

Do you want to take a trip next January? The French department is planning an exciting trip to France with the help of the Experiment in National Living Organization. Dr. Cardwell is hoping to take a group of Salem students. The girls will live with French families who have teenage children and will experience normal French living. It will be an excellent way to improve your French conversation and you will also have a marvelous trip.

Dr. Cardwell suggests that an interested student should complete French 30 and be able to get along speaking the language fairly well. Plans are in the progress of being finalized so listen for reports and begin thinking about this great trip to France.

"Feminar" Brings Stimulating Speakers To Salem Campus

by Susan Leonard

During the month of April, Salem's Inter Varsity Christian Fellowship held what was called a "Feminar", consisting of a speaker each Monday night. Each of the four feminars brought a woman to the campus to discuss some aspect of her Christian life.

Karolyn Chapman led the first Feminar with a discussion entitled "The Sexual Aspect of Marriage," as she approached it from her Christian viewpoint. Karolyn is the wife of Rev. Gary Chapman at Calvary Baptist Church, and leads engaged women in group study about the sexual aspect of marriage and married life.

"Being the Wife of a Christian Worker" was the topic for the second week. Its leader was Georgina Nangle, wife of Salem's Inter Varsity Coordinator. She spoke about her role as a wife, his role toward her, and her ministry with her husband.

The third Feminar approached a Christian woman's life from a different angle—being single. Marcia Baumgartner, a doctoral candidate and professor at UNC-G, spoke on singleness from her Christian understanding. Marica, 28, spoke on the way she coped with being single and how Christianity had helped her to view it in a different manner. Celibacy she finds a gift and has a special place in God's world.

Michelle Powers led the fourth feminar with a discussion on "Being a Career Women." Michelle is a Catholic nun, however the order she belongs to does not live in a community of its own, but rather each individual lives and works in their particular field. She lives alone and has an office for pastoral counseling here in Winston-Salem. She told how Christianity helped her to feel more concern for the people she worked with.

Each of these women shared parts of their lives in hope of enlightening our minds. Keep a look out for more Inter Varsity activities.

Two Students From Overseas

Betsy Roberts

Our two foreign students for next year are from the Netherlands and from Sweden. Francein Niekus, whose home is Best, Netherlands, will be living with Beth Kinney on second floor Strong. Her special interests include social sciences, history and drama. Languages are another of her specialties as she has studied English, French, German, Latin, and Greek, as well as Dutch, her mother tongue. At the present time, she plans to study medicine, and then work for a few years in the Third World, helping people there. Francein wants very much to live in the U.S.A. and understand Americans. She has already lived with a French family for three weeks, and she has great interest in people and their differences.

Barbro Cannberg, coming from Stockholm, Sweden, plans to pursue a teaching career. Her academic interests are English, Math, and Chemistry and she has studied English, French, Swedish (her mother tongue), Danish, Norwegian (take note, Oslo scholars!), and Russian. Outside of academics, Barbro has taken guitar lessons, played basketball, enjoys sailing and skiing, and especially likes working with children. She has worked at a variety of jobs: free lance artist, designer, silversmith, and Scout leader. Her interest in the U. S. was aroused when her family had an American girl live with them through the Children's International Summer Villages. Next year, Barbro will live with Suzanne Eggleston on third floor Strong.

Lablings would like to thank all of those people who have contributed newspapers. We are going to discontinue collection of papers because the low return per pound does not justify the effort. Our other project is going fantastic, thanks to all of you smokers! Please continue to put packs in the bags provided.

Lablings is proud to announce our new officers for 75-76. They are:

President—Sarah Johnston
Vice President—Rody Spivey
Secretary Treasurer—Lisa Greenberg
Thanks for your support!
