

The SALEMITE

serving the Salem college community since 1920

Volume LXII
Number 3
September 14, 1979

Salem Student Center

Everyone is eagerly awaiting the opening of the student center. In the past, the student center has been used for meetings or dorm parties, but this year S.A.C. encourages all of us to visit the center often and let the room become a popular place for all students to gather.

As we all know, beer will be sold on certain days this year at the center. Beer will be sold only on Wednesday and Thursdays from 9:00 p.m. - 11:45 p.m. and on Friday and Saturdays from 6:00 p.m. - 12:45 a.m. Because of the beer license, certain regulations will have to be followed and S.A.C. will work closely with the director of the Food Service to see that these rules are enforced. They are as follows:

1. The Student Center is for members of the Salem College Community and their guests.

2. Students share the responsibility for the behavior of their guests.

3. North Carolina laws will be enforced. A student ID card may be required.

4. Beer may not be taken from the Student Center. During the hours when beer is sold, no one may bring any type of alcoholic beverage into the Center.

5. Beer will only be sold in the stipulated hours.

6. The management will not sell beer to anyone who has had too much to drink.

7. Violations will be turned in to the appropriate student disciplinary organization for action.

The student center is for us. If we do not use the chance, enjoy the facility, take advantage of the opportunity, we will lose the center and have no social room to call our own.

A Salem Welcome for 3 New Pros

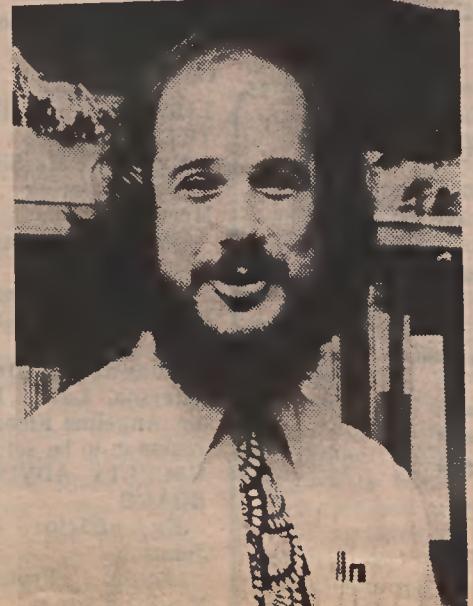

Have you met Mr. Sung Ha, a new edition to our economics department? Well, if you haven't please make an effort to welcome him because Mr. Ha promises to be a very interesting and experienced member of our already excellent faculty.

Mr. Ha received his Masters degree in Economics from Indiana University, and he has only been in the United States for five years. He chose to come to Salem because our school is small, we have small classes, and teachers can get feedback and comments from their students. So far, Mr. Ha has been very impressed with the students here at Salem. He says that they are smart, quick, and very capable. We are impressed with you, too, Mr. Ha - Welcome!

Mr. Sung Ha

Dr. Jeff Ersoff

Next week the Salemite will interview the remaining additions to our Salem Community.

ston-Salem, because they feel that it's a good place to bring up children. They also enjoy the great climate and atmosphere of this part of the country.

Dr. Ersoff has been most impressed with the friendliness of students and faculty here at Salem. Take the time to go by and meet him, and you will find that he is very congenial.

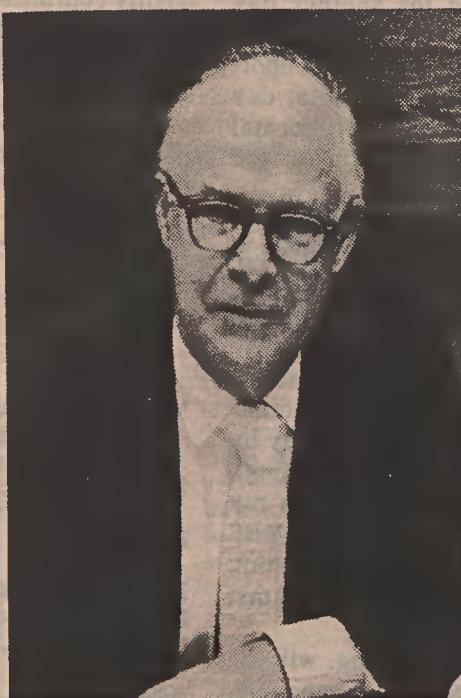

Robin Elmore

"Absalom, Absalom my son, would god I had died for thee, Oh Absalom my son." This quotation best describes Dr. Alexander Riddle philosophy of life. Dr. Riddle attended Carnegie Institute of Technology for his undergraduate studies and then University of Pittsburgh for his graduate work. Before he came to Salem, he taught at Robert Morris College in Pittsburgh. Dr. Riddle likes Salem very much.

Dr. Riddle teaches microeconomics, public finance, and business and society. He says that the fields of management and business are expanding rapidly and he feels this is an exciting time for economics-management graduates. The way he sees the situation is that there is no end in sight to the career opportunities for women.

Nancy Coudriet

Dr. Alexander Riddle

Photo by Pam Snyder

Think Fast

January term seems like a long time away but for some students, now may be the time to start getting programs in gear. Some kind of decision must be made by pre-registration on October 2-4, but if you change your mind, final registration is not until November 5-8.

The choices for January term are innumerable this year. The three basic choices are an on campus course, an internship, or an independent study. In addition to these choices, a student may attend another 4-1-4 institution, participate in travel programs, or intensify their studies with a pre-professional experience. The programs are designed to accommodate freshmen as well as seniors and to give all students a chance to probe further into any subject with which they choose to experiment.

Travel opportunities this year are trips to London, Switzerland, Greece, and various places along the Eastern Seaboard. The fees are predetermined and differ according to transportation and hotel accommodations.

Courses and internships are offered in art, biology, chemistry, classics, education, English, home economics, history, mathematics, modern languages, music, physical education, psychology, religion-philosophy, and sociology-economics. All of these areas except for biology, education, physical education, and psychology also offer independent studies.

The diversified opportunities are obvious and all students are encouraged to study the possibilities carefully. January term is a fantastic time to gain outside experience. Choose a January program that will teach you something that you could not have learned in a regular classroom atmosphere and use the month to learn about yourself.

Joan Gentry