

Class of '88

by Beth Adams

This section of the paper will be devoted each issue to bring you news of how last year's graduates are faring.

Karla Caudle left Salem last May with a B. S. in Math, a B.A. in Management, and a notation in Computer Science. She is now employed at Wachovia as a Management Science Analyst. She is part of an internal consulting group in the bank. She plans to stay in Winston-Salem and keep working for Wachovia.

After completing a B.A. in English at Salem, Carol Corum has gone on to graduate studies at Wake Forest University. She began this intensive study with a scholarship from the university. Carol attends four classes, two of which are seminars. She believes she will graduate with a Masters in English in May of 1990. After graduation she plans to work toward a Ph.D. in English or to begin teaching.

Lisa Holt is staying busy in Winston-Salem. She is presently working as a "nanny." With a B.A. in Psychology and teacher certification, Lisa will soon begin substitute teaching in the Forsyth County Schools. She is also contemplating an offer to work in a home for abused and neglected children in Lexington, N.C.

Lynda Farthing is now involved with part-time graduate work at Bowman Gray. As a Salem Chemistry major, she is pursuing a Ph.D. in Biochemistry. Lynda is also working part-time at Pediatric Associates. She will complete her work at Bowman Gray in four or five years. Then Lynda would like to teach at a college and research topics of interest.

Georgia Kakouras finished Salem with a B.A. in Sociology. After graduation, she began working for Piedmont Airlines in their Convention and Sales Department. She has enjoyed traveling to many places, such as Chicago, New Orleans, Baltimore, and Tampa. Next fall, Georgia plans to obtain a teaching certificate and enter the education field.

Class Notes

class of 1989

The senior class met for the first time this year on Monday night, September 12, at 6:15 in the Science Building.

Susan Bynum began the meeting by introducing Sarah Albritton, Director of the Learning Resource Center. Ms. Albritton spoke to the group about resume writing and registering for Career Day.

Also, the class selected faculty members for Who's Who. The seniors voted on several issues concerning commencement.

Alicia Boland and Beth Barksdale, senior class Fall Fest chairmen, organized committees and plans for this year's events.

Other committee heads were chosen:

Growing Freshmen

by Jennifer King

Doesn't the freshman class seem BIG to you? Actually, there are only about five more freshmen enrolled compared to last year. But there are so many new faces. This could be because there are three times as many transfer students as last year. Or maybe it is because the senior class is small this year and the number of new people seems overwhelming.

Nevertheless, enrollment is rising steadily at Salem. Why? Ask the freshmen. They came mainly for the personal attention and touch of Salem College. The freshman class may seem big for a couple of reasons. According to Dean Shannahan it is a "strong class academically" and it has the potential to do many BIG things.
