

Carnival Planned

by Sonya Cobb

Throw pies at your favorite teacher...Dunk your favorite SGA officer...Vote for the male faculty or staff member with the sexiest legs...And win prizes while you're at it! Every time you win one of the wild, wacky and basically abusive games at the Drug Awareness Week carnival, your name gets put into the raffle for a dazzling array of astoundingly cool prizes (like skis, free meals, gift certificates, etc.). And believe it or not, this incredibly fun event is for a good cause--all proceeds go to the Drug Prevention Committee.

It all happens on Monday, March 5 from 4 to 6:30 in the Refectory. Wayne's so excited he's going to bribe everyone with an extra special supper...so be there!

Schweiger Wins Fellowship

Note: This article appeared in the Rotary Newsletter .

Wendi Schweiger, sponsored by the Winston-Salem Rotary Club (District 769), has received a 1990 Rotary Foundation Scholarship for graduate study abroad.

Wendi Karen Schweiger of Summerville, SC, a senior at Salem College, will spend the 1990-91 academic year at the University of Aberdeen, Aberdeen, Scotland. Wendi, who began her senior year at Salem College with a 3.07 grade point average, will graduate in May with a BA degree in psychology.

She said a counselor and psychologist with whom she has worked influenced her to continue her study of psychology in graduate school. She wants to specialize in child psychology and counseling and eventually get her master's and doctoral degrees in child psychology.

Wendi feels that the Rotary Scholarship will provide her with an excellent opportunity to go to another country and learn more about cross-cultural patterns of human personality and development. As a focused research project, she would like to study the problems of child abuse in a foreign country and how that culture deals with the problem.

Winter Formal: Derby Day Down

by Paige Parker

"Derby Day Downtown" is the theme for the Big 3+3 sponsored formal this year. The festivities start Saturday February 24 from noon until three at the Orchestra Pit. A barbeque lunch will be provided, and the Acoustics will entertain. A $1 beer special is planned for students who are of legal drinking age.

Following this, the dance is being held at the Sawtooth Center from 9:00 to 1:00 am. The Malemen is the band for the evening. A shuttle taking students and their dates to the Sawtooth Center from the Hyatt will be provided every fifteen minutes. There will be a cash bar. On Sunday a brunch in the refectory is planned. Cliff Tune and the Looney Tunes, a Jazz band, will entertain. Tickets for the dance are $20. T-shirts and a free cup are $10. Both tickets and t-shirts can be paid for in the refectory during lunch. The $20 ticket covers all of the weekend events.

Yearbook Complete

by Virginia Crable

The final deadline for the 1989-90 yearbook was this past February 5. Currently, the yearbook is complete with the exception of 15 pages. Six of the pages are for the Spring sports: tennis, swimming, and soccer. Four of the pages are for the Winter Formal and Sophomore/Senior which have yet to occur. Additionally, two pages are for Student Life photographs. Lastly outstanding is the Editor's Page. Now, the yearbook's editor, Katherine White, is editing and correcting the final proofs.

White is very pleased with the final product of the yearbook since she put in many long hours with an inadequate staff. "We did not have much of a staff this year; there was a lot of enthusiasm at the beginning, but people lost interest. They stopped coming to meetings and did not turn their work in on time." White wants to thank the little staff that she did have: Sarah Hunter, the head of Public Relations in the President's Office, contributed photos that the staff would not have otherwise been able to obtain themselves such as scenic and professional photographs. Katherine also thanks Sue Ellen Crocker who she considers her co-editor. "Sue Ellen took care of all the clerical and business aspects of the job that I hate." Additionally, Katherine also thanks her roommate, Dena Free, and the Sports Editor, Jennifer King. "These staff members put in many hours, met all deadlines and in general held up their end of the bargain."
