

NASH COUNTY PRESENTS COLORFUL CAROLINA

Twenty-eight Radio Programs on North Carolina

Eunice Peele

This year the Radio Council of Nash County is presenting a series of radio programs, of this kind by any county in the state. Mr. Inscoe, Executive Chairman of the Council, and Mrs. J. J. Wolfe, chairman, are directing this new field of education. Public Relations, the topic, for the fall programs, was in charge of Mr. E. C. Pearce, Principal of Coopers School. The Radio Council hopes to arouse an interest in radio as a means of free education. To do this they hope further to start all people listening to the best of radio programs.

On January ninth, the Radio Council of Nash County presented its first in a series of twenty-eight radio programs on North Carolina. Every school in the county will be responsible for one or two of these programs. They can be heard twice a week, Tuesday and Thursday, at 10:15 o'clock. The subject, Colorful Carolina, will give us the following pictures of North Carolina: North Carolina History, North Carolina Writers, North Carolina Resources and Industry, North Carolina Sports and Recreation, North Carolina Handicraft, North Carolina Homes, North Carolina Agriculture, North Carolina Occupations. These programs are heard over W.E.E.D., every Monday at 10:15 o'clock. The Bailey chapter puts on every eighth program, discussing some phase of agriculture.

Program Competition

Sidney Jones

Competition in presenting chapel programs this year has produced better and more interesting programs.

These programs have covered many different subjects. Comical programs are making a great hit with the pupils. Educational programs also are providing good entertainment.

The next program to be given will be on the subject of Thrift presented by the Junior Class. All parents and friends of the school are welcomed at these programs held weekly on Wednesday morning from 11:15. This free entertainment will give an idea of the work being done by the school.
