

F. F. A. Begins Shopwork

On October 4, the Agriculture boys in the tenth and eleventh grade began planning their shop work. Medicine cabinets, lawn chairs, swings, book cases, magazine racks, and lockers under the benches in the shop are being built.

The medicine cabinet, costing forty-cents, will have two shelves and a mirror on the door. Brazton Honeycutt, Randolph Dew, and Delton Perry have this for one of their projects.

All magazine racks and bookcases are made under no definite plans. The cost of the bookcase is $1.50, while the magazine racks is 75 cents. If any teacher or outsider would like to have any article made, he is asked to see Mr. Howton.

Dramatics Clubs Are Active
Christine Turnage

In Bailey High School this year there are two dramatic clubs. Miss Hill has charge of one; Miss Carr, the other. In Miss Hill's club, six chairmen have been elected out of about forty members. The club members have been divided into six groups. During the year each group is to give a one act play. Members of this club are expected to read five three act plays.

In Miss Carr's club, no officers or chairmen have been elected. They have been writing one act plays and learning something about the art of writing plays.

F. F. A. HOLDS INITIATION

Friday night October 18, 1940, the Bailey Chapter of F.F.A. held its annual initiation ceremonies in the Bailey Gymnasium.

After the initiation ceremony was finished the sixteen greenhands went through some pranks blind folded.

Among these were walking a plank thought to be full of nails, branding the F. F. A. emblem on their arm, and eating the F. F. A. sandwich composed of bread soaked with onion juice and castor oil, green persimmons, and gum tree berries.

After the initiation the entire group held a weiner roast.
