

SOCK - HOP

December 5

7:30 - 11:00

As You Sew,

So Shall You Rip

Members Disclose
Sock-Hop Plans

Plans for another Sock-Hop are in store for the near future, reveals the F.H.A. members.

As this is the social function of the year, all young people will be invited.

The Sock-Hop will be in the gymnasium and music will be furnished by records.

Class Plans Breakfast

"The way to a man's heart is through his stomach." This is what the first year H. Ec. girls are beginning to recognize. After studying what food-stuffs they need, the number of calories needed for their activities, they will prepare various breakfast dishes.

Mrs. Batts Notes Tips

At the November meeting of the FHA, Mrs. Luther Batts gave a short program on care of the hands, the nails, and the hair.

A business session preceded the program. The proposed Sock-Hop came up for discussion and a committee named for the event.

Girls Model Outfits

Following the devotion by the 10th grade boys and girls, the second year home economics girls presented a fashion show at the November meeting of the PTA.

The program was given in the form of a dream with Katherine Whitley as narrator. Each girl walked out of a Simplicity pattern book wearing the skirt and weskit or jumper that she had made in class.

Miss Edith Farmer, Miss Frances Wilson, and W.G. Edwards were in charge of the program.

"The man who cooks from the kitchen table is worse than a back seat driver."

All ladies are invited to enroll in the adult class which meets in the Home Ec. Dept. each Monday night at 7:00 p.m.

Boys, Girls Exchange
Classwork

Junior and senior boys have exchanged classes with the third year home economics class for two weeks, so that they may gain a knowledge of basic home training.

Among the topics the boys will study will be table manners, social behavior, simple cookery, and simple sewing problems as sewing on buttons.

ADVISER ATTENDS MEETING

Home economics adviser, Frances Wilson, attended earlier this month the North Carolina Home Economics Association meeting in Raleigh at State College.

To Look Your LOVELIEST
For The Thanksgiving
Holidays Visit

Lillian's Bty. Shop

Bailey, N. C.