

Have You? - - - - - By Celia May and Keith V. Glover

PARTICIPATED: In the pep-rallies the cheerleaders have had before several ballgames? They surely do help.

CONGRATULATED: The basketball teams and coach on their success this season? Keep the good work up!

HEARD: Sue Weaver say she has resolved to drive five miles per hour? Wonder what caused this change?

Any reports about Gwen Burgess's slumber party? It really was a success.

Some of the expressions the students are using around EHS?

OFFERED: Any suggestions to improve the future issues of the BUGLE?

NOTICED: How nice the school buses look since everybody started bragging about Buck Brown's bus?

How becoming red is to Beth Harris?

Shirley William's bright red coat and how well it matches her hair?

How neat all the students and teachers are this year?

All the pretty Christmas decorations in the different rooms?

SEEN: The cute dog Lynda Strickland brought from Chicago?

The attractive blue sweater Gwen Burgess wears?

Everybody's key chains and colorsopes? They are quite realistic.

TRIED: To do your part in helping us get another teacher by coming to school? Think of the advantages of another teacher and come to school.

To improve your grades this month?

THOUGHT: How close exams are? They are just around the corner.

BEEN: A good sport at the basketball games, not booing when you felt a play was miscalled or cheering when the opposing team made a mistake? If you have been a good sport, keep it up; if not, try to do better. Our school is judged by the way fans act at games.

STARTED: Your Christmas shopping? It's getting late, you know.

PROMISED: To cooperate with your teachers by doing more homework and studying harder for your own good? It really works.

ASKED: James Wells, Jane Earp, Mary Ella Glover, and Keith Glover why they are crazy about cream puffs?

WONDERED: Why Garland Joyner didn't try-out to be a cheerleader? Seems to me he would have been "great."

TALKED: To any seniors who didn't say, "Think nothing of it," "I'd hate to think!" or "Hang that one on the line?"

FELT: That Christmas Spirit!
