

Students, friends, morons, and all the rest of you. 'Tis indeed with a heavy heart that I bring to ya' this farewell speech. Goodness knows I'm gonna' miss writing this col-yum for ya'.

For eight times this year I have written, typed, cut and re-writ, trying to get the school gossip in print!

For eight times this year I've walked around trying to soften hard hearts and cause some of 'em to beat quicker (due, of course, to certain circumstances), just for you.

'Frinstance, did you see Jean G. and Lyndon at the "She Do-od It"? Or Miriam S. and "Nubby". I didn't do bad at all that time, did I? Or have you noticed the sly glances Lucile B. gives to Sydney? And Hilda and Billy. (No other words are necessary.)

My column wouldn't be complete without a moron joke in it, but since I haven't heard any lately (except those about the red and green lights) I'll remind you about the moron who wouldn't cover up his feet 'cause he "didn't want them cold things in there with him."

Here are two very fitting exchanges. (1) From "The Booster": FRESHMAN: "I'm going to graduate with the highest honors." SOPHOMORE: "I'm going to graduate." JUNIOR: "I'm going." SENIOR: "Oh well, I can always dig ditches."

George Denmark and Ellis B. have been running a race, trying to catch the heart of that cute freshie from Wilson, "Liddy Bet" Myatt. Wonder who'll win?

Congratulations, Pat! You at last got a rise out of that bashful senior, Wimpy Simmons. Cupid Jr. wishes you luck!

Here's a riddle for you studes to rack your brains(?) over: What certain senior boy has got all the freshman girls "giddy" over him?

Things have finally changed around GHS. The matters have become more complicated (if possible)! Bob P. and Effie have at last got together, and J. D. is chasing Margaret Jean; Margaret Jean is chasing Bob K.; Bob K. chasing nobody, and finally Helen D. chasing J. D. Are you kidding!

Well, studes, the time has come at last to say goodbye to ya'. And here's hoping that next year's cupid will be able to get more lowdown on ya' than I did. With heavy heart and eyes brimming with tears I say, adieu.

—Cupid Jr.

Seniors Enact Reunion

Rouse, Margaret Jean Thornton, Mary Lou Austin, Dorothy Perkins, Mary Mitcham, Hilda Bell, and Carolyn Hollingsworth.

The Class Day committee was composed of Carolyn Hollingsworth, testator and chairman, Lois Smith, prophet, and Mary Lou Austin, historian, with James Crow, student director, and Miss Ida Gardner, adviser.

Oath of Office Given

A revote was necessary for president and corresponding secretary. George Rivenbark and Ellis Blann were in the revote for president after Conway Rose withdrew. George received 240 votes and Ellis 116. Ila Mae West and Mary Cleaves Stenhouse were the candidates in the corresponding secretary revote. Ila Mae received 207 votes and Mary Cleaves 146.

The new SA officers were chosen in the first division of the spring elections, April 24.

Staff Assists Year's Activities

Beginning with the part it played in the Freshman Orientation program last fall, the Journalism class has, throughout the year, endeavored to play an active part in school activities and keep the students well informed through the Hi News and the Highlights in the Argus.

Out of a possible 1,000 points, the Hi News received 860 and a first place rating in the CSPA contest at Columbia University this spring. Last year it received 865 points.

The paper scored 200 points in make-up out of a possible 235, and 510 points in writing out of a possible 590. In general consideration, the paper received the highest rating—150 out of 175 points.

The ratings were given in terms of A, B, C, D, and E. Out of a possible 33 A's, the Hi News scored 10, one less than last year. A's were given on: well-balanced front page, effective story displays, harmonious and well spaced type, varied sizes and styles, avoidance of large heads close to bottom of page, fair news balance, omission of ads from editorial page, good make-up, original ad layouts, exclusion of complimentary ads, and students' pride in their school as shown in their paper.

The Hi News received a first place rating at the SIPA Convention in Lexington, Virginia, last fall.

Eight issues of the paper have been published, six issues coming out on days to play up various school activities: the Senior Play, Christmas, Defense, Nutrition Drive, Junior Play, and Commencement issues. It has continued the weekly Highlights column in the News-Argus during the school year. All pictures in the Hi News have been taken by the staff photographer.

The Most Representative contest was sponsored by the Hi News in the early spring.

21 DE Students Earn Large Sum

Over $4,000 has been earned by the 21 Distributive Education students in their various jobs during this school year, according to a report given by Miss Frances Bayne, teacher of the course.

These students may continue their jobs this summer, says Miss Bayne, because of the excellent work they have done for their employers.

The real value of this course, in Miss Bayne's opinion, does not lie in the money earned, but in the retail and wholesale training the students receive along with the experience of working with other people.

Miss Bayne will return next year, and she is hoping that the enrollment of her classes will be larger, for there are many possibilities for jobs in Goldsboro because of the defense program.

The Distributive Education students and the stores in which they work are: Geraldine Edmundson, Lucy O'Brien, and Emmett Daughtry at Woolworth's; Cornelia Grice, Juanita Person, Bill Stafford, La-Rose Whaley, and Edward Joyner at Kress'; Alma Griffin and Thelma Nichols at Belk-Tyler's; Grace Justice at Robinson's Drug Store; Helen Lancaster and Pearl Lee at Grant's; Mary Mitcham at Weil's; Bruce Davis at J. C. Penny's; Harold Hinson at Brown's Radio Service; Johnny Hodges at Johnson Wiring Company; Edward Mitchell at Crow's Cash Grocery; Orderly Moore and Edward Strickland at Efirds' Department Store; Robert Ward at Ward Grocery Company.
