

Introducing - - -

Mrs. Clarinda Britt, our Home Economics teacher who always has time to help someone, taught last year at Williams Street School.

She majored in Home Economics at Harrisburg State Teachers College in Virginia and was a member of the student Council and Page Literary Society.

To be a good housekeeper is Mrs. Britt's ambition and we know she's good at cooking fried chicken, coconut cake and hot rolls she likes so well. She states that her one dislike, among a lot of likes is strong perfume.

Mrs. Britt has been to Canada twice and has lived in Washington, D. C., Philadelphia and New York.

Mr. J. E. Britt, D.O. teacher, is her husband and they have one daughter, Peggy Ann. We know she is as good a wife and mother as she is a teacher.

That shy little man with the twinkle in his blue eyes, Mr. Eugene Roberts, has come to Goldsboro, seven miles from his birthplace, to teach printing, industrial arts, and journalism in GHS.

Mr. Roberts received his AB and AM degrees at Wake Forest, where he later taught for two years. At the Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky, UNC, and the University of Virginia, he took additional graduate courses.

Besides eight years of newspaper work, Mr. Roberts has taught four years at each of the following places: Lee Woodard High School, Black Creek, Virginia; Intermont College, Bristol, Virginia; and in the Wayne county schools.

"To make enough money to afford a saddle horse" is his ambition (Good thing to work for). And as for food (can you beat this?) sweet potatoes and cracklin's 'il do anytime.

Mr. Roberts is happily married, his wife teaching the sixth grade at William Street School, and he has two children, Gene, in the seventh grade, and Peggy in the third grade in Pikeville.

That peppy little teacher with that cute smile, who is seen so often down near the Biology Lab. is Miss Clytee Ward. After an absence of two years from Goldsboro High School, she is here again, teaching biology and general science.

Three years ago, she taught Sophomore English and Radio Broadcasting in GHS. Following that, she taught two years at William Street Grammar School.

Born in Tupelo, Mississippi, Miss Ward attended Winfield high school in Alabama, Randolph Macon College in Virginia and Alabama College, where she was on the Honor Council.

Her ambition was to be a doctor, but she has contented herself by teaching science instead.

Platter Chatter

Hi, music fans, here we are bringing you "platter chatter" for your "listening" and "dancing" pleasure. To start the melodies off with a question (as Always) we find Dave S. asking "Is You Is Or Is You Ain't My Baby?" to Marnie C.

Then those couples that are always Together, we dedicate the popular song by that name to: Joe J. and Ava C.; Max 'n Barbara.

Girls (and boys, too), have you heard that story about Long Ago And Far Away (well, not so far away). We're going to dedicate it to Goodie and "Liddy Bet", hopin' that Ray and Oscar will hear about it.

This next one goes for Betty M. and Ann B . . . to be remembered on certain occasions . . . "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes".

Oh, Cupid! Come to the rescue! I'll Walk Alone shouldn't be said by any girl these days . . . especially by Ruth E.

Don't Take Your Love From Me seems to be a favorite of lots of people. In case of any doubt ask the following: Bobby Denise, Gloria Gurganus . . . Oh, well, you'll find "oodles" of people listening to it on the Saturday night Hit Parade.

If Mazelle K. doesn't hurry and wake up, Charlie W. will be singing I Guess I'll Have to Dream the Rest.

Watch Frank D. grin when Mary Lou D. starts humming that little diddy, I'll Get By.

And now we come to the close of "Platter Chatter" . . . 'n until next issue, we say So Long for A While.

every second Friday).
