

School Band Works On Music For Its Concerts

Midwinter rehearsals for concert music have begun by the Goldsboro High School Band. The public can expect concerts in the near future.

A clarinet quartet composed of Billy Rouse, Lawrence Gurley, Charles Denning, and Bobby Wiggs, and a brass quartet made up of David Holder, Edward Broughton, Kermit Rose, and Worth Potter will play at the Bel-fast Parent Teachers Association meeting on January 25. The clarinet quartet will play Melodie Petite and the brass quartet, the Missouri Waltz.

The band will probably go to New Bern to the Shrine Convention on Jan. 28. Definite plans have not been made.

Michael Stroud's Santa came to see him Christmas morning in the form of a six piece band. We had been six several weeks before Christmas and wanted only to hear the band for his best present. Ronald Percise, Stewart Jones, Earl Radford, Worth Potter, David Summerlin, and Bobby Strickland played for him to make his Christmas dream come true.

The Developing Intellect

Looking over a March 15th, 1940 issue of our Goldsboro Hi News, I came across this, and thought you might be interested—not that "I couldn't think" up something this good but just happened to see it.

Word	Freshmen	Sophomores	Juniors	Seniors
A Blind Date	must be fruit	a sightless lover	something exciting	something to shun
Swing	something suspended from a tree by ropes	type of music	fun to listen to	"Let's dance"
Je t'aime	"I'll bite"	ain't English	must be French	I love you
GHS	deep, dark mystery	work	barrels of fun	"a part of me"
Cherokee	Indian word	tribe of Indians	swing song	Charlie Barnett
Break	something that stops a car	something that all girls want	changing of partners	social blunder
Literature	big little book	not under standable	vaguely interesting	Macbeth
Airport	place where plane lands	site of Sunday air shows	chasing cars	Woo-oo-oo
Nut	something to eat	a "cracked" person	all but me (2)	any junior
Movies	Mickey Mouse Club	balcony	dates	financial problem
Graduation	beyond me	reward for toil	It won't be long	sniff-sniff
Love	mush	it's possible	it's probable	it's got me

School Days Bother In Time Element

School days, school days, Dear old golden rule days. Readin' an' ritin', an' 'rithmetic Taught to the tune of the hickory stick . . .

Well the hickory stick is a little out-dated, but the rest still applies. There is one thing (among many others) that bothers me about school. That is the time element.

It just isn't right — the year beginning on January 1, and ending on December 31. That is, not for people who go to school. For the fortunate ones who do not it is probably okay. The year has to have a beginning and an ending and it might as well be that. But for us who have to go to school it is all wrong.

Here is my plan (probably by the time you read this the calendar industry will be revising calendars to fit it). The year should begin on September 7 (this date would be subject to

Style Wiles

Christmas just passed as you know, and it's an old American custom to give presents.

I'd been hoping that these gifts might be mentioned in "Style Wiles" but there is little hope. Some of the girls did get scatter pins and they look mighty pretty on those sweaters. Another fad is a shawl made of the same material as the skirt, and this worn around the shoulders.

Not only are the long swing black coats still popular but they are making rain coats that way, coming in patterns of lil' check and stripes and also plain colors. The new fangle kind can be worn three ways. Slits on each side is what provides this. See ya' next issue so — so long.

The proteus, a cave-dwelling salamander, turns black when exposed to light.

change according to the date school started on), and it would end on June 7 (this date would also be subject to change). See? Simple.

Summer? Well, that would just be a welcome interlude between the years.
