

Friendly, Helpful, That's Kay

One of the more outstanding seniors is tall, personable Kay Finch who is now secretary of the student body. This clamaxes the awards she has won since her freshman year.

When a freshman, Kay was a member of the debating club, was on the social committee, and won the Civitan Citizenship Award.

Kay is very active in dramatics, having taken part in three productions last year, and already appearing in two this year. She won the "I speak for Democracy" contest both her sophomore and junior years. Last year she reached the regional finals before losing out to Jeanne-Mann Dickinson, who later won the national contest.

She is a member of the Hi-Noc-Ar staff, having been elected her junior year. She was also elected to the Good Sports club that year and now holds the position of treasurer.

During her sophomore year she edited and assembled the Student Organization scrapbook, which won second place in the state. She was homeroom representative, a member of debating club, and a member of the social committee.

Kay was elected one of the twelve most outstanding seniors this year. She is active in church works, being a member of the First Baptist church. She also works in the afternoons and on Saturdays.

Pleasant, dependable, and never so busy that she doesn't have time to help you—that's Kay Finch.

'Madame' Joie? - Qui!

All is quiet around RMHS now that the second semester is well on its way, that is in every class but French I. For three months the whole class has been calling Joy Jones, Mademoiselle.

A few days ago one of the girls addressed Mademoiselle Craighill with, "We've got a new Madame. One besides Madame Marilyn Ezzle."

The whole class was thrown into utter confusion!

"Une autre Madame?"
"Oui!"
"Qui!"
"Mademoiselle Joie Jones!"
"Vraiment?" "Quand?"
"Since November," Joy told the class.

Miss Craighill, upon seeing her mistake, said to the whole class, "And here we've been calling her Mademoiselle for three months and she was a Madame the whole time. Triste, n'est-ce pas?"

Calling Cards Reveal Seniors' Full Names

Senior calling cards make conversation among the members of the class of 1952. Mr. Barbee, the ring and card man, has delivered the first batch of cards to a number of seniors and more will arrive before graduation.

Many seniors exchange their cards so they might be able to remember everyone who graduated with them. Another interest in seeing the cards is to find out the full names of many students who have never divulged them.

Philmore, RMHS President

In Student Organization meetings, Mr. Philmore Eugene Williams presides and Sheila Kay Finch calls the roll. William Cornelius Cooper is just listening as parliamentarian.

Tarmara Louise Jane Holliday was showing off her calling cards along with Charles Frederick Patton in fifth period journalism class. Bernard Harold Taylor, Jr. was "giving away" some in study hall. During band Edgar Glenn Bulluck was comparing cards with Colin Murray Sholar.

In basketball practice William Dudley Whitley and William Herridon Overton have been trying to "swipe" a card from Edgar Franklin Bandy. Rooting at every game can be seen Ethel Lois Shelton and Emily Inez Baker.

In the hall, one may meet Spencer Staton Edmondson, Jr., or Roy Glenn Capps. Melbourne Henry Pridgen is seen every day someplace around RMHS. Owen Vernon Williams is usually found in room 302 or backstage working.

'Well, Hi, Twin!'

"Does anyone in here have a birthday this month?" Mrs. Young asked her journalism class.

"I have." Tamara Holliday answered.

"Me too." responded Wilton Holliday.

"Mine's the 27th", drawled Sonny Hallford.

"It is?? Well, Hi, twin!!" said Tam to Sonny.

"This is a coincidence, having three birthdays, two on the same day and all three people having the same last initial." said Mrs. Young.

"How old will you be?"

"Seventeen." all three replied in unison.

Mrs. Young had quite a time trying to tame that class down as everyone wanted to wish the "Journalism Twins," Wilton, and all the February babies in school a very happy birthday.

BARBARA and BOBBITT

Hello there, we are back again to tell ya 'whot's happened' to the ole gang at RMHS since last issue.

People sho' have been going places lately. Betty Jean Spence has gone to State-George Washington and State-Duke games. Elva Griffin and Wayne Hux were going but 'things' interfered.

Emily Baker and Barbara Ann Moore won first place in the Kiwanis Talent Show for Edgecombe county. For this little item of dancing they split $100 and both of them get to go to New York. Our congratulations go to ya gals, Keep up the good work and rock New York while you are on Television.

It seems now that Charlie Putman is back and you can hear him again that everybody missed him. You sho' have got a good tan, Charlie! How about sharing it with the snow white people around RMHS?

Anna Day McDonald is going to Dunn in about two weeks. Just one little word Anna Kay, don't forget good ole Rocky Mount in all of your fun in Dunn!

A great big hearty welcome is handed to the new typing teacher, Miss Sanderson. We really do hope you like RMHS as we do.

Maybe you all know by now but if not, here goes. Fred Patton, our editor, whom you hardly ever hear from, was elected the Kiwanis Boy of the Month. The whole staff and school says, hats off to Fred, and keep up the good work!

It looks like Tuesday and Friday nights will be sort of dull now that there aren't many more games ahead. Maybe more of the nights will be taken up with good productions like 'Seven Keys to Ball-pate.' We hope so anyway.

The whole cast of the play enjoyed the party given in their honor at the Teenage Club. The play was a big success and all of the staff and Mrs. Kramer are really to be given a strong pat on the back from all of us.

Congratulations are in order for Christine Hufhan, for she won the Statewide presidency of the Y-Teen Club.

Next time the column comes out, we have a little surprise in store for ya. So until next issue keep right on thinking what it will be . . . Until 'then' we are your Around-the-Campus-gals—B & B.
