Projects For Funds To Decorate Lobby

"Get your fudge and seafoam candies, cup cakes, cookies and brownies" could have been the call of Good Sports members last week as they worked to raise money for Christmas decorations for the auditorium lobby.

Nancy Harlow, official candy maker, trudged from Janet Bulluck's home to Carol Wilson's and Linda Gail Pridgen's houses, stirring up batches of seafoam, the most popular article.

Every morning the girls put up a table in A building and sold the products for a nickel a package. Just about every student was seen munching on a piece of candy or cake in the morning and during lunch.

Profits from the sale were pleasing and helped the members raise sufficient funds for their annual Christmas projects. It has been customary for the Good Sports Club to sponsor the gaily lighted tree, huge enough in size to be seen plainly from the street. It is an attraction which not only students but the entire town may enjoy during the holidays.

Another project the club has taken on the raise money has been the selling of Curtis cookies in four different flavors — coconut, chocolate chip, butter finger and baby ruth. The club received $1.68 on each twelve boxes sold.

Lunch Staff Busy On Holiday Meals

Busy with Christmas meal preparations, Mrs. Grace Proctor, cafeteria director, said that plans for tomorrow and Thursday have not yet been completed but it is definite that turkey will not be served.

Among other lunches served by the cafeteria staff spaghetti proves to be the favorite meal of the students and hot dogs rate second in popularity, according to Mrs. Proctor.

"Donuts," says Phil Harris. "Spaghetti and hamburger" are among Carolyn Yount's favorites.

"Meat loaf and spaghetti" take first place with senior Pasty Daughtridge.

"Everybody enjoyed the turkey which was served on Veteran's Day," claims Vicki Taylor also a senior.

Besides the regular meals, fruit salads, sandwiches, hamburgers and deserts, such as cakes, cookies, candies and puddings, are prepared daily.

Edsonians Production Brings Praise As 600 Plus See 'Oh, Promise Me'

Performance of "Oh, Promise Me" brings praise from many of the more than six hundred people who attended the Edsonian's first production of the year, December 13.

Mrs. Ada Hobbs, director, was well pleased with the attendance of both the Thursday matinee and the Friday evening performances. "This is good for a high school play", she commented. "The play was well cast and all those who took part appeared to have enjoyed working on it," Mrs. Hobbs continued.

Principal C. M. Edson praised Mrs. Hobbs, the cast and the crew for the outstanding work they did in producing such a delightful play. He lauded the crew especially for the excellent set which included the use of wallpaper. According to Mrs. Hobbs, this was the first time paper has been used for a play set. Usually paint is preferred.

Thanksgiving holidays gave everybody the opportunity to have and to attend parties. It would take ages to name all of them so we'll just name a few.

"Puddie" Gold gave a big pajama party on November 8 for Andi Taub, her guest from Tampa, Florida. Around thirty wide-awake gals attended this party.

The Youth Council sponsored a big Thanksgiving dance in the cafeteria the night after Thanksgiving. The cafeteria was decorated appropriately, carrying out a theme of Thanksgiving with pumpkins, cornstalks, and autumn leaves. Among the alumni here these reporters ran into Freddy Fulcher, Roger Gregory, Joyce Harris, Judy Carr, Bruce Ethridge, Bunny Bell, Frank Wilkinson, and Kitty Thurman.

December 6 was a great day for the Edsonians. On that day they presented their first production of the year, "Oh Promise Me," before a large audience. After the Edsonian play, members of the cast had a party at the Teen-Age Club. The highlights of the party were the large cake, and the gifts to Mrs. Ada Hobbs, director. The gifts were two charms, one from the cast and one from the production staff.

COLLEGE EXAMS UNDERWAY

College Entrance exams drew many seniors to Raleigh on December 7. "They were AWFUL!" exclaimed Dorsey Daniels, Al Wordsworth, Judy Brown, Vickie Taylor, Craig Daughtridge, Henry Hinson, Gloria Gold, Allen Cronenberg, Anna Spruill, and Jerry Daley. They enjoyed the afternoon, though, when most of them did a little Christmas shopping.
