

RMSH Teachers Attend Convention

Mrs. Tweedy and Mrs. Hutchison attended a North Carolina Personnel and Guidance

Association Convention in Greensboro on March 4-6. The convention, which was entitled "Putting It Altogether" consisted of workshop sessions and a banquet. The convention began with registration at the Hilton Inn and several speakers on Sunday. Monday, the counselors attended workshops concerning various new educational concepts. Mrs. Tweedy attended a workshop on "Life Career Development Concepts" which was headed by Dr. Norman Gysbers, President of the National Vocational Guidance Association. Mr. Hutchison attended a workshop on "Changing Styles of Living and Learning" headed by Dr. James Mikelson and Dr. Joseph A. Gaston.

Following the workshop there was a banquet for the counselors and also for the presentation of special guests and the Ella Stephens Barrett Award. The convention was concluded at 12:30 P.M. on Tuesday.

Dramatics Honored For Outstanding Performance

The RMSH dramatics department has received several awards for outstanding performances of the play "Infancy".

Earlier this month the department received awards at the district drama fest held at Campbell College. During this fest the department won a district award and Ken Batchelor was especially honored to have won an acting award for his performance. The trip to Campbell College was the first step in the elimination for the state competition.

The Regional Drama Festival was held at Thompson Theatre on the campus of North Carolina State University at Raleigh on Saturday, March 10. Once again the department was given honors.

"Infancy" is a play written by Thornton Wilder. The cast is composed of Amy Maxwell, Becky Manning, Zack Perkinson, Kim Smith, and Ken Batchelor. The technical crew consists of J. B. Warren as stage manager, Susan Thompson and Pam Barringer on properties, and Bruce Jeans as general crew technician in charge of transportation. Tony Brabham, Tony Stone, Robert Ward and Deborah Harris are assistants. Several others students who participated in the play's success are Jerry Brabham, Andrea Branch, Janet Barkhouse, Nora Bullard, Jill Carpenter, Jeanne Dare, Daryl Frederick, Dawn Phunber, Lynn Scarbobo, Georgetta Sharmin, Steve Thomas, Bonnie Taylor, Pam Watson, and Beverly Whitehurst.

The coach was graduated from RMSH in 1960 and furthered his education at East Carolina. He majored in health and physical education and minored in history.

Before coming to RMSH he taught for two years at Jefferson High in Roanoke, Virginia and for one year at New Bern High School.

Here at RMSH coach Harris taught world cultures. Also, he is well known for the dedication he put into his work as a football and wrestling coach.

Coach Harris and his wife, Sandra, will be moving their family; Philip, six years old, Heather, four years old, and Larry, three years old, to Wilmington at the first of next month.

RMSH would like to take this opportunity to thank Coach Harris for all the happiness he has brought to the school; for his cheerful face has brought many a smile to his students' faces. Also, RMSH students want Coach Harris to know that he will never be forgotten and that they wish him all the luck in the world with his new job.

Coach Harris Leaves RMSH For New Job In Wilmington

RMSH regrets to say it is losing another fine coach and teacher. Coach Phil Harris, who is well known and liked throughout the student body, will be leaving RMSH on March 30.

Coach Harris will be leaving his teaching post to accept a job at Hardee's in Wilmington. His reason for leaving is that he felt his new job offered a better financial opportunity.
