Cooperative Training Class Offers Office Training

Attention girls! Are you interested in a good business-world training? Look into the Cooperative Training class taught by Mrs. Winstead during fifth and sixth periods.

This year, eleven girls are gaining splendid training by working on job stations around RMSH; two for Coach Carter (Driver's Education), two in the library, one for Mr. Hines, one for Mr. Pache, two in the Main Office, and two in the classroom who do clerical work for the Superintendent's Office, besides for the Main Office. Debbie Gill, Nancy Stilly, Toni Capps, Angela Woods, Sandra Edwards, Grace Dortch, Donna Joyner, Ginger Barnhill, Althea Jones, Denise Mitchell, and Mary Pullen work in the above job stations Tuesday through Thursday during sixth period. On Mondays and Fridays, the girls remain in room 102 filing, studying general office work and dress, and working with business machines such as electrical calculators and adding machines. Data processing machines are not available as of yet, however, a data processing course is offered.

Requirements to take the course are of simple character. One must fill out an application in the spring before next year. Also required is the completion of Typing I or Typing II, and an Accounting course is advised. Up to twenty girls are accepted for the two-credit, two-hour course.

Field trips planned include an insight on filing at CO-E-CO (Carolina Office Equipment Company) and United Federal. People's Computer Center provides an excellent example of data processing. Sign up now!

RMSH Chorus Goes to ACC

The RMSH Chorus, led by Mrs. Battle, has been invited to attend an Honors Choir Festival held at Atlantic Christian College in Wilson. It will begin on March 30 at 9:30 on Saturday morning and last until 3:00 that afternoon. Our Chorus is privileged to attend this workshop for top rated choruses and High School students in the Eastern District. This will also be an excellent opportunity for these students to get acquainted with ACC. The Gryphon Staff would like to congratulate these Chorus students and are sure that they will represent our school well.

Energy Crisis Takes Effect

Have you joined a car-pool? It has become quite a common thing at RMSH during these gas shortage days. Just the other day on my way to school, I was annoyed by a strange rattling noise beside me. I turned my head, only to view a jalopy volkswagen putting down the road. I waved at the driver, Pam Costen, for she is a good friend of mine, and I smiled as I took the curve. Not a moment later, I took a second glance - also in the car were two well-known teachers of our school conserving energy - by carpool transportation!

Those of us who go out for lunch know the gas situation well. As cars drive up to the Dairy Queen, Sunset Pharmacy, Hardee's, and other "dining locations" one sees an overpopulation of humans emerge from an economized car coming from the direction of RMSH. One after the other they file out quietly - because a groan means no ride home!

Of course, there are some enthusiasts who walk or ride bicycles to school. Tim Howard, Brian Nichols, and other students conserve gasoline in this way. These students set an example for the entire nation. I've also seen a very ecology-minded grown-up who rides her smog-free vehicle everyday - one of our own librarians, Mrs. Bailey! (Obviously, she conserves gas after sunset, too, because she has a fluorescent orange jacket that she wears and a fluorescent orange flag for her bicycle!)

If you look around our city or our school, you will notice that even though a gas shortage is present, people find a way to get where they must go, whether it be "Ol' Bessy", "Pat and Charlie", a new Suzuki or a faithful 10-speed!

For some reason, the gas shortage does not affect RMSH school spirit! Our teams, especially our fantastically successful basketball team, have been well-supported at most of the out-of-town games. February 28, March 1, and March 2, buses were chartered for the State Tournament Playoffs, however, several cars journeyed to Greensboro for the Playoffs, also.

Boosters Create Spirit

Did you see our basketball players "pinned to the wall?" The posters hanging in the student lounge, the lobby, and the main office hall during the Tournament and State playoffs were sponsored by the Booster Club of RMSH.

Throughout the school year, 1973-74, the Booster Club has striven to create better school spirit and to give more recognition towards athletics such as football, wrestling, and basketball.

During football season, schedules were designed in the shape of footballs with changeable dates and opponents' names. Wrestlers were honored with posters praising them and inviting students to their matches. And the basketball posters seemed to be a "smash hit!"

Presently the club is engaged in assisting the boy's and girl's track teams in keeping the scores, times, and order of events.

The GRYPHON staff honors the Booster Club this month for its tremendous and successful efforts in the past and for those to come!
