MISS HOOKER'S DEFINITION of a lady:

- "If she tells you, she means maybe;
- "If she says maybe, she means yes;
- "If she says yes, she isn't a lady."

In 8.30 STUDY HALL, "Bo" McCall had his chair propped back on two legs. The whole study had been buzzing with a busy sound when suddenly "Bo" fell on the floor with a crash. He lay there with a dazed look on his face, and Mr. Hatley glanced up from his work and said:

"Well, if you people want to lie on the floor, I'll gladly remove all the chairs."

HENRY SAFRIT was the newly elected president of the 11.95 English Club.

Henry: "I'm in favor say 'I'.
Everyone said 'I'.
Henry: 'All opposed say 'no'.
Everyone said 'no'.
Henry: 'The 'I's have it."

ALTHOUGH SCHOOL HASN'T BEEN in full swing very long, Miss Moore is quite proud of her students; at least she was until last night.

It was Friday afternoon and the end of a perfect week. Most of her students had been smart that week, but a few—"Oh, well, that was to be expected," sighed Miss Moore. Then upon the scene came a smart little lad with very much imagination and with a question mark had been worrying him for quite awhile.

"Miss Moore," he said, "I want you to tell me something. . . Just what kind of liquid is in those bottles that preserves the specimens?"

Suddenly, before she could speak, he answered him, "I know! It's 'no'! Surely it must be vinegar."

(Secret) Everybody knows it is Formaldehyde.

CHARLIE HESTER S. was so excited when the policeman asked his name he said Harlie Chester.

4.30 A.M. AND HOOCHIE AND SAM A. Buck Mc., Wheatie Mc., and "Fat" M. just coming home. Why? Well, it's like this, "Hoochie took his car to Lewistown. He didn't tell anyone. Hoochie doesn't want it told because the boys will tease him.

THOUGHTS ABOUT THE WAR MANEUVERS

Eric C.—Um-m-m! That's all right.

Mazel H.—Straight as a glock, Viola H.—We gals are a-doin' all right.

Ann G.—Wish they'd surround Ann Marie.

Henri C.—Dumbest boys I've ever seen.

Miss Hooker:—The more the better. We're studying Boston, Mass., as hard as we can.

"Vets" G.—They're beatin' my time.

Norman T.—Oh, me! I'll be glad when they're whatever, so I can get them.

Bill R.—Maneuvers? What are they?

Students And Bulldogs In High Spirits To Win Over Barium Springs Tonight

"Here's to the variety!"

In the brilliant light of a big bonfire last night, enthusiastic students of A. H. S. filled the air with victory cheers for the Bulldogs in preparation for the game tonight with Barium Springs.

Pep talks by Coach De Lotto, members of the student body and the faculty were given, accompanied by yells and songs by the entire group.

A member of the police department led the parade, headed by the school band, which started in front of the school. Students, marching in the band, were waving banners and placards on broomsticks, bearing such slogans as: "Beat Barium," "Bite 'em, Bulldogs," "Bury Barium," and "Our Team is Red Hot."

When the parade reached the Square, more speeches, yells and songs were given, and the band was playing its liveliest. The public address system was used for the speeches.

Between 1,500 and 2,000 handbills bearing the date and time of the game have been handed out. Post cards have been sent to graduates announcing the game and urging them to see it.

The biggest section ever to be roped off will be reserved for the students and the school colors, blue and white, will be carried out to the last detail.

The Boosters Club has laid plans for the "A" to be formed in the bleachers by students holding cardboard, if possible. The Club also wishes to urge every student to sit in the bleachers reserved for the students, and—

"Here's to the variety! Long may it reign supreme!"

P-T-A's Combine For Year's Work

Albemarle high school and the Central Elementary school have combined their Parent-Teacher associations, since there was such a small number that attended the meetings of the high school last year.

The meetings will be held at the Central Elementary school on third Thursday of every month, with the high school furnishing a program for every other meeting.

Since most of the parents who usually attend these meetings have children in the elementary school and the high school, it is believed that the combining of the associations will be suitable to them, and they will have only one meeting each month to attend.

President of the association is Mrs. Duncan Allan, vice president is Mrs. Claude Grigg; secretary is Mrs. P. H. Carlton; and treasurer is Mrs. Loy Gualledge.

Boosters Advise Game and Operetta

Projects already in progress by the Boosters' Club are publicity for the Home-coming Game and for the operetta, "Lelawala."

The club is taking an active part in advertising for the Albemarle-Barium Springs game and doing its best to have large crowd present to witness it.

The game will be played at the Albemarle athletic field tonight, at 8.

"Lelawala," an operetta to be presented by Mr. Fry's chorus groups, is also being boosted by the club.

The Boosters' Club Members are making posters to put in the downtown store windows. Handbills will be put in cars and a contest is to be held for ticket-selling. The first winner of the club for the operetta is "Full house."

Seniors Order Rings

Members of the senior class have given Mr. Bill Eise, representative of L. G. Balfour Company, Attleboro, Mass., an order for class rings.

The stone is blue, (inel) with the high school engraved on one side and the college, school mascot, on the other.

One hundred and two rings were ordered, which is less than last year because of the smaller classes this year.

The rings are expected to be here by December 1, but another order will be sent in January 2.

Annual Will Not Be Published This Year

"Crossroads," the A. H. S. annual, will not be published this year, school authorities have announced.

It was hoped last year that the annual could be published for about the same price as the senior edition of "The Full Moon," but as it turned out, the annual cost over twice as much. It takes approximately five hundred dollars to publish the senior edition. It took almost five hundred dollars to publish the annual. About two hundred annuals were sold last year; hence the school went in the debt. For that reason it seems unwise to attempt the publication of another annual.

Student Council Attends Meeting In Charlotte

Members of the Albemarle High School Student Council are attending the annual convention of the high school student councils held in Charlotte today and tomorrow. Bill Rogers, Frank Little, and Joan Lentz, official delegates, with Reed Gaskin, will spend the night in order to attend the business part of the convention tomorrow. Following adjournment today, there will be a banquet, followed by a football game and an informal Halloween party.

The general topic for discussion today is "Student Council Problems."

Tomorrow's business will include selection of a topic for next year's meeting, the choice of a meeting place, and election of officers.

Students Observe Chemicals In Use

Miss Milling recently took her students down to see in actual life the different subjects they had been studying in class.

They went to the hospitals to study oxygen and its uses in the mending and saving of human life. The classes went to the auto repair shops to study oxygen and other gases in the use of metal.

They also went to the fire department to see the use of chemicals in fire extinguishing.

The pupils gained much valuable knowledge and it may be said that this unusual type of tutoring was more than successful.

Plays For Year Are Completed

Now that all members of the cast have been chosen, practice for "Lelawala," the three-act dramatic operetta which the chorus and dramatic classes are planning to present during the latter part of November, is being held every night under the direction of Miss Fitzgerald and Mr. Fry.

Members of the cast are: Wakom's, Claude Furr; Klawom's, Charles Whiteley; Lelawala, Viola Hudson; Marcepoet, Sam LaRue; Hintoia, Ann Sides; Sowans, Leroy Boone; Shungela, Charles Kincaid; Vacouty, Colonel Austin; Wanhebe, Craig Eury; Wanyeya, Betty Jean Wolfe; Naponee, Lois Underwood; Nanyee, Max Crawford; Majo Wallace, Everett Ford; Mabel, Anne Reep; Captain Bliss, Benjamin Bennett; Charinda Bond, Helen Lower; Sergeant Bilks, Charles Hester Smith; and Dot Tatler, Colmide Almond.

Music in "Lelawala" was arranged by Charles Wakefield Cadman. The book and lyrics by George Murray Brown.

Students Enter Essay Contest

Many students of Albemarle High School have entered the essay contest on "Fire Prevention," which is being conducted by the city fire Department.

Prizes are as follows: First prize, $5.00; second prize, $2.00 in trade at Moose's Haberdashery; and third prize, five tickets to the Alameda theater. The judges are one member of the Chamber of Commerce, one member of the Fire Department and an ex-teacher of Albemarle.

Results of the contest will be announced Tuesday, according to Mr. McFadyen's report.

Band Will Wear Uniforms Tonight

Band uniforms, donated by the Albemarle high school band by the Albemarle High School, will be worn tonight when the band plays for the home-coming game with Barium Springs.

The Band, wearing their uniforms, led the students who came to the game last night down to the Square, where the students led cheers and songs, and music was given by the band.

There are blue and white uniforms, made military style, with white stripes down the side and a white belt and strap. Sam-White style, over the shoulder.

By Their Words

"I ain't talking to nobody. I'm talking to myself!" Hoochie Morgan.

"Mathematics is necessary for physics," said Hester Smith.

"I'm so hungry that every time I draw a deep breath my stomach growls."

"Charlie, children should be seen and not heard, and speak only when spoken to by your elders."—Miss Polston to Charlie Hester Smith.

"We have a black girl's purse that was found in 10:10 study hall."—Mr. McFadyen.

"Give two girls to one book."—Mr. Fry.

ATTEND MUSIC MEETING

Misses Anyce Wunningham, piano teacher, and Helen Cunningham, school music teacher; Mr. Barbara, band instructor, and Paul Fry, choral director, attended the State Music Teachers' Meeting at W. C. U. N. C., Greensboro, last Monday.

Plans for state contests and clinics were made. The meetings were led by nationally-known musicians.
