

Teachers, Found Guilty of Theft, Are Sentenced!

Annuals On Sale This Afternoon

Pictures of every student in the 1947 annual, "Bulldog Squeaks," on sale this afternoon in the "Full Moon" office. The annual, which is bound in genuine leather, will sell for fifteen cents a copy. Many students have complained that this is a little high since there will be only fifty pages of pictures. Editor of "Bulldog Squeaks" is Joel Morton. Joel was chosen for this job because it required so much after-school work and since he practically lives at school.

The '47 annual is dedicated to McFadyen. For each of the superlatives there are full page pictures. A number of these are Betty Anderson, most serious girl, Faye Carlton, most ignorant, and Jack Harris, most unlikely to succeed. The sports editor of the annual is Paul Lowder, chosen for his extensive knowledge of all sports. He is also "athlete of the year." Pictures of the faculty were used by the annual's staff on grounds that they would have a demoralizing effect on the stu-

An award of $100 will be given to the winner in a contest to determine who is the most untiring talker of the school. Bets are being placed on Sue Culp, Nancy Hearne, and Mattie Barringer. Many, however, feel that Joe Whitley or Dan Talbert will out-talk even these.

Beginning today, juniors and seniors are to be allowed one afternoon cut from classes a week. Special permission, however, has been given to Frank Speight, De Bernie Austin, Gene Harrington, and Faye Johnson to cut three times a week because of their high scholastic grades.

In consideration of the hard work they have done all year, the students will be given one week for the Easter holidays, announced Mr. Grigg today.

Seniors will be allowed to take their exams one week earlier in May because they will need to practice for commencement and to rest up for other festivities.

No copies will be sold after this afternoon due to the limited number of copies available.

Summer School to be Held At Carolina Beach In June

Summer school this year will be held by well-known actors and actresses at Carolina Beach during the month of June. Those students who are fortunate enough to fail their work will have the privilege of making up this summer at the beach. There will be absolutely no cost to the students, since the school is paying all expenses. Some of the swankiest hotels will lodge those enrolled in the school. The only restrictions on students will be that they get up by the time the sun rises, since lessons will not begin until after lunch, the mornings will be free for sleep. Yvonne de Carlo, beautiful Hollywood actress, is scheduled to give instructions on "How to Live an Even Suntan" to any interested students. Swimming lessons will be given by Esther Williams and Andrews. Incidentally, most of the classes will be held outdoors. Bacall and Humphrey are planning to give help-ful hints, and Peter Law-

Ingrid Bergman is scheduled to give driving lessons to the boys, and John Payne will teach the girls. New convertibles will be provided for this class.

Singing lessons are being arranged under the direction of Dick Haymes and Dinah Shore.

Bowling, a popular beach sport, will be taught by Alan Ladd. He will be assisted in this work by Joan Caulfield.

The evenings at the beach are to be spent in recreation after a day of mind-wracking work, previously described, unless some of the more ambitious students are interested in taking dancing or dating lessons.

Rita Hayworth and Van Johnson will teach the dancing lessons. Harry James' orchestra has been engaged to furnish music for the classes.

Jane Russell and Errol Flynn have agreed to give instructions on dating to any students who feel that they are not quite masters of the art.

After a student has made up his required units, he will be allowed to return home for a nice long rest.

Entire Faculty is Sentenced to From Five to Ten Years in State Penitentiary for Stealing—Peebles is Granted Clemency.

Teachers of Albemarle high school were today found guilty of continuous theft after a long and arduous trial which has lasted for several weeks.

The entire faculty, with the exception of Miss Mary A. Peebles, was sentenced to not less than five and not more than ten years in the state penitentiary. Miss Peebles will pay a small fine and spend three months in the local jail.

Having nothing to say for themselves, the defendants were quietly led from the courtroom by heavily armed guards.

During this trial the prosecuting students, represented by attorney Gerald Chandler, produced evidence that the teachers had been stealing from them. Among the things taken were comic books, dice, marbles, pea shooters, candy, and enormous amounts of gum. Although the teachers had been warned time and again, they continued to steal without mercy from their helpless pupils. Indignant parents demanded that the case be taken to court, where it has now been in progress three weeks.

Albemarle Will Have University

Plans have been completed and preparations are now being made for the new University of Albemarle announces Mr. Fry, president and promoter.

This is a great improvement over the college center now being held at the high school. Buildings will be erected on the football field, tennis courts, vacant lot, and over the few surrounding blocks.

The high school and university will be closely related. There will be no other school of this type in the world.

The instructors for the university have been chosen from the faculty of the high school. This school will rate with Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Duke, Carolina, and Wingate.

Four-year courses in law, medicine, engineering, and many other lines are to be offered.

The math department is headed by Professor Caughman with Professors Michael and Beaver associates. All courses from arithmetic to solid analytics will be taught here.

R. C. Hatley is professor of science with Professor Warren handling the biology. Professor Hatley is also head of the joke telling class, which will meet six days a week.

This will be the only school in the United States where English is not to be taught. Mrs. Fry will spend her time trying to keep up with Mr. Fry and Mrs. Peiffer prefers to coach the girls' yo-yo team.

Winfred Van Buren Plyler, Jr., one of the cleverest criminal lawyers in the south, was called in to defend the teachers. Mr. Plyler put forth such efforts to prove the defendants innocent that he is now suffering from a nervous breakdown in a secluded sanatorium.

Judge David Gaddy summed up the case by saying, "The theft was bad enough, but the fact that the teachers had later used the loot for their own enjoyment made the crime particularly reprehensible."

The prosecution had proven conclusively that Mrs. Chrisco and Miss Spears had been seen standing on a street corner chewing gum which their pupils had supplied.

Professors Wilson, Peiffer, Fry and McFadyen had been discovered on their knees in the dark room throwing dice, while Mr. Morris, Mr. Hatley, and Mr. DeLotto were found hiding in the bookroom reading the comic books.

The jury was composed of Frances Austin, Peggy Almond, Ruby Morris, Lamar Bowers, Harvey Furgeson, Bobby Donaldson, Bobby Morton, Sue Culp, Charles Morris, Johnny Andrew, Jake Sides, Eugene Earnhardt.

the direction of Professor Maxwell et ses maitresses. Everything but English will be taught.

The library of some 10,000 books will be managed by Prof. Holbrook.

Coach M. J. DeLotto, already at work, has his football team in tiptop shape. He states that next fall he can win the Southern Conference, the Rose Bowl and have enough left over to win the Sugar
