

Many A.H.S. Alumni In College Choirs

Mr. Paul Fry's diligent choral work at the high school has shown fine results, as A. H. S. is well represented in college choirs.

Henry Forest, majoring in music at Catawba, is singing in the Catawba choir and was also chosen as a first tenor for the men's octet. This same octet recently sang in Raleigh on the program of the N. C. Federated Woman's Club.

Singing second soprano in the choir at Mars Hill College and studying voice privately, is Gaynelle Chandler. She had planned to take a liberal arts course until the head of the voice department and the dean urged her to become a music major.

Another music major is Barbara Smith, who is a member of the Flora McDonald choir.

Dick Hedden did not limit his musical talent to singing. In addition to singing in the choir at Clemson College, he is playing in the band and dance orchestra.

Sara Skidmore, Kathleen Hudson, and Catherine Taylor, student nurses at Presbyterian Hospital, are members of the nurses' choir, which is directed by John Holliday of Queens College faculty.

Three A. H. S. graduates have been reported as members of the W. C. U. N. C. choir and four as members of the Wake Forest choir. Martha Moore, Mary Helen Cooper, and Connie McLain are the Albemarle choristers at W. C.

Also reported as members of college choral groups are the following A.H.S. alumni: Jo Fox, Duke; Bill Ridenhour, Lenoir Rhyne; Jane and Jean Bullock, Appalachian State Teachers College; Jerry Lowder, N. C. State; Jenece Lowder, U. N. C.; Conrad Crotts, Cincinnati Conservatory of Music; Betty Boone and Norma Bogle, Pfeiffer.

It is probable that there are many other former Albemarle high students taking part in college choral organizations, but no definite reports on them have been obtained.

Delegates Will Attend Rally

District F.H.A. clubs will hold their annual rally at Oakboro on Saturday, November 11. Delegates from the Albemarle unit plan to attend.

The program will include a talent show, a moving picture, and then a lunch served in the gym at the high school.

After lunch a report will be given by those who attended the national convention held in Kansas City. The program will be closed with a ritual service.

NATURE CHRISTMAS TREE—Topped by a starfish, and gleaming in all its pre-season splendor, is the Nature Christmas tree which won for the Albemarle high school biology students second place in the show at Rock Hill, S. C., and first place in the natural history classification. Shown decorating the tree are Darrell Frick, Betty Ruth Russell, and Neil Whitley, members of the committee which carried the tree to the show. All ornaments and presents are made from natural objects.

Biology Class Exhibit Wins Recognition At S. C. Fair

Winning first place in the biology division and second place in the grand prize competition at the York County Fair held in Rock Hill, S. C., on October 12 was the natural Christmas tree exhibited by the A. H. S. biology department.

Dyed egg shells, acorns seeds, starfish, July fly skins, sweet gum balls, and buckeyes served as tree decorations, and presents, which were also made from various types of plant and animal life, were placed under the tree.

The Fair, which was sponsored by the National Museum in Rock Hill, S. C. was primarily for South Carolina schools. Albemarle, however, was one of the few outside schools invited.

Farrell Mann, Darrell Frick, Betty Ruth Russell, and Neil Whitley, accompanied by Mrs. Lyke, their teacher, were the members of the biology department attending the fair.

Winners In Show

Anne Whitlock, Julie Ussery, and Martha Rae Harris were the repeated winners in the flower show held by the biology department on October 12.

The different flower classes that were judged were mixed wild flowers, dish gardens, min-
