

Here and There

JUST BEFORE THE TAPPING of the honor society, Helen Harwood asked the following question:

"Are you eligible for the honor society, Doug?"
"Is a Pope a Baptist?"—asked Doug Knotts.

THIS LITTLE INCIDENT happened in chemistry class the other day.

Mr. Hatley: "Take the next one, Elizabeth." (meaning Frances Wingate).

Frances: "That's my mother's name."

Mr. Hatley: "Yes, but I never taught your mother."

DURING FIELD DAY Jimmy Crisco was heard to say: "Paddy is sure to win the potato race."
"Yes," replied "Tub" Russell, "we will probably have those same potatoes in the cafeteria Monday."

ONE CHILLY AFTERNOON in the drug store Joe Whitley was heard to say: "I'm cold. Are you, Sidney?"

"Yes," came the bright remark from Sidney Helms, "I'm Sidney."

THE OTHER DAY during a discussion of summer clothes Frankie Williams said: "I don't have any shorts for this summer."
"I don't have any either!" replied Joe W.

IT SEEMS AS THOUGH everything happens at senior play practice. Just the other night Kenny Brown was heard to say: "Joe, I believe this ice cream has a bug in it."

"Well, what do you care?" replied Joe Whitley. "You can eat it faster than the bug."

DURING THIRD PERIOD STUDY hall this conversation was overheard.

F. A. Newton: "Dot, did you know that fig newtons were named after my great-great-grandfather?"

Dot Gaskin: "Why, no! I thought fig newtons were named after figs, not nuts."

GEORGE CAUSBY WAS ESPECIALLY interested in Jane Rogers's health one morning.

George: "How are you feeling today, Jane?"
Jane R.: "I feel just fine, thank you."

George: "Let me feel."

MRS. FRY'S ENGLISH class was dividing the Canterbury Pilgrims into their social classifications, and there was some disagreement about several of them. Frank Eford came up with this bright remark:

"I think the miller would be in the class of pheasants too."

Crotts and Cook Win First Prize

Mona Rae Crotts and Ellen Cook won first prize in high school exhibits at the science fair held at Eastern Carolina Teachers' college for "Exploring the Animal Kingdom," their biology exhibit consisting of clay models.

Second place was won by Betty Haire for her plant collection entitled "Plant Pastimes".

Carl Parker First AHS Council Head

When the students go to the polls on May 15, it will be to choose the fourteenth president and slate of officers for the Student Council of Albemarle high school.

Carl Parker was elected the first president of this new organization. Other officers that served in the 1937-1938 term were Lee Copple, vice-president, Mary Lee Contrell, secretary, and Jane Turner, treasurer. This year, interest ran high among the students due to the newness of the new group.

The next president was Bill Mann. He was elected in the spring of 1938 with Pauline Beaver, Lafayette Blackwell, and Virginia Gilliam to serve with him for the '38-'39 term of school.

When election day rolled around again Jack Castevens was the students' choice for president to serve the school

Senior Play Huge Success

Home Ec. Students Hold Kindergarten

As a culmination of a unit on Child Development from birth to three years of age, the home economics students last week held a week's kindergarten for children from two to five.

The purpose of having the kindergarten was to give the girls an opportunity to observe and participate in the care of children.

A morning and an afternoon session were held, attended by approximately twenty children ranging in age from two to five years old.

Activities for the children consisted of free play, drawing and crafts, outdoor play, and stories told by the girls. Refreshments of milk and juices were served.

Trudie Weaver received honorable mention for her project, "The Vertebrate Study", which was the mounted skeletons of an alligator, a bird, and a fish.

Projects were judged on originality, scientific thought, processes and principles, thoroughness, technical skill, clarity, and dramatic value.

First prize was ten dollars and second prize was five dollars.

To Be Presented Tonight For Last Time At School

Mother is a Freshman, a three-act comedy under the direction of Miss Inez Bankett, will be presented by the senior class tonight at 8:00 o'clock for the last time. Before a packed house, the actors last night gave their first performance, which was termed an overwhelming success.

An admission of fifty and seventy-five cents is being charged and the proceeds will be given by the seniors for a gift to the school.

The characters are: Abigail, Virginia Brown; Susan, Ann Taylor; Mrs. Miller, Jane Little; Sylvia, Jane Rogers; Bunny, Jane Smith; Helen, Angela Moncrief; Carrie, Lib Elder; Clara, Helen Harwood; Marge, Lois Lowder; Bobo, Kenny Brown; Jack, Frank Eford; Howie, Sidney Helms; Bill, Lewis Hinson; Dean Gillingham, Don Woolly; and Professor Michaels, Joe Whitley.

The plot centers around the college campus where a freshman mother takes advantage of a scholarship to help send her sophomore daughter thru college. Although neither knows it both are in love with the same galant professor and are working

Register May 8-9; Council Elections Scheduled May 15

Registration for the election of new officers for the student body will be Tuesday and Wednesday, May 8 and 9.

The study hall and lobby will be used for registration, and all students are urged to register since it is necessary to do so to vote in the election. The election committee consists of Carolyn Williams, chairman; Nell Hatley, "Whit" Whitley, William Litaker, Joe Gaskin, and Claud Grigg. One of these persons will be on duty each period Tuesday and Wednesday to register those planning to vote.

The nominees and their campaign managers will give campaign speeches in assembly Friday, May 11.

Voting will take place May 15. In order to vote, students must return to the place where they registered.

Conventions for the election of nominees were held yesterday. The rooms were re-numbered so that the grades would be divided equally, half at Central school and half here.

The following home rooms met at Central and were presided over by William Litaker, vice-president of the student body: Mrs. Fry, Miss Harrison, Mr. Hatley, Mr. Wood, Miss Misenheimer, Mrs. Morris, Mrs. Westerland, Mrs. Hunt, Mr. Fry, Mrs. Lynn, and Mrs. Ivey.

The home rooms meeting here and presided over by Charles Litaker were: Mr. Price, Mr. Jeffords, Mrs. Lyke, Miss Michael, Miss Bankett, Miss Caldwell, Miss Schell, Miss Kyzer, Mr. Wilson, and Mrs. Saunders.

These committees had not been complete at the time this went to press.

The ushers, who were elected by the senior class, are Martha Griffith and Charles Litaker, heads; Lillian Copley; Myra Davis, Carolyn Akers, Jo Ann Burrell; Charles Whitley; John Harwood, Don Wagner, and Malcolm Lowder.

By Their Words

"Woman was created from a bone from man's side, not a bone from his head to be his master, not a bone from his foot to be stepped on, but a bone from his side to be his companion."—Rev. Brooks.

"I'll be out of class for ten minutes, but I'll be back in a second."—Miss Harrison.

"If you don't like it, you can just get out and I'll walk."—Sid Helms.

"Dad-gum, I hope I never have mumps again."—John Reap.

"Mr. Price comes to play practice to give us moral support."—Miss Bankett.

"Your marriage is not on trial, but is for a lifetime."—Mr. J. B. Morris.
