Here and There

"WORLD HISTORY IS simple; the same things happen over and over," Mr. Robinette told his sociology class.

"Why Mr. Robinette, you know the boys wouldn't drag the girls around by the hair like cavemen did!" objected Dixie Schadt.

"Ha, no telling what these bobby soxers would do nowadays," was the quick reply.

MULEHEAD ASKED L. P., "Do you like pigtailed?"
L. P.: "Yea, tell me one!"

MISS ABRAHAMSEN WAS teaching the creation of her Bible I class.

"When was God created?" she questioned, expecting the answer that God is eternal and was never created.

"On Monday," blurted out Joe Madrin.

MR. ROBINETTE SEEMED to be thoroughly enjoying a tootsie-roll during sociology the other day.

Mr. Robinette: "What does scope mean?"

Johnny Hall: "What's that? Greek."

Ben Treece: "Nope, that's chocolate."

AFTER FINISHING WITH a joke, Mr. Pendergraft said, "There are certain days when I feel like starting off with a joke."
Otty Lynn: "Yea, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday."

SYLVIA DOBY (EXPLAINING an algebra problem to Doris Hinson) "Put-put-put-put-(she stuttered)."

Doris: "Don't leave me now!"

COULD IT BE true that love knows no direction? Dan and Ann were walking up the steps from first to second floors.

Dan: "Where are you going this period?"

Ann: "Chemistry," and she continued on her way only to have the truth dawn on her at the top of the stairs, "Oh!" was the shriek heard as she raced toward the basement.

JOHN DAVID HAD the oddest look on his face after he had made the remark, "I've never cut myself shaving," and Margaret popped up with, "Neither time?"

LARRY LISK WAS asked this more or less embarrassing question the other day, "Why don't you shave?"

Larry answered, "I think I'll just grow a beard. I'd rather be a goat than 'Rat' anyway."

WHAT ATTENDS ALBEMARLE high school?

As three boys in the freshman class were being introduced to a newcomer, this was heard, "I'd like you to meet, 'Rat,' 'Roach,' and 'Weiner.'"

BOBBY JOSEY MADE this ghastly error while introducing the lineup for the Kannapolis game: "Otty Lynn, No. 28, rear end. Correction—right end."

WHILE DISTRIBUTING WORK for the Full Moon, Oattie suggested, "Put Johnny Hall on the typing staff."

Mrs. Fry: "Can he type?"

Oattie: "I don't know!"

DURING THE LAST minute rush, Jo Ann was overheard saying, "Dan, I love you."

Dan's face brightened as he exclaimed, "Really!"

"Yea, do you have an extra Here and There?"

OVER THE LOUD chattering of the 2nd period French students Mr. Pendergraft's voice was heard, "I've called three names and no one has answered to their name yet."

"I answered," blurted Oattie Lynn.

"When?" Mr. Pendergraft inquired.

"Oh, about three names later."

State Council Meeting Opens Sunday

Junior Councils, High School Clubs Help With Plans

Playing an important part in the success of the State Student Council Congress of North Carolina will be the A.H.S. clubs. The plans as stated by Mrs. Lyke are: Booster's club will have charge of transportation, Honor Society will find lodging for delegates, the Sunday night supper will be prepared by the Home Economics department, and the Mechanical Drawing classes will have charge of maps and signs directing delegates from place to place.

The following committees and chairmen have been appointed also — welcome, Sue Whitley; registration, Frances Ross; transportation, John Ellington; housing, Claud Grigg; signs and directions, Bryce Luther; properties, David Grigg; information and lost and found, Carrie Eudy; and lounge, Larry Chance.

Assisting with details of the banquet are the following schools and their student councils: programs, Central West; banquet screens, West Albemarle; napkins, East Albemarle; menu and arrangements, Miss Louise Sloan, dietician, Wiscassett Memorial YMCA.

Ellen Palmer '53 Carousel Princess

Ellen Palmer was chosen to represent Albemarle in the annual Christmas parade to be held in Charlotte November 26.

Mr. Cashwell read the letter received from the Carousel committee in a senior class meeting October 13. Ellen Palmer, Margaret Brunson, and Bobbie Eudy were nominated for the honor and Ellen was chosen princess.

Also discussed at the meeting were robes, calling cards, and class motto. The class voted on white gowns for the girls, blue white gowns for the boys. Georgia Beaver was appointed by president Myron Snoterly to select several mottos for presentation to the class at a future meeting.

WHILE COMBING HER hair, Pattie Almond exclaimed, "Boy, my hair has a lot of electricity in it!"

"No wonder," quipped Rochelle, "it's connected to a dry cell."

10 Seniors Tapped By Honor Society

Ten outstanding seniors were tapped into the National Honor Society in assembly October 2.

They are Richard Jordan, Larry Talbert, Larry Hartsell, Margaret Brunson, Jo Atkins, Georgia Beaver, Sally Crook, Victor Dry, Kathryn Groves, and Sylvia Whitley.

The ceremony began with the processional to the stage led by Mr. Cashwell, who was followed by the six members tapped last spring. "Holy, Holy, Holy" was sung by the student body, after which Lydia Hall read the Scripture and had the prayer.

Bases for membership into the society were then presented: Ann Ivey, scholastic; Ralph Setzler, character; Claud Grigg, leadership; and Bobby Eudy, service.

As soon as each new member was tapped, Arthur Lynn, the president, pinned yellow chrysanthemums on him and presented him with a scroll containing the oath.

After the tapping Mr. Cashwell administered the oath, warning the new members not to take it unless they intended to live up to the high ideals of the National Honor Society and set an example for other students.

Black Masque Presents Play

Did you ever visit a haunted house—a house vacant for 20 years because of an unsolved mystery?

The student body experienced such an adventure this morning when the Black Masque club, under the direction of Miss Bankett, presented its first dramatic production for this season entitled "The Uninvited Ghost." This one-act mystery involved a group of fun-loving teen-agers who invade the old Redcay Mansion and discover a ghost, a beautiful young girl hidden in a closet, a gentleman with a gun, a crying baby, and the "Woman in Black."

Presenting superlative performances, the following students were featured in the cast: Charlotte Pope as Betty, a timid girl; Pat Allan, her daring friend, Madge; Ned Lowder as Bill; Jimmy Brown as Rich, a

200 N C Delegates Hold Convention With AHS As Host

The State Student Council Congress of North Carolina opens here Sunday afternoon. "Responsible Freedom" is to be the theme.

Two hundred delegates from all over North Carolina will attend the Congress. Registration will begin Sunday afternoon in the student lounge, followed by a buffet supper. A fellowship program will be presented by Edith Mauldin, educational director of West Albemarle Baptist church. Recreational games will be directed by Terry Gwinn, physical director of the Y.M.C.A. The entire A.H.S. Student Council will be host at these preliminary activities.

The first session of the Congress will begin Monday morning at the First Baptist church, where all meetings will be held. The delegates will be greeted by Richard Jordan, president of A. H. S. and treasurer of N.C.S.C.C., and Mr. Claud Grigg, superintendent of city schools, with Fred Ginn, vice-president of N.C. S.C.C., giving the response. Roy Armstrong, director of admissions at U.N.C., will address the Congress. After lunch in the cafeteria a report from the Convention of the Congress will be given by Bill Mewborne, and discussion groups will begin. Immediately following will be the nomination of 1954 officers and campaign speeches.

The entertainment for Monday evening will be a dance and banquet at the Wiscassett Memorial Y.M.C.A.

The last general session on Tuesday will be the election of next year's state officers and the resolutions of the Congress formed from the speeches and sessions on "Responsible Freedom."

State officers for this year are: president, Bill Mewborne, Roxboro; vice-president, Fred Ginn, Goldsboro; secretary, Sandra Bowman, Reidsville; and treasurer, Richard Jordan, Albemarle. The executive secretary or sponsor for the Congress is Kate Parks Kitchen from Rocky Mount.

dashing and supposedly brave hero.

Martha Harwood portrayed Nancy, a girl ready for adventure; Phyllis Ann Greer played Elaine, and Judy Scaggs was Sissy, both typical teen-agers.

AHS College Day To Be Sponsored By Honor Society

Students of Stanly County and AHS are being given the opportunity to talk with college representatives from 40 different colleges in North Carolina.

Annual college day, sponsored by the Albemarle chapter of the National Honor Society, will be held Monday in the library between the hours of 1:30 and 3:30. Members of the Honor Society will be in the library to act as guides.

The following colleges will be represented: Flora MacDonald college, U.N.C., School of Nursing, U.N.C., W. C., Guilford college, Duke university, Duke School of Nursing, Davidson college, Greensboro college, High Point college, North Carolina State college, Winthrop college, Western Carolina Teachers college, Meredith college, Saint Mary's college, Lees-McRae college, Wake Forest college, Queen's college, Appalachian State Teachers college, Pfeiffer Junior college, Mars Hill college, Elon college, Lenoir Rhyne college, Catawba college, East Carolina college, Mitchell college, Converse college, Salem college, Peace college, Presbyterian hospital, Carolina Business college, Charlotte Memorial hospital, King's Business college, Smith-deal-Massey Business college, Limestone college, Wingate Junior college, Presbyterian Junior college, Oak Ridge Military Institute, and Brenau college.

Invitations have been issued to the following county schools: Aquadale, Badin, Endy, Millingport, New London, Norwood, Oakboro, Richfield, Ridgecrest, and Stanfield.

Due to the limited time, only the students definitely interested in college will be allowed to talk with the representatives.

Through college day, according to Mrs. Westerlund, it is hoped that the students attending college day will profit greatly from talking with the representatives and will make the right choice in choosing their careers.

By Their Words

"I hope there are no love sick coons in here this year!"—R. C. Hatley.

"My feet are killing my shoes."—Faye Nash.

"The only reason a girl goes to college these days is to get her M.R.S. degree."—Mr. Pendergraft.

"I turned around and patted myself on the back."—Vann Lowder.

"When I was born I wasn't a baby. I was a mistake."—T-Boe McLendon.

"When you pronounce that word, pucker your lips like you were kissing your mother goodnight. Put some life in it!"—Mr. Pendergraft.

"Mrs. Caughman, I would appreciate it if you wouldn't work algebra problems behind the door."—Donnie Smith.

"Most students listen on class. The only trouble is most of them don't know what they're listening to."—Mr. Hatley.

"Everything in the house these days is run by a switch except the children."—Dr. Oscar Davis.

"Did you know that fifty per cent of the married people are men?"—Johnny Hall.

"Corn farming is hard work. Especially if you get your ears caught in the corn picker."—Wade Smith.

"In this modern day and time a parent is never seen striking a child except in self defense."—Dr. Oscar Hall.

Myrd Efrd played Dorothy Warren, a young girl who is engaged to Jim Elliot, portrayed by Bryce Luther. Mr. Flinch, the real-estate agent attempting to sell the haunted house, was played by Jimmy Griffin; and Hortense Gardener, the Woman in Black, was Arce Rose Rich.
