

Banquet Honors Council Group

Delegates to the State Student Council Congress will be honored with a banquet and dance at the YMCA on Monday night.

Assisting with details of the banquet are the following schools and their student councils: programs, Central Elementary; banquet screens, West Albemarle; napkins, East Albemarle; menu and arrangements, Miss Louise Sloan, dietician, Wiscasset Memorial YMCA.

Mr. Charlie Phillips, Director of Public Relations, WCUNC, Greensboro, N. C., will be the speaker for the evening. Other special guests for the banquet are Rev. and Mrs. Howard Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. Claud Grigg, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Cashwell, and Mr. and Mrs. Lane Brown.

The F.H.A. will be in charge of the directions and table arrangements.

The Modern Music Master society will present special music, while the dance music will be under the arrangement of Spencer Hatley, band director.

The menu for the evening will be tomato juice, roast turkey, dressing, cranberry sauce, glazed sweet potatoes, green lima beans,

Faculty Fantasies

By MARGARET BRUNSON

During the summer I took a trip to Myrtle Beach. On my arrival there I decided I would don my sailor cap and key chain and venture up town to view all the tourists.

My first stop was at the fair. Since teachers aren't millionaires I wasn't surprised to see Mr. Robinette a barker at a side-show featuring the fat lady and sword swallower. The sword swallower was none other than Coach Benton. I waved to them and decided to mosey on over to the pavilion. I pushed my sailor cap to one side of my head and started toward the jukebox. Suddenly a burst of smoke appeared beside me on the sidewalk and distributed fumes that would choke a dinosaur. Hearing a blood curdling laugh, I gazed upward to see R. C. Hatley leaning down from the upper floor with another sulphur hydrate stink bomb grasped in his hand, so I jumped out of the way. He seemed to be having a great time doing this to all the passers-by, so I didn't yell at him.

Beside the jukebox I noticed someone shagging to "Ole 99" and much to my surprise it was Coach Webb, decked out in a chartruse sport shirt. Miss Caughman was also cutting a rug. Spencer Hatley just stood at the side yelling, "Go, cat, go!"

This was too much for a dignified girl like me so I jumped into my Jaguar and headed for the Recreation Center. I passed Miss Bankett while entering the door, but she didn't notice me. She was too busy snowing some boy. Inside, Mr. Pendergraft was sitting at a table sipping lemonade and shooting a line in French to a blonde. I noticed that she was slapping him frequently. He found out later that she was from France. Strolling onto the dance floor I was shocked to see Mr. Cashwell leading a group in the bunny hop. He seemed to be having a great time. That boogie haircut certainly was becoming to him!

The next morning I took a trip to Jungleland to see all the animals. I had hardly gotten in the gate when I spotted Mr. Fry leading a group of monkeys and parrots in harmonizing "Charlottetown." A figure was kneeling down beside the flamingo cage throwing something into a sack. It turned out to be Mrs. Fry digging up ferns.

This was the limit! I realized the beach was no place for me any more, so I threw my suitcase into my Jaguar and started home.

Richard Jordan and Larry Talbert have been chosen Student Lion and Student Rotarian, respectively, for the month of October. Both are newly tapped members of the National Honor Society.

WHO'S WHO

"Who's that cute little blonde cheerleader over there?"

"Oh! That's Lydia; but she's not a blonde! That's peroxide!"

One of the best-all-around seniors this year is Lydia Hall! Her friendly voice, warm smile, and sincere enthusiasm have made her one of the most popular girls in school.

Last spring Lydia was tapped into the National Honor society and this year is vice-president of the society.

Because of her drawing ability, Lydia has been chosen art editor of the "Crossroads." Lydia's success in writing has won her the important role of news editor on the Full Moon.

Lydia has been a Student Council member at large for two years. As part of her work on the Student Council this year, Lydia is the chairman of the mural committee.

Albemarle high was well represented at Girls' State this summer with Lydia as our representative. She received this honor because of her loyal support and true interest in the school!

"Who will the lucky fellow be?" He must be cute, tall, dark, friendly, and very sincere. Have you already found him, Lydia?

Lydia's ideal moments are when she is slumped over a chair with an orangeade in one hand and cheese crackers in the other. Lydia diets! She eats Hollywood bread! Sitting beside her must be a record player which is stacked high with be-bop records or a picture of Robert Wagner, her favorite star!

"I detest fifth period sociology! No fault of Mr. Robinette's though. They kid me all the time about a certain member of the class."

Look out, Duke and W. C., Lydia may be coming your way to continue her studies in art! Lydia has not yet completed her college plans. We know which ever place she chooses will greet her with open arms. Good luck, Lydia.

RALPH SETZLER

"There goes number 14 again, charging down the field to make another touchdown for Albemarle." This seems to be quite a habit with a certain tough and speedy senior. As one of the Charlotte News sports writers so aptly worded it, "He's one of the hottest numbers in the state."

Ralph Setzler has played football for four years and has proven himself worthy of being chosen as one of the co-captains of the A.H.S. football team as well as the vice-president of the Monogram club in his junior year. It's obvious that Ralph's greatest love in the line of sports is football, but that doesn't stop him from participating in softball, tennis, basketball, intramurals and the annual Field Day. As captain of the Junior Hi-Y basketball team, he proved to an even greater extent his good sportsmanship and athletic ability.

During his early high school days Ralph was one of the friendliest and most popular boys in his class. His teachers and friends knew that he would do well any job that he tackled; therefore he was elected as a student body and a home room officer in his sophomore year and gave freely of his time as a member of the decoration committee for the big event of his junior year, the Junior-Senior Prom. More was added to his long list of honors when, in his senior year, he was chosen sports editor of the Full Moon and was tapped into the National Honor society. When the Annual staff meets you will always find Ralph there as the editor of the "Crossroads."

Ask him if he likes school and he'll say yes, but homework and getting up in time to be there at 8:30—no!

On the "must" list of Ralph's many activities you will find that a movie starring Rock Hudson and Virginia Mayo and a treat of steak, shrimp or fried chicken is tops. You surely won't find a certain blonde graduate of A. H. S. at the bottom of his list, either.

Ralph is undecided about the college that he will attend to further his education, but we're sure that any school would welcome a friendly, dependable, cooperative leader such as Ralph.

The Executive committee of the Bible club, accompanied by Miss Abrahamsen, attended the "Youth For Christ" rally in Charlotte on Saturday evening, October 10.
