

THE FULL MOON

Vol. 20—No. 2

Albemarle High School, Albemarle, N. C.

November 2, 1954

Here and There

WHILE MR. PENDERGRAFT'S French class was discussing whether the teacher should be first or last leaving his room during a fire drill, Mr. Pendergraft said, "The captain is usually the last to leave the ship."

"I thought," Lendell Smith exclaimed, "the captain was supposed to go down with the ship."

SEVERAL SENIOR GIRLS were having a rather heated discussion about who was going to win the 1954 World Series.

"Ross, who are you pulling for?" asked someone.

"Why, the Yankees, of course!" replied Frances.

CHARLES JAMES BASHFULLY inquired of Joan Renger,

"Do you have anything planned for the rest of the day?"

"No," Joan replied. "Why?"

"I want you to help me a minute with solid geometry," replied Charles.

BOBBY PECK HAD just finished a joke and nobody laughed.

"You left out something," suggested Ned Lowder.

"What?" asked Bobby.

"The funny part," quipped Ned.

"NOWADAYS YOU CAN insure almost anything that's of any value," commented Bear Knotts while talking to the sociology class.

"I could get my passing arm insured, couldn't I?" piped up John David Moose.

"Moose, you must have misunderstood. I said it had to be valuable," answered Mr. Knotts.

REGGIE CROWELL HAD taken his football equipment home after a B-Team game. The next day he came walking up with it in a bag over his shoulder.

Lane Lowder became curious. "What you been doing, Reggie?" he asked. "Practicing at home?"

LENDELL SMITH: "Do you know what one casket said to another casket?"

Sue Whitley: "No, what?"

Lendell: "Is that you coffin?"

* * *

A GROUP OF GIRLS was discussing with Liz Hunsucker what she is to wear for the Carrousel parade.

"Wear your rose topper," Janice Parker insisted over and over.

After a few minutes of listening in, Geraldine Saunders could stand it no longer.

"Will someone please tell me what a road stopper is?" she begged.

PETE CHANCE WAS trying on Amorelle Tucker's glasses.

"Say," he suddenly remarked, "I can see better at the bottom than at the top. Have you got those—"

"No, stupid," Amorelle interrupted. "They don't have binoculars!"

* * *

MRS. FRY HAD made an unusually long assignment to the Full Moon class.

"This is due on Wednesday," she concluded.

"What Wednesday?" groaned Bobbk Peck. "Next month?"

THE SOCIOLOGY CLASS has undertaken the project of making house plans.

"All of you should be interested," commented Coach Webb, "because you will be faced with this problem before many years."

"If I don't face it within the next few years, I'll be disappointed," confessed Louise Cooper.

THE NIGHT AFTER the baby arrived, John David Moose asked, "Mr. Pendergraft, how did you sleep last night?"

Mr. Pendergraft: "Very well, thank you."

Marvin Clark: "Huh! He didn't sleep; he probably passed out."

NEW MEMBERS OF NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Standing: Frances Ross, Judy Scaggs, Elaine Mills, Bill Beeker, Charlotte Pope, and Martha Harward. Seated: Amorelle Tucker, Skipper Gantt, Opal Eudy, Charles James.

Honor Society Taps Ten Seniors

Carrousel Princess Named By Seniors

Elizabeth Hunsucker was chosen by the seniors to represent Albemarle High School in the 1954 Carolinas' Carrousel to be held in Charlotte on Thanksgiving Day.

The brown-haired and blue-eyed senior is 5 feet 4½ inches and weighs 115. She is a talented musician and is outstanding in many activities.

In Charlotte, Elizabeth will attend a tea for the princesses at Queens College Wednesday. That night she will attend the Knights of Carrousel Pageant and Coronation Ball.

Committee Plans Chapel Program

Tentative plans for the assembly programs through Christmas were made by the Assembly Committee at a recent meeting.

These plans include a play by the Black Masque Club, a science demonstration by Mr. R. C. Hatley, a band concert, a Christmas program by the Mixed Chorus, and maybe programs from Wingate and Pfeiffer.

Members of the committee are Dwayne Harrington, Charles Smith, Johnny Estridge, Eugene Burris, Joyce Turner, George Weaver, and Carol Deese.

Mrs. Hiram Saunders and Miss Carolyn Holt are co-sponsors.

3 Boys, 7 Girls Added To Make Membership Of 16.

The National Honor Society tapped ten outstanding seniors in a very impressive ceremony on October 8.

Charlotte Pope, Frances Ross, Judy Scaggs, Charles James, Amorelle Tucker, Skipper Gantt, Bill Beeker, Elaine Mills, Opal Eudy, and Martha Harward were the seniors who were selected for their zealous work in school, church, and community.

These students were chosen on the basis of their character, scholarship, leadership, and service.

Charlotte Pope is chief cheerleader and Literary Editor of "The Crossroads." Frances Ross is president of the Modern Music Masters Society and solo clarinet player in the band. Judy Scaggs is chief majorette and a member of the Black Masque.

Charles James plays center on the Bulldog varsity and is president of the student body. Amorelle Tucker is in the girls trio and is a member of the Future Teachers Association. Skipper Gantt is Business Manager of "The Crossroads" and tailback on the varsity.

Bill Beeker is president of the Future Teachers Association and president of his home room. Elaine Mills is historian of The Future Teachers Association and is a cheerleader.

Opal Eudy is president of the Red Cross Council and Future

Full Moon Staff For Year Chosen

Frances Litaker, editor, Lendell Smith, business manager, and Mrs. Fry, adviser, recently chose the Full Moon staff for the year.

The editors are as follows: Dickie Cashwell, managing editor; Frances Ross, news editor; Charlotte Pope, feature editor; Edward Hatley, sports editor; and Sue Whitley, circulation manager.

Assisting Frances Ross on the news staff will be Joan Renger, Donald Almond, Marvin Clark, Phyllis Greer, Stephen Sasser, Opal Eudy, Yoder Whitley, Judy Scaggs, Shirley Lowder, and Bobby Peck.

Charles James, Louise Cooper, Martha Harward, Pat Allan, Bill Beeker, and Amorelle Tucker will make up the feature staff under Charlotte Pope.

Edward Hatley's sport writers will consist of John David Moose, Skipper Gantt, Donnie Smith, and Larry Chance.

Homemakers. Martha Harward is assistant editor of "The Crossroads" and a member of the Mixed Chorus.

The new members were told they had to give the old members a party for their initiation.

Senior Skeltons Brought To Light

Although the Senior Class of 1952 was in the spotlight most of the time, the seniors of '55 were in the limelight quite a bit when they were Freshmen. Old copies of the "Full Moon" have revealed this. Remember . . .

When Frances Litaker was elected secretary of the student body, and homeroom Council representatives were Roger Freeman, Lendell Smith, and Johnny Rummage.

How proud they were to have John David Moose, Donnie Smith, and Charles James make the varsity team, and Ann Smith on the girls' basketball team.

Joan Renger and Ed Hatley had the leads in the ninth grade operetta, "Hearts and Blossoms."

When they elected John David Moose, president; Max Hunsucker, vice-president; Jeanette Moose, secretary; and Bobby Peck, treasurer; as class officers, and commencement marshals were Lendell Smith, Elizabeth Hunsucker, and Bobby Peck.

Elaine Mills was elected as a cheerleader and Sylvia Rogers was a high-stepping majorette.

Homecoming found Marian Stiller, Sylvia Rogers, Ann Smith, Jeffie Lee, and Carlene Doby as sponsors, and how everyone looked to see Steven Sasser, Yoder Whitley, Jean Starr, Eleanor Jones, Frances Ross, Miriam Davis, Elliott Gaddy and Bill Beeker marching with the band.

Pat Allan and Sandra Lentz won T. B. Essay awards, and Frances Ross was the winner of the girls' softball throw in the annual Field Day. Arce Rose

Rich was a fortune-teller in a Home Economics Style Revue Show.

Skipper Gantt and Charlotte Pope were voted the cutest in the Freshman superlatives.

The inquiring reporter found Dickie Cashwell's dream girl was Elaine Mills. Myra Efrid—Donald Almond, Charlotte Pope—Jerry Traywick, Martha Harward—Ed Hatley, Elaine Lowder—Eddie Hatley, and Sylvia Rogers—Donald Tucker were seen around school together.

It's been a long time since the ninth grade and a lot has happened since then. They have gained classmates and some have left them, but everyone agrees that the Seniors of 1955 certainly deserve a round of applause today.

55 Colleges Send Representatives To College Day

The National Honor Society sponsored the annual College Day, October 28, from 9:00 a. m. until 3:00 p. m. with about fifty-five college representatives present.

A. H. S. Juniors and Seniors had the opportunity to discuss their plans for the future with the representatives Thursday morning. Seniors from Troy, Mt. Cilead, and all the county high schools met with the representatives from 11:00 a. m. until 2:00 p. m.

At lunch in the school cafeteria the college representatives were guests of the sixteen members of the National Honor Society, and Mrs. Westerlund, the chapter advisor.

Parents, visitors, and students were guided by members of the Honor Society to the gym, which was attractively decorated with college pennants and flowers. In the gym the representatives were seated at tables with table cards indicating the college each represented.

Present to talk to the students were representatives from all the major North Carolina colleges, including Oak Ridge Military Institute, Duke School of Nursing, Presbyterian Hospital, Memorial Hospital, and several other schools. Colleges throughout South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, and Virginia were also represented.

College Day at A. H. S. proved to be quite a success. Most of the students had a chance to secure catalogues, pamphlets, bulletins, application blanks, and information concerning the college they might wish to attend.

Committee Heads Named By Council

The Student Council has appointed the chairmen of its principal committees for this year.

Sue Whitley will head the housekeeping committee along with Pat Allan, Jeanette Hinson, and Yoder Whitley. Mrs. Saunders will serve as advisor.

The chairman of the constitution committee is Frances Ross with Mrs. Lyke as her advisor. Members of the committee will be Jimmy Almond, David Grigg, and all the class vice-presidents.

Chairman of the point committee will be Jimmy Almond, who will investigate and tabulate the points of high school students to see that they stay within their limit. Advisor to this committee will be Miss Holt.

By Their Words

"I don't waste my time; other people waste it for me."—Mr. Hatley.

"There are three kinds of people in the world: the good, the bad, and the kind like Elaine Mills."—Frances Ross.

"I thought a hub-cap was a girl that went with a big wheel."—Mr. Cashwell.

"I'm in paradise; Marilyn's free again."—Ned Lowder.

"When they were passing out the brains, Pat Allan was in the line arguing about the legs."—Dickie Cashwell.

"It doesn't matter what my baby is, just so it's a boy or girl."—Mr. Pendergraft.

"He saw the enemy come running up on his horse."—Lendell Smith.

"I would like to compliment you on your work. When are you going to give me a chance?"—Miss Tucker.

"Where's the rest of everybody?"—Elaine Swaringen.

"He's a dream-boat without the oars."—Carlene Doby.

"All we can make in the shop is noise and sawdust."—Jimmy Coggins.
