

G.I.'s Return To School From Service; Show Appreciation Of Book Learning

"Say, buddy, could you tell me where the library is?"
 "Hey, man, where's the shop?"
 These are familiar phrases around school this year. More than likely it will be one of the seven veterans that have come back to school this year. When asked why they came back, every one gave the same reply, "To further my education."
 There are seven veterans going to school here this year. They are Hugh Eudy, U. S. Army; James Dennis, U. S. Air Force; Price Efird, U. S. Army; Bob Mauldin, U. S. Navy; Bob Archer, U. S. Army; James Crowell, U. S. Navy, and Charles "Booge" Bowers, U. S. Marines.
 Five of these boys served overseas. James Dennis served with the 118th Aircraft-Warning Sqd. in North Africa. Bob Mauldin served on the U.S.S. Holder as a P.P.E.-819 in England, France, Italy, and Korea. Bob Archer was with the 605th Honor Guard in Germany. James Crowell served on the U.S.S. Antietam as a Leading Seaman in Korea. James was also in on the Inchon invasion. "Booge" Bowers served with the 3rd Marine Division in Porto Rica and Japan. Most all these boys saw considerable action.

 Hugh Eudy served as a cook in the Transportation Corps in Fort Jackson, S. C., and Fort Benning, Ga. Price Efird served with the 8th Division here in the states.
 All these boys went to Albemarle schools before they went into service except Hugh Eudy and Price Efird.
 When asked the question, "Why did you come back to high school?" they answered in this order: Hugh Eudy, "to finish high school and enter Kings Business College." James Dennis, "to further my education and clear up the mistake I made by quitting school in the first place." Price Efird, "because I wanted to finish high school and go to a good business college." Bob Mauldin, "to get my high school diploma and to better myself for civilian life." Bob Archer, "to further my education so I can study construction engineering in college." James Crowell, "to finish high school and go to Pfeiffer College." "Booge" Bowers, "to finish high school and go back to the Merchant Marines."
 When asked the question, "What change impresses you about our school today over what it was before you went into service?", they all replied; "The teachers are willing to help you more with your studies." As you would expect, each has his favorite subject now that he is back in school. When asked, they named sociology, shop, science, algebra, typing, mechanical drawing, English, and history.

New Members Initiated By Club

"Whose alarm clock was that?"
 "I want my shoes shined!"
 These were expressions heard in the halls of A.H.S. as the Bible Club initiated some late members November 11.
 The candidates were divided into two groups. The members of one group carried an alarm clock with them, and each time the alarm went off, they had to get on their knees and start singing until the alarm stopped.
 The other candidates, loaded with shoeshine kits, had to shine the shoes of three Bible Club members.
 Twenty-eight new members were initiated into the club.

Play Presented By Black Masque

"Father Says No", a one act play, was presented in assembly November 3 by the Black Masque. It was the story of two 14-year-old girls who weren't allowed to date or receive phone calls from boys because their father thought they were too young. When the father and mother left the house for a visit and grandmother asked some boys to come over, it resulted in a side-splitting affair.
 Members of the cast were: Susie Culp, Granny; Kay Cauthen, Dibs; Zalotta Harris, Candy; Betty Boone, Mrs. Mitchell; Eugene Burris, Mr. Mitchell; Ross Mason, Harold; Mickey Harwood, George; and Bob Mauldin, Chester.
