

Seniors' Banquet Set For Tonight

"Castle Beneath the Sea" will be the theme of the '58 Senior Banquet to be held in the school cafeteria, May 2.

Sue Winn and Kay Swindell were in charge of planning the banquet.

Those painting the mural were Judy Efrid, chairman, Marney Lowder, Billie Hartsell, Sammie Holshouser, Garnald Efrid, Becky Coble, Betty Holt, Diane Watkins, Kathryn Morton, and Gay Crowell.

Emma Lynn Morton and Rita Morris prepared the menu. Peggie Sue Lisk and Pat Starnes were in charge of planning the program.

The decorations were planned by Martha Huckabee and Diane Watkins, co-chairmen, Kay Swindell, Libby Hatley, Gail Buck, Becky Coble, Ronnie Millican, and Cary McSwain.

The waitresses are Janice Harris, Georgette Lampsi, Jane Chandler, Tamara Almond, Kay Pennington, Judy Pfeiffer, Suzanne Mauldin, Millie Hatley, Aldena Harrington, Barbara Reed, Jane Story, Billie Jo Barrier, Jo Parks, Priscilla Burris, Cynthia Efrid, Hunter Hearne, Jane Cotton, Glenda Sue Honey, Nancy Jo Ivester, Mickey Doby, Sandy Lefler, Barbara Hinson, Ellen Rogers, Brenda Huneycutt, Linda Curlee, Betty Smith, and Billie Rae Atkins.

'Black Magic' Is Theme For Hop

The Sophomore Hop was held Friday night, April 11, in the school cafeteria.

"Black Magic", the theme, was well depicted by the mural of "peering eyes" and the centerpiece, which was a huge black ball covered in silver and stars. Smaller groups of stars scattered throughout the cafeteria completed the effect.

Refreshments consisted of ginger ale punch and cakes.

Songsters Enjoy Tour In Mountains

Singing of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" climaxed a concert presented by the Senior Mixed Chorus for an appreciative Lenoir High School student body several weeks ago.

The night preceding this performance, the chorus sang at Appalachian State Teachers College. The program included sacred music, songs from "Oklahoma", other gay, carefree numbers, and patriotic selections, as well as solos by Peggie Lisk, Eddie Burleson, and Lynda Jordan.

After sleeping either in college dormitories or in the homes of Boone residents, the singers entertained the Appalachian High School students. This concert was followed by a similar one at Lenoir High School, after which the chorus returned home.

Chaperones for the trip were Mrs. J. L. Cashwell, Mrs. F. M. Stonestreet, Mr. Wallace Williams and Mr. Jack Clark.

This group also presented a program of sacred and patriotic numbers in a Pfeiffer College assembly.

Featured in this program were soloists Peggie Lisk and Lynda Jordan, the boys' quartet, and the girls' ensemble.

Freshmen Theme Is 'April Love'

Freshmen and their dates danced from 8-11 o'clock on Friday, April 25, at the Freshmen Fling held in the school cafeteria.

The theme "April Love" was carried out in decorations and music.

All the freshmen, under the direction of committees, helped to make the dance a success. The following served as committee chairmen: Susan Ausband, decorations; Margaret Ann Furr, refreshments; Bryan Fox, publicity; and Linda Haynes and Brenda Furr, music.

WHO'S WHO

KAY SWINDELL

EDDIE BURLESON

A friendly smile, a wonderful personality, and an active school spirit—all this goes to make up a popular senior girl, Kay Swindell.

This year Kay is business manager of the Crossroads, a member of the Booster Club and FTA, co-chairman of the senior banquet committee, and one of the writers of the class prophecy.

As a junior she was a commencement marshal, senior banquet waitress, and chairman of the entertainment committee, and served on the Prom committee.

Among the offices Kay has held while in high school have been vice-president of the Tri-Hi-Y, treasurer and president of her homeroom, vice-president of the Boosters' Club, and secretary of the Creative Writing Club.

Kay's acting ability was demonstrated when she portrayed a devilish kid sister in the junior play, "Stag Line". She also has a major role in the Black Masque play, "The Storm".

Because of her willingness to serve, Kay has been on various committees such as decoration for homecoming, refreshments for Sophomore Hop, and decoration for other dances.

Playing bridge and watching television are her pastimes when she doesn't have her favorite meal of spaghetti with meatballs followed by a generous piece of strawberry shortcake.

Her activities at Central Methodist Church, where she is a member, have included being MYF area program chairman two terms and a substitute Sunday school teacher. She has also

When Eddie Burleson finishes a solo, people turn to their neighbors and whisper, "He's good enough to make records".

Eddie's lovely baritone voice has certainly added a lot to the Mixed Chorus during the past three years. He has been a soloist for the chorus and has received a superior rating in the district contest. This year he is serving as president of the Mixed Chorus.

Music is not the only school activity in which Eddie has participated. He was a member of the varsity football team for two years and has been the president of his homeroom. As a member of the Hi-Y, he has held four major offices and has played on the Hi-Y basketball team. He worked faithfully as a member of the Sophomore Hop and the Junior-Senior Prom committees.

Civic activities also take up a lot of Eddie's time. He is a student Rotarian and a member of the Junior Optimist Club. For several years he was a Scout patrol leader.

On Sunday Eddie attends the helped in Bible School. For entertainment, Kay enjoys a good AHS versus ? football game.

As for next year she plans to attend WC as a math major.

Students Frolic On The 'Atlantis'

The hard work of the juniors, under the leadership of Jimmy Klutz, class president, and Miss Lillian Misenheimer, class advisor, came to a joyful climax on the night of the Junior-Senior Prom, April 18.

Everyone, fully attired in evening dresses and white dinner jackets, made their way through the door of King Neptune's castle to find themselves in a beautiful underwater paradise, "Atlantis", which was the theme of the prom.

To the right of the entrance was a mural in which King Neptune himself sat reigning over the gala events of the night.

The end wall represented a lovely underwater scene. To one side was a treasure chest filled with jewels and gold and silver pieces.

The center of attraction on the south wall was a sunken ship named "The Finale", signifying the final prom in the AHS gym. From this point the Josey-Brown Combo furnished the music for the night.

Chaperones for the night were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Klutz, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Cain, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Parks, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie B. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Toby Webb, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Cashwell, Miss Inez Bankett, Miss Lillian Misenheimer, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Fry.

North Albemarle Baptist Church, where he is a member. He is president of the Young People's Class.

Eddie has a hobby that very few boys his age dare to take up. This hobby is aviation. He likes to read airplane books, see airplane pictures, and most of all pilot his own plane.

As for food, Eddie thinks that a good juicy steak is tops, especially if he's got a cute majorette to enjoy it with him.

Next year will mean college for Eddie. He is planning to enter Pfeiffer College as a business administration major.
