The seniors for making it through four years. Co-valedictorians of the Senior class, Libbie Hatley and Peggy Smith; and the co-salutatorians, Kitty Almond, Joyce Burris, Yvonne Chandler, and Becky Coble.

Commencement marshals—Martha Ann Smith, chief, Jo Parks, Linda Efir, Sue Tucker, Ann Smith, Mary Jo Winn, Neil Efir, Bonnie Lowder, Jimmy Stonestreet, Suzanne Swindell, Margaret Ann Furr, and Nancy Smith.

The Student Lions, Civitans, and Rotarians. Annual staff for the best annual yet and especially Pat Starnes, editor.

The new Full Moon heads, Jo Parks and Douglas Eury; and to the new annual staff headed by Sue Tucker and Jimmy Klutz. Mr. Fry and the choruses for a year of fine performances, climaxed by their Spring Concert.

Mr. Hauss and the band for their contribution to the football games and their Spring Concert.

The Senior class, the Junior class, and Black Masque for their entertaining plays.

The Junior class and Miss Misenheimer for a beautiful prom. Coach Webb and the Bulldogs for winning the South Piedmont Conference championship, the Piedmont championship, and the WNCSSAA.

Roger Whitley for being named to four All-American teams in the Scholastic Magazine, Wigwam Wise, World Week Magazine, and Sporting News.

James Johnson, Roger Whitley, and Wayne Spivey for making N. C. Prep All-State teams. Graham Harwood and Roger Smith for honorable mention.

The basketball team and Coach Lippard for making the tournament.

Pat Starnes for being elected president of the State Bible Club; Kitty Almond, secretary of the State Bible Club; Sue Winn, secretary of the District Bible Club.

The cheerleaders, majorettes, and letter girls.

The new cheerleaders, Sylvia Smith and Pam Sells, and to the new majorette, Bobbie Atkins; and to the new letter girl, Diane Butler.

All those who received recognition on Awards Day.

The Science department for a job well done on the Science Fair.

The seniors who received scholarships.

The faculty members who have received state recognition: Mr. Hatley was chosen as one of five honorary members of N. C. Academy of Science for this year; Mr. Fry was inducted into Phi Delta Kappa, the national honor fraternity for men educators; and Mr. Cashwell has been named to two state committees in the field of education.

The Booster's Club for a homecoming that will never be forgotten.

Becky Coble for making a wonderful Homecoming Queen.

Judy Efir for being a lovely Miss Merry Christmas.

Sue Winn for representing Albemarle in the annual Carolina's Carrousel.

Reba Stamper for being selected F.H.A. Queen.

The F.T.A. for their substitute teaching.

The Jr. Red Cross.

The Library Club for their service and for their recent honor.

Pat Starnes for winning the "I Speak for Democracy" contest.

Pat Starnes and Jo Parks, who were in the district semi-finalists debate competition.

Lane Brown and Georgette Lampsi, who were in the state debate competition.

Jeaninne Dennis, our county F.H.A. officer.

Mrs. Fry for her hard work and support on the Full Moon.

Teacher Of The Month

We are very happy to feature in our last issue of the Full Moon such a versatile person as Mrs. Rosetta L. Rogers.

Mrs. Rogers is one of the best known and most popular teachers in this school. Having taught at AHS only two years, she has already proven herself to be an outstanding and most capable leader.

Biology students learn about nature from protozoa to the human body through Mrs. Rogers' interesting teaching methods. All of those present at the Science Fair were certain to see what a grand job she has done this year in teaching her pupils.

Not only has she taught many boys and girls how to dissect grasshoppers or learn the parts of a worm, but she has also advised and worked with the Future Teachers of America club. As sponsor of this club she has

Here And There

"MULE": "ARE YOU in the field day, Jeff?"
Jeff: "Yes, they're using me in the shot put as the shot."

WHILE AT THE beach, Don and Hunter found out that you don't have to pay for a float until you bring it back.

After Don rented one, Hunter turned to Cary and said, "If he drowns, he won't have to pay for it."

"MULE": LET'S GO water skiing, Norris."

Norris: "I would, but they haven't invented a ski that will keep me up."

IN FULL MOON English class when discussing the attitudes different poets have about death, Mrs. Fry said, "Well, part of life is death."

"Yes," exclaimed Wade McSwain, "that and taxes."

MR. FRAZIER: "SUSAN, go get Mr. Cranford for me."

Susan Ausband: "Which one is that—Calvin or Haley?"

"LET'S COMMIT SUICIDE," suggested Kitty Almond before a big French test.

"No," Joyce returned, "then we wouldn't have anything to live for."

"Are Millie Hatley and Mr. Hatley daughters?"—Tim Drye.

"I think I'll write an editorial on how to be great—and tell all my secrets."—Kitty Almond.

"I used to take chewing gum to school just so the girls would ask me for a piece."—John Wayne Napier.

"That's right, except it's wrong."—Mrs. Hayes.

"Mrs. Test — I mean Mrs. Deese."—Wade McSwain.

Books Alive

For a few days I was afraid I wasn't going to make it in time for this last article. You'll never guess what happened! I went to sleep in one of the books and woke up under a pile of clothes in some student's room at home. Like all over-due books this one should have been returned on time, but I began to wonder what was going to happen. Books are sometimes forgotten! I could imagine an announcement being made at school calling all books back in before school ended. The majority of students are proud of our library and want to take good care of it. So I remind any of you who have library books out to bring them in immediately.

All Time High

An all time high has been reached this year with students using the library more than usual, especially for reference work. The circulation record also shows that an average of 624 books has been checked out each week for home reading.

If National Library Week meant for us to WAKE UP AND READ, then let's stay awake and keep the reading program alive. After exams are over, report cards received, then what? During the vacation months is the very best time to relax and really enjoy reading.

As you read good books this summer try keeping a record. In a small notebook you could write the name of the author, the title of the book, and a brief note explaining why you did or did not like the book.

helped the members in making decisions for practice teaching and planning how to raise money for their scholarship, which is given on Awards Day to some senior future teacher.

We feel that we are most fortunate in having Mrs. Rogers as a member of our faculty and we want to show her our appreciation for all she means to us by naming her the "Teacher of the Month" at AHS.

Inquiring Reporter

QUESTION: What did you enjoy most in High School?
What will you miss most?

BOYS

"I haven't enjoyed anything really, but football games. I'm going to miss Gail translating my French to me and I'm also going to miss being able to throw remarks to Coach Gantt."—Saundra Burleson.

"I've enjoyed mostly being a lettergirl, marching with the band, going to football games and being with all my friends in high school has really been great. I'll miss seeing Mrs. Fry first thing every morning."—Martha Huckabee.

CAMPUS CHATTER

Hi People,

This will be the last time we will give you headaches with our senseless chatter, for soon we'll be gone and some more gossipers will take our place. We've enjoyed it and it's been fun and we hope that next year's Winky and Dinky can find out as much and more news than we did.

First we must congratulate Sue Winn and Carolyn Nicholds for being runners-up in the "Miss Albemarle" contest. We're also very proud of Molly Holbrook for "being one of the six finalists in the pageant. Way to go, girls.

Oolie's cabin was where the Tri-Hi-Y party for Juniors was held. Not too many came but the real party-goers, Pete Blalock and Betty McManus, "Tadpole" and Mickey Doby, Oolie and Eddie Crutchfield, Janice Harris and Max Morgan, Linda Curlee and Jimmy Klutz, and Woody and Jean, of course, showed up. Oolie's cabin was rocking to the lake even before Janice and Max started "jittering".

It seems that the drive-in has been a big hit with some of the students of A.H.S. even though the price has risen. Students who have been going to the flick are Ann Bell and Henry Efir, Linda Efir and Chip Cain, "Jungle" Johnson and Barbara Smith, Alex Furr and Brenda Furr, Tommy Murrell and Judy Efir, Richard Peck and Frankie Hatley, and many sophomore girls in Paula Feldman's car.

What does Winston-Salem have that Albemarle doesn't and attracts Woody Durham like a magnet? We have a clue—there has been a good-looking brownette from Winston here several week-ends—but, Woody, is that it?

The hamburger fry that the Junior members of the Honor Society gave to the Senior members was a big success. After everybody ate his square hamburger and drank all the Pepsis, some big card games got underway. Jo Parks, Shelby Thomas, Larry Mullis, Barb Hoey, Gail Buck, Nancy Jo and George, Peggy and "Little Mule", Billy Jo and James, Sue and "Jug", and Ann Smith and James Renger played Old Maid, while Peggie Sue and Diane showed Roger and Wade what expert bridge players girls are and Stanley found some binoculars which intrigued him for he knew exactly how to use them.

After the Senior banquet all the Seniors headed down to Norwood Lake where Graham Harwood had a big party. They were planning on having a combo but the plans fell through. Just the same Betsy and Joe Klutz, Carolyn and Stanley, Kay and Kenneth, Gay and Sammie, Pat and Norris, Betty and Graham, Pat and Al Fusonie, and Roger and Becky thought the record player sounded just as good.

Everybody has been running into Landis and Jimmy, Charles and Mary Jo, Max and Janice, and Glenda Sue and Paul in the halls. It seems these are the newest couples around.

After the Spring Concert, which was outstanding, the Mixed Chorus had a party out at Kenneth Helderman's. We saw Linda Jordan and Jennings Burris, Joyce Burris and Sherrill, Eddie Burleson and Brenda Gantt, and many others dancing, eating and living it up.

Well, fellow students, seems that this is the last Campus Chatter for the year of '58. Hope we haven't gotten too many enemies, because it's all been in fun. Be good and come see us next year.

Love,
Watty and Pe We
