

HERE AND THERE

In Squirrel Nest Perhaps

"WHY DIDN'T YOU wave to me this morning, Harriet? I hollered as loud as I could and you didn't even speak," cried Tony Furr.

"That's funny," replied Harriet. "I looked in all the trees on the way to school and I didn't see you hanging from a one of them."

"WAIT A MINUTE, Mickey," Miss Caughman exclaimed during solid geometry; "that figure isn't right!"

"I know," replied Mickey Lower, "I haven't finished drawing it."

"Oh, yes," grinned Miss Caughman. "I must have been looking at that line you haven't drawn yet."

IN ECONOMICS CLASS one afternoon Jimmy Whitley asked Mr. Nye to give an example of a shapeless solid.

Mr. Nye, without further consideration, quickly replied, "A fat girl!"

DURING SENIOR CHOIR the other day Lloyd Crisco asked Mr. Fry where he went to college.

"Davidson," replied Mr. Fry. Lloyd, definitely impressed, exclaimed, "Boy, we've got a smart man here!"

"Well, let's just say I got in before they upped the standards," quipped Mr. Fry.

WHEN MRS. HALL brought Mrs. Young's absentee list to her during first period French the other day, she was greeted with "Comment allez-vous?"

Mrs. Hall's only reply was, "I don't think so!"

"WOULD ANYONE LIKE to take home these new books written in French?" asked Mrs. Deese to a very enthused third year French class in hopes that they would get a lot out of the reading.

Brenda Morris slowly raised her hand. "Do they have any pictures in them?"

IN MECHANICAL DRAWING last week Louis Morton asked Mr. Morris a question.

"Weren't you here Monday?" asked Mr. Morris.

Louis answered, "No, sir, nor Tuesday." "Well, what about last year?" quipped Mr. Morris.

TIRED, BUT TRYING to be helpful, Sylvia Wall walked up to a young man and rushed him to a university table during College Day. Sylvia was very surprised when she asked, "May I be of some further use?"

"I don't believe so," the gentleman replied. "You see, I've been out of college three years and I am teaching at Norwood."

"I REALLY BURNED that geometry test up good. What do you think of a 65?" asked Jane Crutchfield.

"Oh, think nothing of it," replied Bobbie Atkins. "I got a 62 degree burn yesterday."

THE REPRESENTATIVE FROM Coker College was trying to persuade Jane Crutchfield and Harriet Reeves to attend the school.

Harriet commented, "I would be interested if I weren't going to W. C."

The man exclaimed, "Oh, I wouldn't go there. Do you know what W.C.U.N.C. stand for? It stands for 'We Can't Understand Nothin' Complicated!'"

"HOW ARE YOU feeling, Raymond?" asked Diana Harris on her way to a meeting.

Raymond calmly answered, "I'm about to starve to death and I'd already be dead if it were not for the berries that were on Mrs. Hayes' desk."

Remember When?

Girls wore long skirts. There were no such things as "wee-juns".

Mr. Webb didn't ride his bicycle. There wasn't a hang-out called Duke's.

No one knew how to "twist". Girls didn't like boys and vice-versa.

Jerry Smith couldn't play football. The chorus didn't make "superior" in the choral contest.

Mid-term exams weren't in existence. It snowed on Christmas.

Students walked to school instead of driving. Don Simpson didn't talk the way

ROWENA KLUTZ

Dependability, friendliness, and leadership are only a few of the outstanding qualities of this month's Who's Who, Rowena Klutz.

She has been an excellent leader throughout her high school years. This year marks Rowena's third year as Marshal and as manager of the girls' basketball team.

During her Junior year Rowena was elected Junior class secretary and president of the Science Club. She was also a member of Black Masque, Boosters Club, and F.T.A. Proving her outstanding qualities of character, scholarship, leadership, and service, Rowena was tapped into the National Honor Society last spring.

This year Rowena is serving as secretary of the Monogram Club, treasurer of Student Council, and vice-president of the Science Club. She is a news writer for the Full Moon and on the literary staff of Crossroads.

Because of her good looks and outstanding personality, Rowena was elected Carrousel Princess by this year's Senior Class. Albemarle was well represented in the Carrousel parade during the Thanksgiving holidays. Plans for college are indefinite he does now. Mrs. Fry's room wasn't full of ferns.

LESTER BIVENS

Not many people have had the honor of being a John M. Morehead scholarship semi-finalist. Lester Bivens, this month's Who's Who, has had that honor and many more. Lester served as treasurer of his Junior class, president of his Hi-Y club, and still found time to work hard as a member of the Junior play cast. Since his sophomore year Lester has shown an interest in the activities of the Booster's Club and has participated in club-sponsored activities such as basketball and has earned a letter in track.

At the First Lutheran Church, Lester serves as president of his Sunday School class and shows his qualities of leadership by serving as president of the Luther League, the youth group at his church.

This year Lester is a member for Rowena at present, but with her fine qualities and versatility, Rowena is sure to succeed in whatever she undertakes.

Honor Members Danced And Dined

National Honor Society members tapped last spring were feted at a supper on December 2, given by the new members of the organization.

The party of dining and dancing was held in the Garrison's recreation room in their home on East Street. NHS members and their dates attended.

The meal, served buffet style, consisted of charcoal hamburgers, slaw, pickles, potato chips, baked beans, soft drinks, and cake. After the supper everyone danced and "twisted" to the latest records.

Chaperones for the evening were Dr. and Mrs. G. Ritchie Wall, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Garrison, and Mrs. Westerlund, sponsors of the group, and her husband.

FTA To Give Gift As Yule Project

Future teachers who attended the FTA Convention at Lenoir Rhyne College gave a report concerning the convention to the other FTA members at their December meeting.

A Christmas project planned by the FTA at this time was the buying and giving of a gift to Miss Mary E. Gullede, the lady for whom the FTA Chapter was named.

Because the cake sale scheduled for Nov. 25 was postponed due to conflicting holiday activities, another one was planned at this business meeting for December 16.

of the Science Club and also works with the photography staff of the Crossroads.

Lester hopes to become a "Carolina Gentleman" after graduation. With his admirable personal characteristics and intelligence Lester will be an excellent representative of his high school wherever his road leads him.
