

By Their Words

"You have horse sense; your face shows it." — Joyce Terry.
 "When I go to bed, I leave my troubles in my clothes." — Bill Dobbs.
 "Are those girls bothering you, Terry?" — Miss Caughman.
 "I bet you couldn't even strike a match with two stones." — Karen Hatley.
 "Some teenagers look like apes doing the twist." — Mrs. Young.
 "My ambition is to be a photographer for Playboy." — Mike Burleson.
 "I ain't talking to nobody; I'm just talking to myself." — Nelson Smith.
 "Happy is the rooster in the henhouse!" — Steve Griffin.
 "You'd make a wonderful model for totem poles." — Jim Sharkey.
 "If you use fat-lined paper, that composition won't be much." — Terry Lorch.
 "A teacher for an apple." — Joanna Morris.
 "I'm underwhelmed." — Joyce Burleson.
 "With proper training you could be a nobody, Judy." — Bill McKenzie.
 "Mr. Tyson, may I borrow your head? I'm a geologist." — Mrs. Gamewell.
 "Never let grass grow under your feet; it tickles." — Sally Eford.
 "Very sir, simple." — Sue Underwood.
 "Paul, I could make uglier faces than you, but you have a head start." — Susan Rogers.

Seniors Choose Christmas Queen

Wanda Tucker is "Miss Merry Christmas" for this year. She was chosen by the senior class to represent Albemarle in the Christmas parade.
 Wanda is a very versatile person and shows it by her many activities. She was recently chosen by the senior class as Cutest and Most Athletic in their vote for superlatives. She is serving her second year on the cheering squad and is a member of the basketball team.
 A member of the Boosters Club, Library Club, and the Debate Club, Wanda is also serving on the Art Staff of the Crossroads and is a member of the Y.M.C.A. Wanda attends St. Martin's Lutheran Church where she is a regular member of Sunday School and the Luther League.

Mascots For '63

Kimberly Jean Burrell and Randy Mauldin were chosen mascots by the class of 1963.
 Kimberly is the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burrell, Jr., of Hawthorn Avenue.
 Randy is the three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Mauldin of 1723 Holly Avenue. His sister, Janice, is a senior at Albemarle this year.

Kiddie Korner

All dressed up in his London Fog raincoat, it looks as if this little fellow is getting ready to go out somewhere, doesn't it?

His fine voice graces the Senior Choir, and it is rumored that he is Mr. Fry's favorite student since he has been placed on the front row. Do you suppose Mr. Fry did this so he could see this little angel's smiling face more easily?

All in all, though, this little fellow is surely a cutie, or so his classmates thought when superlatives were announced!

Winstons Star

Albemarle's newest contribution to the entertainment world, the Winstons, consisting of Diane Baker, Bill Dobbs, Chuck Miller, and Johnny Boaz, appeared on WBTV, October 30. The show was pre-taped October 29 after the group won the Arthur Smith local talent show, October 20.

Bill Dobbs, originator of the group, declared, "Neither of us had met Arthur or his Crackerjacks, but when we arrived at the studio, we felt as though we were old friends. All the members of the famous group have personality plus, and their sessions are informal, which adds to the fun. The entire studio was filled with jokes and laughs throughout the time we were there.

"Being a member of the Winstons, I can speak for the group and say that the initial shock of being on television was to see yourself in some little box where you also see Mat Dillon, Elliot Ness, and the rest of them. It was truly fascinating."

The Winstons captured second place in the Arthur Smith Quarterly Finals, Valdese, N. C. Other recent appearances include the Lions Club, DECA district convention, and Masonic Lodge Ladies' Night.

Future engagements consist of several local churches, civic clubs, and Christmas parties planned by local organizations.

Of Secrets And Sabotage

"This band will not set foot on that football field Friday night until I am completely satisfied with practices!" These were the immortal and famous words of Mr. Tommy Hauss, band director.

Had Mr. Hauss gone through with this threat, "Tommy Hauss Appreciation Night," which was secretly planned by the Optimist Club, would never have been. The truth of the matter is that the band did not think it necessary to learn two half-time programs for the Albemarle-Garinger game. Unaware of the plans being made in his honor, Mr. Hauss was holding his regularly scheduled practices, and the band was two-timing him by practicing again on the sly.

To Mr. Hauss' surprise and dismay, no one attended the practice on Wednesday, which was to be the only one held that week. The hundred-member band just wouldn't cooperate. The director phoned Mr. Webb, co-conspirator, to express his grief, but received no cooperation from him either. As a last resort, Mr. Hauss was going to hold an extra practice on Thursday evening. Mrs. Hauss, another co-conspirator, reminded her husband of his promise to take her out to dinner with these words: "But my condition!" He reluctantly agreed and demanded that the band would practice after school on Friday. Everyone agreed (?).

Another fly almost got into the ointment when two concerned and well-meaning parents called Mr. Hauss to find out the reason for such a long practice Thursday night. Speculations are still being made as to what his answer was to them. No matter what he told them, it is a sure thing he didn't reveal that there was to be a "Tommy Hauss Night!"

The magnificent tribute paid to Mr. Hauss on Friday night assured him that he was neither losing his touch nor losing his mind.

Morehead Nominees Announced

Two well known senior boys, Raymond Earnhardt and Neville Patterson, have been chosen as Stanly County nominees for the Morehead Scholarship.

Both boys are leaders in school activities. Raymond is president of the senior class and of the local chapter of the National Honor Society. Neville is treasurer of the Student Council and vice-president of the National Honor Society.

On a future date, not yet announced, they will go to Charlotte for the district interviews. From there, district winners go to Chapel Hill for more eliminations.
