Kannapolis To Host State Student Council Congress

Typing Classes To Organize School Booklet

Mrs. Gehring's Typing II classes are undertaking a unique task in combination with a recent assignment.

The two classes, composed of forty-two members, are learning to mimeograph stencils, each student being required to do at least one stencil on his assigned subject and an illustration.

Since forty-two stencils would be a rather large waste, it was decided that something constructive, should be done in accordance with the assignment. Thus the idea of "Albemarle Senior High School, 1958-1968" was proposed. This is to be a booklet of the past ten years' recorded history of the school.

Included in the booklet will be Classes, 1958-1968, cheerleaders, FHA, Student Government, FBPA, bands, majorettes, basketball, baseball, football, awards, Modern Music Masters, Library Club, DECA, The Full Moon, The Crossroads, Boosters' Club, Black Masque Club, Youth for Democracy Club, and faculty and administration.

Also included will be VICA, choruses, Health Careers Club, Y.M.C.A., Audio Visual Club, Science Club, Bible Club, golf, wrestling, and cafeteria and maintenance staffs.

Editors for the booklet are Debbie Clark, Jean Hatley, Pat Hill, and Ellen Lane; Eddie Huneycutt is in charge of the cover.

When the booklet is completed, each homeroom will be given a copy. Individual students wishing a copy should see Mrs. Gehring. If there is a great number of those students desiring a copy, there will be a nominal charge placed on the booklets.

A. L. Brown High School in Kannapolis will host the annual North Carolina Student Council Congress November 12-14.

Students Come Home

Tonight the Bulldogs will have their traditional homecoming game. The Albemarle squad will be battling the number one class 3-A football team in North Carolina, Lexington.

Aside from the fine half-time festivities, the home-town gridiron will produce some of the most exciting pigskin competition of the season.

The host team will be battling for its initial victory in the SPC. So far in the conference campaign, the Bulldogs have been unable to put together a winning combination.

Of course, the Lexington Yellow-Jackets are hoping to maintain their top rank. This highly rated team has displayed an ideal defense to back up the sparkling offense of its players.

So, in conclusion, the "Game of the Week" in Stanly County is certainly the Bulldog homecoming. Every spectator can see one excellent football competition.

John McQuilkin To Attend Notre Dame

John McQuilkin has been accepted at the University of Notre Dame. John applied September 1 and received the news of his acceptance early this month.

The criteria used by the University for selection of its freshman class are the high school records, rank in class, results of the College Board tests, recommendations from the high school, and the applicant's extracurricular record.

From these criteria, the University selects a limited number of young men who possess high moral, social, and academic qualities.

Throughout his high school career, John has been a very active student maintaining a high B average

"Look! No chocolate mess with World's Finest!" says the little chocolate man.

Annual Chocolate Sale Increases School Funds

At the conclusion of the second annual chocolate sale, prizes were awarded to the top salesmen.

First prize of $30 was awarded to Mickey Thompson, who sold $95.50 worth of World's Finest Chocolate. Melanie Morris garnered second prize, worth $20. Third prize winner, Don Layton, received $15 for selling $75.00 worth of chocolate.

Having many good salesmen, ASHS awarded a fourth prize of $5 to the following students: Claudia Monroe, John Blackwell, Shelia Ritchie, David Mills and Ted Davis.

Mrs. Crisco's homeroom won the homeroom prize for selling $475.00 worth of chocolate. For their reward, they will travel to Charlotte to see a show at the Charlotte Coliseum this winter.

Assembly Kick-Off Sale

The school-wide sale of World's Finest Chocolate began October 5 with a "kick off" assembly. Spokesmen from each class encouraged the entire student body to participate in this Student Council project.

A group of senior girls started the assembly with a medley of popular tunes slightly paraphrased to lend to the atmosphere of the impending sale. Next, David Hall, as the little chocolate man, added his words of encouragement.

Other seniors who participated in the assembly were Jimmy Harwood, vice-president of the Senior Class, and Kitty Fisher and Mike Melton, who showed students how to sell and how not to sell World's Finest Chocolate.

Junior Class president, Dick Ross, told the students of the financial importance of the chocolate sale. The success of most school clubs and activities depends on the outcome of this fund raising campaign. Tommy Adams, also a junior, did a parody of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address starting "Two score and seven years ago, our nation brought forth a new candy bar . . ."

Sophomore Appeal Hits Home

appeal which was apparently well-headed. During the next week the Sophomore Class outsold the Senior and Junior Classes two to one.

The chocolate was handled through the homerooms with Student Council representatives, homeroom team captains, and homeroom teachers being responsible for distribution of chocolate, collection of money, and keeping of records. Mrs. Amy Wolf and Mrs. Anne Kepley, the two aides to the English department, were responsible for the collection, handling, and tabulating of chocolate sale money from each homeroom.

To boost sales the Student Council introduced two "mystery buyers" each week. Clues to identify these persons were given until students approached Marsh P. Stockton, Mary Lou Niven, Dillon Harris and Jimmy Napier and received a bonus of $4.50.

Presidents Report Class Sales

Another assembly was staged in the midst of the campaign to inform the student body of the development of the Student Council project and to bolster the lagging chocolate sales.

David Hall, the little chocolate man, initiated the assembly program with information about the progress of the sale. Next, Ricky Swaringen reported on the success of the Sophomore Class in the chocolate sale and encouraged his fellow classmates to keep up the good work. Dick Ross reminded juniors that the renewal of the chocolate sale depended on the success of this year's sale. David Mills, addressing the seniors as "chocolate drop-outs," paid respect to the Sophomore Class that had outsold them two to one. A battle for second and third place was evident as the Senior Class led the Junior Class by a $5.00 margin in sales.

Underclassmen Are Tops

At the conclusion of the sale, it was evident that sophomores were tops in salesmanship; they collected $2465.00 in funds. The Junior Class trailed with $1306.44, and the Senior Class was in the cellar with $1201.45. Sales totaled $5210.49.

Gilmore Addresses Student Body

State Senator Voit Gilmore, who has just returned from one week at the fighting front in South Vietnam, addressed the student body Tuesday, October 17, during a sixth period assembly.

David Hall, Student Council president, welcomed guests, and Teresa Wagoner presented a devotional.

In introducing Mr. Gilmore, Tom Adams stated that the Winston-Salem native, now of Southern Pines, is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill, with a B.A. in journalism and political science.

Serving as a Rockefeller "government intern" at the National Institute of Public Affairs in Washington, D. C., he was assigned to the White House staff as a secretary to Senator Josiah W. Bailey of North Carolina.

Mr. Gilmore was appointed Director of the United States

Travel Service by President Kennedy in 1961. He became the first head of the new program to develop international tourism to the United States.

He is now serving as State Senator from the Nineteenth District, which is comprised of Davidson, Montgomery, Moore, Richmond, and Scotland Counties.

In addition to his trip to South Vietnam, special travels have included three expeditions to the Antarctic and one to the Arctic. Addressing the assembly on his trip to Vietnam as a newspaperman, Mr. Gilmore stated that the war in Vietnam is receiving the best press coverage of any war in history.

He observed active combat and even stood in an American trench while shots were being fired at point-blank range.

Actor Robert Mitchum was his touring companion in Vietnam. They visited the U. S. S. Kitty Hawk, a one million dollar aircraft carrier with a crew of 5200 men. Mr. Gilmore stated that because the ship is so large, it uses its own television broadcasting station for intercommunication.

Mr. Gilmore briefly discussed his experiences in eastern Europe. He stated that the contact of people from the free world with those people behind the Iron Curtain is in itself a major breakthrough in the quest for freedom.

Senator Voit Gilmore meets and converses with Mr. Hawkins.
