

THE FULL MOON

Vol. 36 — No. 11 Albemarle Sr. High School, Albemarle, N. C. Apr. 14, 1971

Reid, David, John, and William join forces for next year's Student Council.

Males March On

Attention all associates of the Women's Lib Movement! The five hundred and ten students who registered between March 8 and 11, elected four males March 12 to lead the Student Council next year.

Reid Squires, president; David Adams, vice-president; John Baugh, secretary; and William Hill, treasurer are the future leaders of Senior High.

Doug Pinkston, Lindsey Dunevant, Tony Oettinger, and Calvin Ingram served as campaign managers for the winners, respectively.

Opposing candidates and their managers were Tony Mullis, with Monte Burleson, for president; David Mullinix, Marlyn Massey, vice-president; Bonnie Little, David Mauney, secretary; and, Joy Early, Ricky Carpenter, treasurer.

Interested candidates filed petitions containing one hundred signatures with Miss Gaye Holshouser, Student Council sponsor, by March 4. Other students who applied for offices are Jeff Gaskin, president; Beverly Sanges, vice-president; and Vicki Schreppel, secretary.

David Carpenter, chairman of elections, conducted the nominating convention March 5, first period. Susan Lowder served as David's co-chairman.

Following a week of campaigning, the nominees and their campaign managers presented campaign speeches March 12 during a third period assembly. David Carpenter also led this procedure.

Three of the newly elected officers, Reid, David, and John, and Pihka Leppanen, accompanied by Miss Holshouser, attended the Western District North Carolina Student Council Convention March 19-20 in Asheville.

To qualify to run for any office, a student had to have at least a B-average. Rising seniors qualified for the offices of president and treasurer, and juniors for vice-president and secretary.

Tony's Bound

Tony Morton, junior, has received a scholarship to spend twenty-six days at the Appalachian Outward Bound School in Morganton, North Carolina.

From June 7 to July 2, Tony will provide forest fire service, rescue service, and other types of aid to the Appalachian Mountain area. In this confidence course, he will learn mountaineering and survival techniques.

"The Jewel Box" in Albemarle awarded Tony with the Scholarship.

Cheerleading Ratio Ratified

The cheerleading squads will never be the same again; at least not next year. The Boosters Club met Thursday, March 11 to make important decisions concerning these groups.

If at least two black students try out for the varsity squad, considering the senior and junior classes separately, the winners will be the top four whites and top black in each class. This decision moves the number of varsity cheerleaders from nine to ten. The election of eight white and two blacks will be in accordance to the ration of whites to blacks at Senior High.

If only one black student competes for a position on the squad from either class, she will have to take the same chance as the white students in her class to be selected.

The student body will again elect the varsity cheerleaders at an assembly, Friday, April 30, first period. This amendment, set up last year to run for a period of two years, will end this year.

Next year this method of selection will be considered and either continued or revised.

Plans for the junior varsity squad are not settled.

With only two opposing votes, the club also voted that a cheerleader may not participate on the basketball team next year.

Anyone interested in trying out for cheerleader signed up with Mrs. Morgan by Friday, April 2.

At a meeting Thursday, March 25, Mrs. Morgan explained all rules and procedures to the candidates.

Practice, which began Tuesday, April 13, will run for approximately two weeks. Anyone who misses over two practices will be automatically disqualified.

Senior cheerleaders, Bonnie Brooks, Julie Deese, Susan Dry, Gail Harrington, and Teresa Price, are instructing the candidates.

Gamewell Reaps Reward

According to a special committee of judges designated by the Learning Institute of North Carolina, Albemarle Senior High School's Mrs. Nancy Gamewell is one of the top three teachers in the state of North Carolina.

Dr. John Hough announced the citation of honorable mention at the annual convention of the North Carolina Association of Educators, April 1, at Charlotte's Coliseum. Mrs. Gamewell's honor followed her being named district winner in competition for the Terry Sanford Award. Two honorable mentions were made in addition to the winner.

Established in 1965 to honor Governor Sanford's contributions to education, the Terry Sanford Award reveres creativity and innovation among teachers and school administrators in North Carolina.

"I am deeply appreciative of this recognition; however, I cannot accept full responsibility for it: this honor belongs to my family, to friends and co-workers who inspired and assisted me; to the Albemarle City Schools; but most of all to my students, present and past, students brave enough to make things happen in education," stated Mrs. Gamewell.

Class Leaders Set

Senior Class elections were Monday, March 29. Run-offs resulted in Brian Garber, president; Steve Hatley, vice-president; Susan Blalock, secretary; and Brenda Gay, treasurer.

Final junior elections resulted in Lew Smith, president; Myron Harrington, vice-president; Mary Emmons, secretary; and June Fisher, treasurer.

Running for president of the Senior Class were Mark Andrew, Brian Garber, Jeff Gaskin, and George Winecoff.

Steve Hatley, Freda Hahn, Harold Overcash, and Marcia Carlson were candidates for vice-president.

Jackie Holt, Jackie Lowder, and Susan Blalock ran for secretary.

Filing for treasurer were Sally McLester, Brenda Gay, Ellen Mabry, and Gary Wilhoit.

Friday, March 26, was the deadline for petitions with 25 class members' signatures.

Rising juniors had Lew Smith and Robert Whitley running for president; Bonnie Little, Myron Harrington, Beverly Sanges, and Jackie Tucker for vice-president; Mary Emmons and Nona Pease for secretary; and Kim Woodruff and June Fisher for treasurer.

Students Sea Neptune

The Juniors chose Neptune's Palace for the theme of this year's Junior-Senior prom, staged Tuesday, April 6, from 8:00 until 12:00 p.m.

The musical band for the prom, the Embers, played from the deck of a sunken ship.

Gaily colored murals set the atmosphere for the underwater theme.

Lynn Chivington served as decorations committee chairman; Joy Early as invitations chairman; Kathy Frye as hostess committee chairman; Beth Kelley as refreshments chairman; and Ginny Deese served as clean-up committee chairman.

Patch Your Man

Sadie Hawkins Week is April 19-23. During the week, each girl will "patch" the boy of her choice. Thus, she will become his servant for the week.

A carnival in the gym, Friday, April 23, 7:30-9:30, culminates the week's activities and features open club exhibits. A dance follows, 9:30-11:30, with music provided by a seven number group, the Force. During this period, each Daisy Mae and L'il Abner candidate will receive a prize.

The Monogram club will sponsor a ring toss. The National Honor Society will throw darts at balloons. Junior Civitans are providing a putt-putt game and the Forensics Club, a tricycle race. The FTA will be fishing, the Library Club has a cake walk, and the Science Club will provide a Love Machine.

Representatives for Daisy Mae and L'il Abner are Gail Harrington and Duke Furr, Monogram Club; Andrea Lowder and Charles Burr, NHS; Libby Adams and Reid Squires, Junior Civitan Club; Freda Hahn and
