

Cain, Lee Chosen Basketball Queens . . .

Faculty Captures Attention

The Student-Faculty Basketball game, Friday, March 16, featured the girls and boys basketball teams against women and men faculty members.

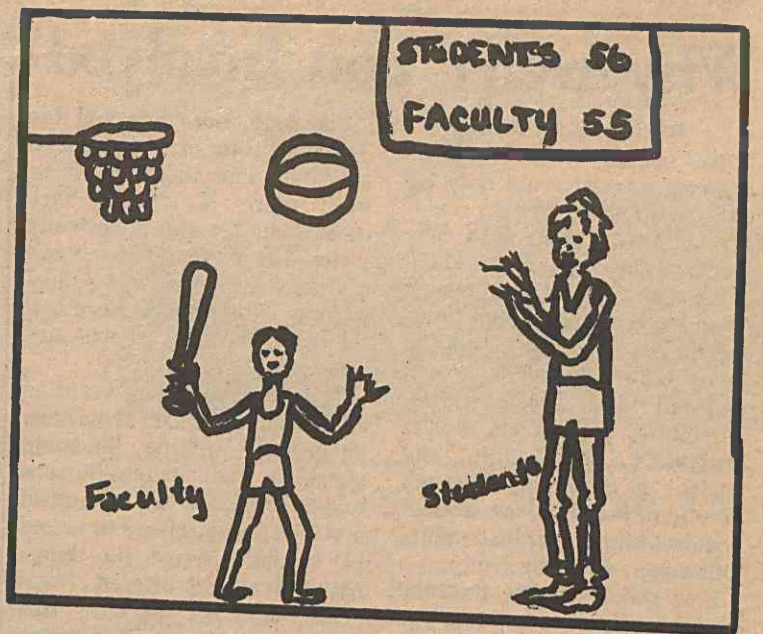

The women's team consisted of Mrs. Susan Almond, Mrs. Terry Burleson, Mrs. Mary Swanner, Mrs. Ruth Kesler, Mrs. Johnnie McIntyre, Cynthia Lowder, and Teena Lewis.

Comprising the men's team were Coaches George Wheeler, Jim Hutchinson, Sam Burris, Earl Clary, Charles Swanner, Paul Kluttz, Reid Furr, Ken Frazier, and Tommy Hauss.

Halftime activities featured homecoming ceremonies with boy sponsors in competition for homecoming "queen." Faculty members with sponsors were as follows: Mrs. Westerlund, Bain

Jones; Mrs. McIntyre, Eddie Burris; Mrs. Almond, Buddy Clark; Mrs. Burleson, John Baugh; Mrs. Swanner, Jimmy Cain; Mrs. Gerhing, Roy Rogers; Mrs. Weydell, Mike Lee.

Mike Lee and Jimmy Cain were honored as "queens for a night." Also thirty-dollars worth of door prizes were given away during the game. Melinda Lowder received a glass fiber light. Susan Eudy was winner of an ASHS sweat shirt and a can of tennis balls.

Come On People Now

BY Melita Corriher

help (verb)-to furnish with strength or means for the successful performance of any action or the attainment of any object. This is what the people involved in H.E.L.P. are trying to do.

Their main purpose is to help blacks and whites learn more about each other. The initials H.E.L.P. stand for Help Everyone Live Peacefully. It is hoped that students will practice this in the community as well as in the school.

The project was started by Mrs. Almond's Black Literature class with hopes of helping conditions in the school and the community.

The group has met twice with an attendance of approximately 50 each time. At the first meeting, members got into small groups to discuss activities to involve the whole school. Some of the more popular activities were H.E.L.P. Week with H.E.L.P. Day on Friday, sponsoring an assembly, and Heritage Day. They discussed what they wanted to accomplish and how to do it.

At the second meeting, the group voted on officers. The following were elected: Co-Presidents, Darryl Ellis and Tom Knotts, Vice-President, Ronald Wall; and Secretary, Sharon

Davis. A list of activities was passed out so members could vote on the ones they thought they could do by the end of the school year. Mrs. Almond broke the members up into five groups and asked each person to answer five questions. The groups discussed their answers to see the variations in personalities.

Maybe you don't need H.E.L.P., but some people do, and H.E.L.P. needs you.

NHS Councils

Rising Students

The National Honor Society recently implemented a program to inform the rising sophomores, who are present 9th graders, of the courses available at Senior High and their contract.

The program nearly fell flat on its face due mainly to the lack of communication. What finally appeared at the Junior High was much different from the NHS original plans, but the program was received enthusiastically.

It seems that since the school is trying to better itself through self-evaluation communication with Junior High is of utmost importance.

Class Mementoes

Finally Arrive

Never before have so many people been so anxious to get to Mr. Frazier's office when Mr. Dave Odom, the L.G. Balfour representative, distributed class rings to the juniors during fourth period, March 1. Lines of juniors reached as far as the eye could see.

This year, in addition to the regular styles and options available, dinner rings were offered to the girls.

The oval shaped dinner rings could be ordered with cut stones and/or A's just as regular class rings.

Moonbeams

Play Rehearsals Staged

Play practice for "Cheaper By The Dozen" is now underway. The production is scheduled for April 6, at 7:30 p.m.

For The Last Time

Students registered for fourth quarter English classes during the week of February 26-March 2.

Recuperation Period

Spring break will be Tuesday, March 27, through Friday, March 30.

Creative Thinking Depicts Real School Life

period, March 13. A throw-off on school life, the play went through an "average" school day.

After a few warm up jokes and a morning scene, the chorus girls introduced the homeroom scene, with a song. With an intruding motorcycle included, the perils of homeroom became the victim of satire. Different people represented stereo-type students found in school.

Following the homeroom, there was more comedy with an elephant routine, a hillbilly song, a growing plant, and the chorus girls. This led to the French class. A jumble of antics showed how even a foreign language can be funny.

final elections. At this time, students will vote on the students they feel most qualified for each office.

Three members of the student council will attend the Western District North Carolina Association of Student Councils convention at Hunter Huss High School in Gastonia on March 31 and April 1.

Prom Given Final Touchups

For about five weeks now, the Junior Class has been working on the surprise event which takes place every year near the end of school, naturally, the Junior-Senior Prom.

The Prom is scheduled rather early this year so that it will directly precede the spring break.

The decorations committee for the Prom, headed by Rosemary Almond, Donna Speight, and Betty Gullede, Racing tricycles was the next topic, proceeded by another chorus song. A hassled director then brought out the "talents" of the chorus class.

More jokes and another chorus dance came next. This brought it up to lunchtime where the true wonder of the cafeteria came into focus.

After further kidding in a "silent spot" and chorus girls, history and gym scenes depicted a lighter side of learning.

Jimmy Hesley and Charles Cooper served as the masters of ceremony. Many others from the three classes played different parts throughout the production both on stage and off.

Senior Scholars Rewarded

Many seniors have received scholarships, and others await interviews.

Lew Smith received an appointment to the United States Naval Academy. As a member of the 1977 Naval Academy Class, he will enter the Academy at Annapolis, Maryland in July. Lew participates in the following activities: Student Council, Monogram Club, Fellowship of Christian Athletes, and football.

Mike Pelt received a $3,000 Trustee Scholarship from Pfeiffer College. He plans to major in business administration.

Council Plans Elections

Susan Wyatt was named the winner of the Alcoa Foundation Scholarship. Susan will attend the University of North Carolina at Greensboro and plans to major in biology and enter the medical profession. She is currently the president of the National Honor Society. Susan is a member of the Boosters Club, Youth Choir, and Youth Council.

Brad Perry is the winner of the Falcon scholarship to attend Millard School in Bandon, Oregon. The scholarship is for complete fees at the school. Millard is a prep school for students who wish to enter West Point, U.S. Naval Academy, or Air Force Academy.

Brad's school, church, and extra activities include: concert band, Science Club, annual staff photographer, student Council parliamentarian, student Sky-lab project; First Presbyterian, Church Youth Club and Choir, United Methodist Youth Choir and groups; Charlotte Amateur Astronomer's Club, Aviation Explorer Post president, and N.C. winner in 1972 Pepsico Space Seminar. In addition to this scholarship, he is a finalist in competition for Air Force ROTC Scholarship, Army ROTC Scholarship, and the Air Force Academy. Other finalists for Air Force ROTC are Ken Ashcraft and Bob Antion.

Many students also gave items used for refreshments such as cookies, peanuts, and other such snacks.
