

For The Class Of '73 Final Days At Hand

Irelou Easley and Susan Wyatt will serve as Salutatorian and Valedictorian in graduation exercises.

The graduating class of 161 will receive diplomas in graduation exercises Sunday, May 27.

Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy, Chancellor of North Carolina A&T State University, will speak to seniors and their guests.

At 8 o'clock p.m., Arlesa Daniels, Chief Marshall, will lead the seniors and speakers into the Senior High auditorium to begin the graduation ceremonies.

Other marshals, Steve Crowell, Chuck Gaskin, Jenell Hudson, Bess Knotts, Melinda Moose, Melissa Moose, and Crystal Waller, will seat the seniors and give out programs for the ceremonies.

After the seniors process to the traditional "Pomp and Circumstance," the audience will join them in singing the hymn, "Holy, holy, holy." The Reverend Roy Lockeridge of the Main St. Methodist Church will deliver the invocation. Selected seniors, directed by Mr. George T. Hauss, will sing.

Reverend J. Harold McKeithan, Jr., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church will introduce Mr. Dowdy, who will speak to seniors and their guests.

After the graduation address, Mr. Charles W. Pickler, chairman of the Albemarle Board of Education, will present the diplomas to each senior.

Everyone will then sing, "O God, Our Help In Ages Past," and Reverend Lockeridge will deliver the benediction. Seniors will then file out to the recessional, "Whitehall".

Senior Class officers are David Adams, president; Debra Bryson, vice-president; Kim Woodruff, secretary; and Christine Garber, treasurer.

Susan Wyatt is Valedictorian and Irelou Easley is Salutatorian. Mrs. Betty Hatley is class sponsor.

Band And Chorus Present Concert

The Senior Choir and the band presented their annual spring concert Thursday night, May 24, in the auditorium.

The Senior Choir performed first. Their selections included, "Let the Song Be Begun," "America, Behold Your Destiny," "One World," "Carnival of Melody," "Consider Yourself," "People," "Come Saturday Morning," "Willow," "By the Time I Get to Phoenix," "For All We Know," and "Kum Ba Yah."

An instrumental combo consisting of Crystal Waller, piano; Jan Lefler and Lori Whitley, guitars; Kristi Whitley, xylophone; and John Baugh, string bass, accompanied the choir.

The combo later performed "Goodnight, Sweetheart," and "All the Things You Are" between the performances of the chorus and band.

Robert Whitley, Nona Pease, and Eleanor Gold also performed in a combo at this time.

The band was next on the program. Among their numbers were "Masque," "Overture in B Flat," "Toccata," "Mannin Vein," "Selections from Love Story," with Irelou Easley and Deborah Kerr accompanying on the piano, "The Stars and Stripes Forever," "Ringgold Rhapsody," "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," and "March of the Magnificents."

Senior Talent Displayed

Twenty-two seniors joined in an effort to present the Annual Senior Talent Show, Thursday, May 17. Only seniors attended the show.

Christine Garber, Terrie Daughtery, Carol Cline, Carol Fitzgerald, Susan Doby, and Mary Emmons formed a chorus-line and kicked off the show with a presentation entitled, "Shoeshine".

In the next act, the audience participated. Beverly Sanges, Debra Bryson, Irelou Easley, and Katie Cauble asked for volunteers among the seniors. Myron Harrington, Jimmy Hesley, Charles Cooper, Curtis Paschold, and Monty Canon offered their services and helped in a game called "Grandma Went To Town."

June Fisher and Terrie Daughtery took over the show next with a baton twirling routine to the music of "Pearly."

"Oh Little Playmate" provided the background music for a "short" skit by Beverly Sanges, Debra Bryson, Irelou Easley, Ellen Still, Janet Ritchie, and Katie Cauble.

Christine Garber, Susan Doby, June Fisher and Carol Fitzgerald confronted the audience between acts with the problems of irregularity.

Brenda Burris, Kathie Neel, David Mullinix, David Bryson, and John Garrison acted out a portion of the play, "Romeo and Juliet" in the next act.

Robert Whitley, Nona Pease, and Eleanor Gold formed a group and sang, "Teach Your Children", and "Heed the Call." Brenda Burris, Kim Wood-

Bonnie Little and Myron Harrington receive scholarships.

Industry Honors Students
