

New Faces At ASHS

By ADRIENNE SOYER

Besides the smiling, shining faces of freshmen (not to mention our enthused upperclassmen), ASHS welcomes many new faculty members as well. Among them are our new vice principal, world history, physical science, and home economics teachers.

As we say good-bye to Mrs. Lippard, who is now the Supervisor of Cultural Arts, drugs education, and Chapter One Reading, we in return say hello to Mr. Taylor, our new vice principal. Mr. Taylor is not unknown to the Stanly County area. Before his administration job, Mr. Taylor was a math, science, and reading teacher at Albemarle Middle School. Mr. Taylor is very pleased with his job here at Senior High, where he appreciates the strong unity among ASHS students. He comments, "My job is cut out for me. Everything comes through these doors."

Mr. Taylor and his wife share the same field of work, for Mrs. Taylor is the pre-vocations teacher at the middle school. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor have one daughter, Tabitha, who is eight, and twin boys, Derek and David, who are six. Mr. Taylor enjoys bicycling, running, and photography.

New faculty members at ASHS include Bruce Marshall, Tommy Taylor, Jane O'Dell, and Susan Carrickhoff.

Our new face in the history department is Mrs. Jane O'Dell. For the past year, Mrs. O'Dell has worked on and received her masters degree. She says that the students at Albemarle are a fine group of young people. Her favorite hobbies are bicycling and swimming.

Mr. Marshall is from Athens County, Ohio, where he was a substitute science teacher. He graduated from Ohio University and his position at Senior High is his first permanent teaching job. Mr. Marshall's favorite activities are basketball and golf, and he admires our community's friendliness.

If Home Economics is on your schedule, Mrs. Carrickhoff might just be the instructor of the class. Mrs. Carrickhoff last taught at Central Davidson in Lexington. Coming with her to Stanly County are Mr.

Carrickhoff, who is a highway patrolman, and her son and daughter, Michael and Michelle, who both attend East Albemarle. Mrs. Carrickhoff enjoys cross-stitching and cooking. She comments that "I love the helpfulness and friendliness of the faculty and students at ASHS."

Along with several new faculty members, ASHS welcomes many students from schools in our area or from other states.

Sheri Allen (South Stanly) — "Even though switching to a Rebel Rival is difficult, I don't have any regrets so far."

Cara Potter (King's Christian High School) — "Albemarle is a lot smaller than New Jersey, but the slower pace and friendliness of everyone makes it bearable."

Mike Furr (Albemarle Middle) — "The work is a lot harder, but high school is much more fun."

Alicia Kennedy (Goldsboro High School) — "It's smaller than Goldsboro, but that makes it easier to meet people. The students and teachers are really friendly, which helps a newcomer tremendously."

Meonne Blalock (Albemarle Middle) — "I think ASHS is a fun and interesting school and the people are great!"

Student Council plans many projects this year.

Student Council Breaking In A New Year

By MELYNEE MORGAN

School dances, Homecoming, service projects for the community, bulletin boards, and much decision making are just some of the many things that the Student Council does for Albemarle Senior High School. This year the Student Council officers are Cameron Speight-president, Greg Harwood-vice president, Mary Kay Page-secretary, and Mariel Baucom-treasurer.

Our president, Cameron Speight, is a member of many clubs such as Jr. Civitans, Spanish Club, and VICA, where he also serves as president. These fall days, Cameron is usually found at football practice after he completes his bus route. He is looking forward to many accomplishments this year.

Greg Harwood has been active in athletics — playing basketball and running track his freshman and sophomore years. He is an active member of the First Baptist Church Youth Council. This summer he attended Western Carolina University for a leadership conference.

Our secretary, Mary Kay Page, has been a cheerleader for three years and a member of the girls' track team for two years. She was also the Vice President of her sophomore class.

Mariel Baucom attended Governor's School-West this past summer. She is vice president of the Youth Council at First Baptist Church. She has contributed a great deal to Albemarle athletics through her four years of cheerleading and three years of running track.

Again this year, the Student Council will be sponsoring the Red Cross Blood Drive as well as the return of the 82nd Airborne. Many new things are yet to be planned and all members of the Student Council welcome your input and look forward to a great year.

Juniors And Seniors Lead The Way

By BETH NEEL

It is a new year and with the new school year there are eight new class officers for the junior and senior classes.

The senior class president is Shannon Smith. Shannon participates in many school sports such as golf and varsity football, where he serves as a captain. Melynee Morgan is the senior class vice president. She is very active in many school clubs, such as FTA and Jr. Civitans. Melynee is also the number one seed on the girls' tennis team for the second straight year. Angela Cook, secretary, is an editor for the FULL MOON and a two-year varsity cheerleader. Treasurer Cindy Brewer stays busy by cheering as a co-chief on the varsity cheerleading squad and editing the Entertainment page on the FULL MOON.

Samy Lamp is the junior class president. He too will be a cheerleader, as well as play football and baseball. The junior class vice president is Blair Johnson, who is active in the school as a cheerleader, softball player, and journalist for the newspaper. Cresta Newton is secretary for the juniors. Cheerleading is one of Cresta's school activities. Treasurer for the juniors is Cricket Morton, who is involved in many extracurricular activities, including tennis, basketball, golf, and journalism.

These eight students will lead their respective classes in such major activities as graduation, Powder Puff, and the Junior-Senior prom.

Junior class president Samy Lamp and senior class president Shannon Smith and their lady associates will lead the junior and senior classes.
