PARKING LOT TO BECOME VOCATIONAL COMPLEX

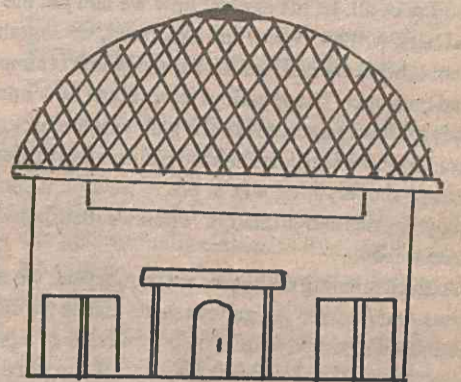

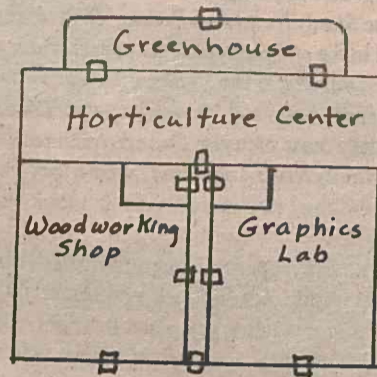

Students Will Not Be Allowed To Drive To School Next Year

BY ADRIENNE SOYER

Since our legislators are considering not allowing anyone to drive who does not have a diploma, the Albemarle City School Board feels that valuable space is being wasted by the upper parking lot.

During the summer months the student parking lot will be bulldozed in preparation for the construction of a new vocational complex. This complex will include a new woodworking shop, a horticulture center, and a graphics lab. Plans for this building are in the making and actual construction will begin Monday, June 12. The woodworking shop that now exists behind the school will become the drafting room. Drafting is a new course available to tenth, eleventh, and twelfth graders at AHS. The horticulture center will include a greenhouse so that Mr. Morgan can have his plants properly maintained. The graphics lab will include printing presses and state of the art computer equipment. From now on, the Crossroads and the Full Moon will be printed on our own campus. The lower parking lot will remain the same so that teachers have somewhere to park and so that buses can load and unload students there.

Even if legislation does not pass this proposal, the renovations will still take place. So look out, mothers, carpooling will be in again!

Morgan Moving To Central Office Job; Clark Named New Principal

BY KENDALL HOMESLEY

Mr. W. K. Morgan, principal of AHS for the past four years, will be moving to a supervisory position at the Central Office next year. Replacing him as principal will be Mr. Joe Clark from New York City. Mr. Clark is well known for his methods of controlling discipline and student attitudes. He roams the halls constantly carrying a three-inch wide club to use on whoever needs it, in his opinion. Mr. Clark has been featured in several national publications and on several television specials, including a 20/20 segment and the movie Lean On Me. The Albemarle City School Board feels that the discipline problems at AHS will now decrease drastically, increasing time that can be devoted to academics by both teachers and students. With the elimination of these discipline problems, the school board also hopes to establish a growing reputation for AHS and our community.

Immediately after Mr. Clark winds up the '88-'89 school year as principal of East Side High School in New York City, he will take up residency here in Albemarle. He anticipates his move to come early in June in order to acquaint himself with Albemarle and his future students before the new school year begins.

So, if you happen to see a big, black character roaming the halls with a club around exam time, be sure to hustle on to class so you won't be the first victim of his wrathful club.

Beware of the strong swing of our new principal, Joe Clark.

Mr. W.K. Morgan will assume his new responsibilities on July 1.

AHS Student Part Of FBI's Relocation Program

BY ADRIENNE SOYER

Along with his numerous accounts of solving the most inconspicuous mysteries, Mr. Taylor can add one more case to his clipboard list. According to top-secret information, a student at AHS is part of the FBI's relocation program.

Because we cannot reveal the student's name, we will call him John Doe. Two years ago, John gave federal evidence to a Supreme Court on three men who were involved in a major drug transaction. These three men were also arrested for manslaughter, a new charge that came up after John's testimony. After numerous threats on his life, John was moved to Albemarle and given a new name. He was also given a slightly different appearance with a new hair style and color, as well as tinted contacts to change his eye color.

Hopefully, his identity will remain a secret because the drug dealers he testified against are known to use terrorist methods. If these drug kingpins find out he is at AHS, the entire student body and faculty will be in danger. If you have noticed any newcomer to the school, do not ask questions about his past. If any student is aware of John and his past, you are begged to keep this information confidential in order to insure that we are all alive for graduation.

For the safety of the school, leave the past alone.

Project Graduation To Be Held At Lake Tillery

BY SUZIE BRITT

After the success of last year's Project Graduation, plans are already in the making for this year's post-graduation celebration. The Project Graduation Committee, consisting of ten students from Albemarle, have been working hard coming up with innovative ideas that will be fun for everyone. This year's theme is "Come Wine and Dine With the Class of '89." This year's Project Graduation will be held at the river. The owners of Shipwreck have graciously donated their facilities on Lake Tillery for this worthwhile senior event. Ski boats will be available for skiing and hydro-sliding, and pontoon boats will be available for midnight cruising.

Activities such as a wet T-shirt contest, "PJ" bonging, and the 100m skinny-dip swim, have been planned. Prizes will be awarded for the best legs and best physique. A wide range of prizes will be given away including a new Honda CRX, a trip for two to Hawaii, gift certificates for Belk's, and also cash prizes, just to mention a few.

The chaperones for Project Graduation will be senior class officers Blair Johnson, David Landis, Ross Holshouser, and Cricket Morton. Student body president Palmer Brown will be in charge of the contests and judging. Refreshments will be provided by the Brown Jug of Norwood. There will be an admission fee of $5.00 to pay for the entertainment. SugarCreek will perform from nine to twelve, providing tunes to set the mood for this festive occasion. The PG Committee feels this will be the most pleasurable Project Graduation ever!

AHS seniors were overjoyed to learn they will celebrate at Lake Tillery
