Um. Everybody thinks clowns are so funny, but I bet if a clown stabbed you with a fork, you wouldn't laugh.

What's the difference between an orange and a telephone pole? Motorcycles don't have doors.

I bought a new vacuum cleaner and man, it really sucks.

The other day I was chewing on some razor blades and I thought to myself, "These taste like Schick."

Just think, you close your eyes and lay there for hours at a time.

Why does Nightrider always ride around in the daytime?

Why do they call them the Boston Red Sox? They don't even wear red socks. They can't spell very well either.

Did you ever wonder what A stands for in The A Team?

Keri is so very what?

What's the deal with fly fishing? How do you know when to throw the small ones back? Man.

The Wise One finds fly-fishing challenging.

Bits of Green Cheese

By Christy Hendrick and Tina Lee

For the past four weeks your Bits writers have worked long and hard snooping around finding information worth your while. Take a little time and see if you recognize these hushed stories.

- Who favors yellow?
- Whose vehicle got rolled and decorated with suggestive objects late one night?
- How many hairs can tape wrapped around one's head pull out, and who can tell you?
- Who frequents the tanning salon five times a week?
- What couple secretly meets behind the old K-Mart on Friday and Saturday nights because their parents won't allow them to see each other?
- What AHS student got turned away upon requesting a pedicure at a local salon?
- Who persists calling young females at 5 o'clock in the morning, speaking with whispers and breathing hard? Have they called you?
- What two girls are racking up on love letters?
- Who stuck their hand down a toilet and flushed it on a dare?
- What girl undressed in front of Carl in the auditorium after school?

If you have any information leading to clues and the answers to the questions please contact the Bits writers at 1-800-LUV-BITS.

Skip To My . . . ?

By Brian Snyder

Spring is arriving fast and with it are all the long awaited activities that students love to do whether it is a favorite sport or just an activity that compliments beautiful weather. Many of these activities, however, are not condoned by our esteemed faculty, but that just doesn't seem to carry much weight with defiant students. A typical spring day, temperature about 78 degrees, sun shining, may consist of awaking early and taking a trip to Joe's Doughnut Dinette. Leaving with a fulfilled appetite and a good attitude, the thought of school may be a real downer, so many funseekers head to their favorite spot to bask in the sun with a friend or a special companion. Others may go to the river for a day full of swimming, skiing, and depending on the availability of certain facilities, various other carnal activities. A trip to Charlotte or any other city besides Albemarle might be on the agenda although traveling to public areas may be of great risk to your success at not attending school without getting caught. Malls are filled with law enforcing officials and "wannabe" good citizens just waiting to nab truant individuals. For further details please contact M. A. and D. S. on what to do if you do happen to get caught doing this or any other illegal activity.

you just by the smell of things and decide to give you a call to check on your present condition and when you plan to return to school. Don't forget, life is short, have fun while you can with whoever you can, but be careful, because you never know what lies around the next corner.

If you happen to be one of the many who decide that there are several things better to do than go to school on any given day, be sparing with your attempts at such blasphemy. Also, be sure you are able to check your messages if you have an answering machine. There is always the possibility that the Robo-Principal will be on to
