

KID'S SAY THE DARNDDEST THINGS!

Several members of the MORNTAIN TRAIL staff interviewed the 3rd and 4th grades. One of the questions we ask them was, "What do you think about President Carter?" Their answers were as follows:

Klinton Armstrong said, " he smiled too much."

"One dollar is all he should get," was the only commit Leroy Wong had.

Chris Coxx said that he should let Amy be President, and let her send him to school.

Loo Loo Hall said she didn't like the way he looks---his hair.

Ricky, another 4th grader, said he wished he'd quit eating peanuts while he was making speeches.

Donna Green, on the other hand, thought he was a nice President.

But another opinion from Sandy Sabbarth was that he is terrible!

John Crowe said he was OK but not too OK.

One little girl remarked that her mother voted for him so she had to like him.

Another 4th grader thought he was a peanut.

Jamie Calloway thought he should lower the price of gas and quite holding it back. "Got plenty, but holding it back."

Jay Calloway had a different view, "When he first became Pres. I didn't like him, but now I like him."

The third graders had about the same outlook about Pres. Carter.

Melanie Keener thought they should get a new President. "He's been President too long."

One girl in the third grade thought he was a know-it-all!

Missy Henry said "He sold all of the oil, and he was a dummy!"

The next question asked of our young citizens was, "What do you think of Amy Carter?" The answers were once again enlighting. Many responses were similar to those about her father.

We then asked the guys if they would like to have her as a girlfriend.

"No way, too ugly!" was John Crowe's answer.
