

Fashion 'N Fad

by Dotty Lilly

In the tradition of spring, West Montgomery students don colorful outfits to complement the season. Susan Saunders and Charles Bruton are two well-dressed juniors who certainly deserve the Mr. and Miss Fashionability selection for March.

Susan is wearing a mint green ensemble. Of wool flannel, the one-piece dress displays a flared skirt cut in fashionable gores. The snug-fitting bodice tapers prettily into a wide, pearl-buckled belt. In the skirt, deep, flat pockets are decorated with large pearl buttons. Short, straight sleeves conform to the lovely simplicity of the dress. Susan's dress is the stylish creation of Mr. Mort. Old Colony provides a white shetland sweater to complement the pearl buttons and buckle of the dress. The cardigan sweater is smartly matched with a cultured pearl suspended on a golden chain.

The attractive miss has chosen Amalfi shoes by Rangonri to complete her outfit. The soft-leathered shoes are fashion's latest in that they have the newly adapted square toe and stacked heel. An attire, as unique as it is pretty, is a tribute to Susan's good taste.

A handsome member of the Hi-Y, basketball team, and Monogram Club is Charles Bruton. Charles is sure to attract the envious eyes of his male counterparts dressed in a striking outfit of muted olive green. An Archdale shirt is first to catch the eye.

The shirt has a button-down collar and a neat button tab. Of blue, brown, and dark green plaid, the shirt has long sleeves and fitted cuffs.

Light, olive green, pleated slacks match his shirt and are complemented by a brown-leather, ring belt.

Charles furthers his outfit with black-leather loafers. He wears his Hi-Y pin in completion of the handsome costume.

Both students reveal a taste for fashionable clothes. Students, keep wearing fashion's best for the best appearance possible.

A teacher is never completely dressed until he or she wears a smile.
