

STUDENT BODY HEARS DR. JOHN R. SAMPEY SPEAKER FROM THE SEMINARY CONDUCTS CHAPEL SERVICE

"There are many forms of service in which women can invest their lives," said Dr. John R. Sampey, of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, in his talk at chapel service Tuesday morning, November 7.

Dr. Sampey, after being introduced by Dr. Brewer, addressed all the students and a group of interested town people.

"A woman may invest her life in the home church. There she has a great opportunity to serve God. She secures the best training for that work here at Meredith," he declared. There are many other forms of service, however. China and other foreign nations need help. There she can teach the lost to love God. Women are needed there as well as men. The visiting of the sick, plays a great part in church work. Dr. Sampey told how the trained nurses of the "Angels of Mercy" render great service when they minister to suffering humanity. The pastors in large churches need assistants. Here a girl has a wonderful opportunity to reclaim some other girl and win lives to Jesus. She can talk to boys and girls in the transitory age, when they have many temptations. "W. M. U. work offers a great open door to girls," he again declared. "There are many open doors everywhere. Those whose hearts are open to serve God should invest their lives in such service. The highest service we can render to Him seems unworthy of Him. The finest gift is yourself. Jesus knocks at your heart. Will you lift the latch and let Him in?"

Dr. John R. Sampey, D.D., LL.D., who is professor of the Old Testament and Hebrew at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky., has been holding a series of meetings in the Wake Forest Baptist Church for the past week. Dr. A. Paul Bagby, pastor of this church, says of him (quoting Old Gold and Black):

"Dr. Sampey is a man of broad knowledge, and deep insight, in not only the Scriptures, but human nature as well. He is one of the greatest Hebrew scholars in America. The best, finest all-round man I ever knew. One of the best laymen and church workers I ever had, and he is a man I think that will appeal to the college students."

So desirous were the Meredith authorities to have Dr. Sampey speak to the student body that the chapel hour was moved up one hour that he might meet his engagements.

CHICKEN BREAKFAST AT "SON" RISE INFIRMARY THE SCENE OF ACTION FOR FEAST

What's the use of worrying about going to the infirmary when there's fried chicken for breakfast, as was served last Sunday morning? Needless to say there were none of the inmates who were too ill to enjoy the breakfast, for when the savory odors of fried chicken and coffee began to fill every corner of the rooms the beds were quickly vacated.

"Son" tried to prove that she was a modern flapper by staying in bed until the last call for breakfast, but her old-fashioned ideas about how coffee should be made caused her to rise even before the cooks arrived.

Several girls made contributions to the breakfast until there was a bounteous supply of grape fruit, toast, cakes, coffee, milk and chicken. The guests gathered around this home-like table and thoroughly enjoyed this rare treat.

Martha Powell, Janet Sykes, Pauline Patton and Marie Horne visited their friends, Geraldine and Dorothy Gower, at Clayton the past week-end.

Frances White, Katherine Shields, and Doris Tillery spent the past week-end in Clayton.

Mary Lou Lewis and Etta Dunn have been spending a few days at their homes in Scotland Neck.

Olivia Moye, Elizabeth Higgs, Mary L. Little and Blanche Davenport were at home in Greenville last week-end.

Mary Blount Martin, Elizabeth Daniels and Blanche Stokes spent the past week-end in Wilson.

VARIED Y. W. PROGRAM INTERESTING SUBJECT

CHRISTIAN CALLINGS ABLY DISCUSSED IN VESPER SERVICE

The regular service of the Y. W. C. A. was led, in chapel Sunday evening, by Margaret Duncan. The program was quite interestingly rendered, though different from the usual program. The topic for discussion was "Calls to the Christians" or, "Christian Callings." Various passages of the Bible were read and discussed by several girls.

The ways in which God may call a sinful person from darkness into the light of his kingdom were discussed by Ruth Livermon after reading a passage from Ephesians. There are certain things over which man has no control, such as birth, life or death, but God gives man the privilege of molding his earthly life as he chooses.

Some of the calls to Christian service, as shown in Mark I:17 and Matthew X:21, were discussed by Mabel Oldham and Edith Young.

An idea of service may be gotten from the life that Jesus Christ lived here on earth. His example is living, and true as much as it was at the time He was living in the world. He gave His earthly life for our redemption from the stains of sin and He expects the first place in our lives. It is doubtful, whether we are sincere in praying the Lord's prayer, whether we really mean to have God's will done, regardless of the pain and suffering it may cause. The discussion was ended by a poem, in which the idea of service to mankind was illustrated.

Mary had a little lamb,
Her father shot it dead,
And now it goes to school with her
Between two hunks of bread.

OPENING RECITAL BRILLIANT SUCCESS

MRS. MONCRIEFF, CONTRALTO, OPENS FACULTY SERIES

The annual series of recitals given by the musical faculty was initiated with a brilliant success on Tuesday evening, November 7, in the recital given by Mrs. Alice Moncrieff, formerly of New York, but now a popular and valued member of the Meredith faculty.

The auditorium was crowded with music lovers of the city, the faculty, and the student body, all of whom, judging from the amount of applause, enjoyed to the fullest extent the artistic program rendered in a way which left nothing to be desired. The appreciation with which the singer was received in this her first concert appearance in Raleigh was evidenced both by the size of her audience and by the many beautiful floral tributes showered upon her.

Dr. Dingley Brown, director of the music department, was Mrs. Moncrieff's able accompanist at the piano, furnishing the artistic harmonious background which is so essential to a singer.

The program, whose content and manner of rendition made the recital one to be remembered, not described is as follows:

PROGRAM

Come Again John Dowland
I've Been Roaming ... Charles E. Horne
The First Meeting Edward Grieg
Thy Warning Is Good... Edward Grieg
Ah! Mon Fils Meyerbeer
(Aria from Le Prophète)

I Know Where I'm Goin'

The One (sneeringly): "Look at your shoes, and your pa a shoemaker."

The Other (ditto): "That's nothing, your baby's only got one tooth and your dad's a dentist."

Fresh Picklesimer: "I ran all the way to Meredith last night."

Soph Bynum: "Why? What was the matter?"

Fresh: "I didn't have carfare."

C. Shields—"Blanche, are you taking the A. B. or the B. S. course?"

B. Davenport—"Why neither! I'm taking the freshman course."
