That "success always finds its reward" to us means simply that the lucky class gets the stunt cup Saturday night. Here's to one of Meredith's most entertaining customs!

The initial gym class recently set in motion the final cog in the machinery of the institution for the 1923-24 session. Only the dauntless Seniors remain unaffected.

Of course all Twig attention is centered just now upon Trinity and the meeting of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association which begins there soon. The three of us who shall represent this publication can hardly wait.

The student tennis champions had best look to their laurels, or the ambitious faculty foursome will soon have them wondering how their defeat came about. We shall probably have to sign up in order to have the use of the inevitably popular tennis courts soon. Let the good work go on, ye aspirants.

The student body will, of course, want to attend the Y. W. C. A. Memorial Service for Dot Gower Sunday night en masse. Meredith sincerely mourns the passing of one so capable and popular, and sadly realizes by her tragic death, the loss of a collegiate leader in scholastic, religious, and social circles.

Dean Townsend, of Baylor College, proved a most interesting and entertaining chapel speaker recently. It is seldom, indeed, that such optimism regarding the severely criticized modern girl is found, and thus his broad views were much appreciated and applauded by most of his sympathetic audience.

Monday, November 5, marks another epoch in a relationship of long standing between Meredith and Wake Forest College. Many Meredith girls have often enjoyed Wake Forest hospitality upon the event of the annual Society Day, and among us it is always an occasion regarded with much anticipation and interest.

The Ideals Committee are indeed living up to the implications of their name. It is not that we are exactly ignorant of the subjects they present in chapel every Wednesday morning, but their manner of presentation serves as food for thought as well as a gentle reminder to put into practice principles of which, perhaps, we have become unnecessarily negligent. It is a good work that they are doing, while they are incidentally, fast becoming one of the necessary fixtures among our dreams of new Meredith.

As sort of an anti-climax to the State Fair comes Barnum-Bailey and Ringling Brothers Circus. Life, then, is, after all, just one thing after another—all of which, however, is but a point of departure for the facts that following the circus come stunt night, Thanksgiving, and finally Christmas. Can you beat the Pollyannorism (just out of the mint) of the staff?

It delights us very much to be able to present to the public some definite plans in this issue of THE TWIG for the erection of our new Meredith. We of the composite present group which now make up the college, can hardly realize a swimming pool, room to hike within the limits of the campus, a separate Infirmary Building, and various other improvements which we are to have, but our imaginations are vivid enough to assure us that in the future especially, shall we be glad to say that the famous Meredith College is our Alma Mater.

We do not quite believe that all members of the Alumnae fully understand their own column in our paper; that is, if we are to judge from various unauthentic remarks the staff has received from individuals. Any message, criticism, or suggestion which any Alumna would like to deliver, may be published by sending it either to Miss Blanche Tabor at the Blind Institute here in Raleigh, or direct to the Editor of THE TWIG. Various letters have been written, we understand, to several Alumnae members, but voluntary contributions are just as much to be desired. A long paper is not necessary, especially since the space is supposed to be equal to approximately only five hundred words, but it does seem to us that if the daughters of Meredith College are still avowedly loyal to their Alma Mater, that Miss Tabor should soon be the recipient of many Alumnae expressions; which, by the way, she lacks at the present.

Reporters for this issue are: Portia Alderman, Annie Elkins, Raeford Hatcher, Frances Howard, Joy Beaman, Margaret Fleming, Blanche Stokes, Frances Haywood, Annabel Abbott, Phoebe Day, Gladys Strickland, Elizabeth Purnell, Susie Herring, Mabel West, Edna Earle Walton, Elizabeth Higgs, Annie F. Harris, and Alma Kendrick.

MEREDITH GIRLS SING IN MEETING AT WAKE FOREST

PRETTY MUSICAL SELECTIONS AT BAPTIST ASSOCIATION MEETING

The so-called "Meredith Quartet" was again invited out to sing on last Sunday afternoon and evening. This time the invitation was to go to a Baptist Association meeting at Wake Forest.

They left Meredith at two-thirty in the afternoon and reached Wake Forest in time for the beginning of the meeting at four o'clock. After enjoying several talks by laymen as well as pastors and after giving some assistance along the line of singing, they adjourned and took a little stroll with some of their friends while waiting for lunch to be served. After lunch all enjoyed another address, and the Meredith girls again gave some music.

After the meeting was over they enjoyed a splendid ride home.

These Meredith girls have been invited out to sing several times this year. They enjoy being of service in this way and appreciate very much the hospitality, words of appreciation, and kindnesses shown them by their friends both former and newly-made, with whom they meet.

The "quartet" this time consisted of: Pauline Patton, Ruby Harville, Lillian Rouse, Gladys Brown, and Annie Elkins, and Miss Ruth Goldsmith, their accompanist.

DR. FREEMAN ENTER- TAINS FOR STU- DENT VOLUNTEERS

COUNTRY HOME PROVES HAPPY RENDEZVOUS FOR MERE- DITH GIRLS

Last Friday afternoon at five o'clock a happy group of volunteers met in front of Main Building to go on our long-cherished trip to Dr. Freeman's. Dr. Freeman and Dr. Maddry met us in cars and took us to our destination. Mrs. Freeman in her peculiarly gracious manner informally received us in her "new country home" where hospitality and good cheer reigned supreme. With our hats and wraps we threw off all claims to formality, and were soon delightfully realizing our dream of a year ago "out at Dr. Freeman's." We went out in the yard where there were chairs and cushions
