Some Freshmen look awfully relieved.

Thanksgiving is over—Which means the Christmas Holidays are drawing nearer.

The turkey was all that turkey could ever be and with accessories to match. Maybe it is a very good thing Thanksgiving comes but once a year.

Turkey was not the only consideration on the holiday—classes were not held.

Thanksgiving day had its thrills in the football line also.

The "package list" increased in length this week for some unknown reason.

Some people are always lucky. Friends are a great asset especially on a holiday.

Since Saturday night, November 22, most girls have decided that there are enough men left in the world, even now, judging by the number in the college that night.

Congratulations to Wake Forest! The football game with State was a good game even though the spectators were divided in interest. Wake Forest deserves congratulations for the winning of the championship which was decided in the game with State between Wake Forest and Carolina.

There is a tendency among most people to be a bit too materialistic toward Thanksgiving day. Less and less do people consider the sentiment of the day set aside in which to praise God in thankfulness. It is a great and glorious day and should be one in which every individual can "count his many blessings" and thank God for them. Thanksgiving day should be more or less every day. If you show your appreciation to people for little things, how much more important to show appreciation to the one Who has given the great things.

Every girl is a citizen of the United States and will at sometime have something to do with the making and enforcing of the laws of the United States. The liquor-traffic question is one of great importance as was brought to the view of the students by the recent speaker in chapel. This is a question which will vitally affect every woman in some manner and it is a question in which every woman can have a marked influence. Lend your influence to the right side of a good cause.

Every week in THE TWIG will appear a list of subjects for students, to think upon and to make clear and decisive opinions concerning. Students do not think deeply enough and do not express what they do think. The object of these subjects is to attempt to create an interest in the affairs of the college, the State, the United States and the world and to attempt to create a desire to present the individual opinions and ideas on these subjects to the other students of Meredith and of other colleges through the columns devoted to student opinions or discussions in THE TWIG. Please respond heartily! All material will be gladly accepted.

The Meredith B. Y. P. U's. in entertaining the B. Y. P. U's. of Wake Forest found an excellent opportunity for social adjustment and for exchanging ideas along lines pertaining to B. Y. P. U's. Entertainments of this nature add greatly to the interest of members in B. Y. P. U. work and also add variety to the activities of this organization.

The New Student which is a paper published by students in New York City is planning a series of intercollegiate columns of wit, satire and humor either in verse or prose. They are planning to run a whole column contribution of each college of the United States. The students must send in their contributions to their respective editors of the college paper. These contributions must be marked "for the New Student, Intercollegiate Column." Upon receipt of material, the editor will select what is in his or her opinion the best contribution and send it to the New Student where it will be printed. This is an excellent opportunity for making Meredith known.

Class spirit was in evidence on Sophomore "night off," the night of all nights, in the life of a Sophomore. Friday, November 21st was the eventful evening and spirit ran high. The day began with the hoisting of the owl, the Sophomore mascot, on the flag pole and ended, much to the joy of freshmen, with a huge bonfire on the campus, where Freshmen became implicated. Sophomore "night off" was carried on in an original fashion and in perfect order and arrangement. A big event in Sophomore and Freshman history has passed.

It was with a great deal of pep and enthusiasm that the Freshmen and Juniors gathered in the "Y" room at five o'clock on Friday afternoon. There were many yells and songs exchanged between the two classes. Later in the evening ice cream cones were served. After all had been served each Junior took two Freshmen and a line was formed to make a grand march. This march led around the campus and back to the "Y" room. Here after more yells and songs the Juniors bade their little sisters fond farewell and the best of luck in the coming ordeal!

NOVELTY GROUP LEADS IN ASTRO SOCIETY

VARIED AND ENTERTAINING PROGRAM GIVEN BY ASTROS SATURDAY NIGHT

The novelty group entertained the Astrotekton Society on Saturday, the twenty-second, with a program, which to quote the chairman of the group was "novel in that it was not novel" (if you know what I mean).

Portia Alderman, the aforementioned chairman gave a short introduction in which she informed the society that this was the first time the Novelty Group had given a program and that we could not expect as much of a child as of a grown-up.

The child, however, proved to be a rather lively infant for the first number on the program was a clog dance by Geneva Benthall. We wonder sometimes when we see how clever this young lady is with her feet, whether she will ever be able to settle down into a model biology teacher.

This number was followed by a very amusing monologue by Portia Alderman. Her sympathy for the "little fly" was matched only by her decision as to his fate.

The last part of the program—should we say "lasts" the best of all the game—well, it's a matter of opinion. Anyway everyone enjoyed the graceful dancing of Virgie Harville. It was a lovely and dainty ending to an unique and delightful program.

We hope that the child will visit us again and we are sure it is going to prove to be an interesting member of the family.
