Wo really think that there is plenty of news for this issue without the usual quota of applesauce. At any rate, we are going to chance it, aud leave unsaid all that we would like to say. (It would almost probally be censored, anyway!!) It is now ten o'clock. We are due at an S. G. meeting. We have oxe article for publication. The rest of the office is filled with us and our thoughts. Plenty has happened, but the write-ups won't come in till time for our six classes tomorrow.
This is our final effort. The last six weeks begin tomorrow, and, with a sigh of relicf, we turn our Editorial chair over to Mary Crawford, our sucecessor. You have borne with us this year. We appreciate it. Some have coüperated with the Staff beyond expressime, and to them we wish to give our hourt-felt gratitule. We wish to thank certain of the Alumure for the financial aid extrmodel. In short, at this last moment we wish to leave nothing undoure. Wreare optimistic, incurably so, and hence we believe that Turi: Twre will he, in the yerm to come, higever and hetter than ever.
Wre think hat our loplief is well Fomulled. Tres Twa heis been transHantend his sour, hut if it is watcerel with coüpreation and apprewiation, in the time to "بlume it will grow and heremue a real representative of collow. life at Maredith.
Wrow wild wo on new and speak of these student alections, and of the other thinges that hase happened.
But we hedinew that a But we herieve hat sou had rather have the : phate for the news itself mark or half-tuksed statroment that we would must probathy make concerning it.

We thank you.
"ALABAMA BOUND"
The greatest student movement of the South is under way, rapidly assuming definite form, as to transportation rates, entertainment, and program. Special round trip rates probably with cars for students are to be provided, leaving Ralcigh or Greensboro, on the night of the 28 , and returning from Birmingham on Sunday night October 31.
The Program Committee in session at Memphis roted that the speakers should be half students and half adults. These adults will be the best that it is possible to obtain, both laymen and preachers: The student speakers will be chosen by a sub committce working together with the heads of the schools represented. Thus only the best that the South affords, and therefore the world, will be on the program. Discussion groups will be one of the main features. These groups will be led by the ablest and best informed men and women on subjects that are rital to student and social life. The groups will be small enough so that each student may, if he so desires, ask or answer any question relative to the subject under discussion. In these groups we want to get the ideas and the consensus of opinion of the students of the South on questions that face the thinking people of America today. Visitors and town's people are most cordially invited, but will be assigned a separate seating space and permitted to listen in only.

The several state Student Conferences have given place just for this yoar to this general assembly of Southern Biptist Students. We hope to make it the greatest possible success, deriving therefrom new inspirations, ideas and ideals that will enable us to do greater things for the canse of Christ while in college and in after life as well.
If this Conference be made a sucross each state must stand four spluare behind its obligations. The direct responsibility rests, however, with the separate collcges, and last but most inportant of all, with the individual student. The minimm quota for North Carolina is 125 students and not one less than that tumber will be aceepted as a completw job. These hate been divided as nearly proportionately as possible betwern the colluges, so that it will he an casy matter for North Carolina to seme its representation, and arnl more, if rach college does its part.
This statr, fanmer for its sehools Ind colleges, will, as it has always Hone, assmur the lead in this the Sratest event of this generation. Talk this Sumth-Wide Conference at arry opportmity. Get it thoroughly ints your system, and prepare now to semd rour allotted number and as many more as possible. Let Birmingham be the Student Mecea for this year. Set your faces stendfastly to be there this fall. At the quict hour of the evening watch turn your thoughts to "The South for Christ," and offerone prayer for the success of this Conference, that the South may be saved by its youth; that the students may be given the power to answer the question for which the world is waiting : "Is Jesus Able to Save Humanity?" Then shall come to pass a new day in the annals of Christianity.

THE GROCER BOY IN LOVE

Jack Ginger in a Bran new suit and with a Flour in his lapel, sporting a shirt done in Starch, called at Olive's house with a Box of Candy, and also to take her to a show for the evening. The name of the performance to be, Ycast is West. Jack was a well Bread lad with plenty of Polish and when it came to Dressing he had a Corn-er in the market." the market."
Now Jack was Nut-ty in the Cocoa about his spic-y friend, and Clove to her through thick and thin. Slie sure did take the Cake even though she used quite a bit of Powder.
You would have to Rice early to Ketchup with her. After the performance he said, "Soap-pose we go to a restaurant and have a MLeal, we haven't Bean down here for some time."
She readily consented, and after having her eats in-Cider they started for home.
Arriving, they sat down on the sofa and began to en-Twine until they were Gilue-d together.

Jack was string-ing sugar-coated love tid-bits, and was ready to give IIcring, when all of a sudden with a Jar he exclaimed "Holy Mackerel. now I am in a Jam, the old Lobster is Pickle-d. There stood her father with a Bottle in the hand and he sure proved to be a Tarter for he started to Raisin trouble.
He did not Mince words, and called him a little shrimp and told him not to Louf around any longer, but Jack remained cool as a Cucumber and told her father that he was a Jelly-Fish and Plum crazy.
Her father did not like this Sauce-y answer and a ciruel-ing argument fol lowed. Jack was a Match for him how ever and told him Eqgs-actly what he thought of him.
He left after this chili reception but was by no means at the end of his rope.
When he got home he sat down and Pr $n$-ned this letter to his sweetheart: My Dear Little Sweet-Pca:
It Beats all how I love you, with your Raddish hair and T'urnip nose.
My love is as tender as a Squash and as strong as an Onion. You are the Apple of my eye. You also have a Peach of a Fily-ure and if we Cant aloupe, Letluce marry. I know we shall be a happy Pear.
Dear Honey, it you Carrot all, please set the Datc.

Your loving Pencil pusher.

Fhesinmen elections

Rah, Rah, Rah, Rall, Edith! Edith! Edith!
Merely an expression of the excitement which was rampant in the Freshman class at the close of the meeting held on the night of March 22, 1926. The atulitorium rang with yells, and Freshman excitement was keyed up to G minor. The important choice had been made! A sophomore president had been elected.
it has been said that a successiful combination of brains and beauty is hard to find, but the Freshman class has again found an instance of this rarity in the person of Edith Waters who was elected as class prosident for next year.
Before the election the Freshman president, Pauline Newton, read the following desirable qualities to be held in mind while selecting a leader for next year:

1. She must have poise in presiding t meetings and banquets.
2. She will not become conceited ver honor.
3. She must be tactful.
4. As Sophomore president she will be willing to give all time and attention necessary to the class.
5. She must have managing ability, originality, and dependability.
6. Above all, she must have pep!

So, after the usual speech-making and "politicking," Edith was elected by a large majority as the one girl in the present Freslman class with all these combined qualities which go to make up our ideal Sophomore president. While she has pep and originality, she also has "equally brilliant flashes of silence"-quite tactful, and altogether genuine.
The other class officers, later elected, are as follows: vice president, Mario Williams; secretary, Sarah Cook; reasurer, Louise Hill; and cheer leader, Pauline Newton.
Pauline, as an able pilot, with the coöperation of a green but eager crew, has steered our ship safely tinirough "Freshman shoals." Now we are looking. forward to the next journey, when as Sophomores under a new pilot we will all "heave-to" and do our' very best to make everything "clear sailing' for the craft of '29:
