

SKETCHES FROM FROSH EXAMS

Following is a list of hazy, or enlightening (take your choice), answers which the freshmen have given to an examination concerning the college rules!

"It will be considered a death penalty to break a busy sign."

"Victrolas may be played from 2:30 a.m. till 7:45 p.m."

"The worst major offense possible, in my estimation, is to kiss a boy."

"If he does anything that is against the regulation of the school, he or she should immediately report the offense and let the council deal with him."

"Major offense is leaving the campus without the faculty not knowing it."

"Of course, going to and from classes, it is impossible to be so very quiet."

"Since I am too young to have dates and callers, and since I am already used to being carefully chaperoned, I have not bothered to learn many of those things for which there is a serious punishment."

"The honor system is a system by which the honors are divided up so that no one girl will hold too many offices"

FRESHMAN TRAINING COURSE COMPLETED

most interesting talk.

The new girls were divided into groups, each having a teacher. The girls who acted as teachers were: Pauline Newton, Louise Craven, Mattie Lassiter, Francis Barnhill, Janie Burns, Virginia Crawford, Sarah Cook, Lillian Wheeler, Kathleen Durham, Irene Thomas, Margaret Craig, Louise Hill, Mabel Bagby and Anne Simms. Questions were asked about the hand book and various matters concerning campus life about which the girls were in doubt. Then, too, each girl was required to learn the Alma Mater. An examination was given Friday night. Though it was not difficult the answers sometimes waxed original, sometimes humorous, and many times most startling.

Since the faculty of the Training School had worked industriously they were entertained Friday night by the Student Government Committee. Every one thoroughly enjoyed the evening and so Freshman Training ended happily for new girls and faculty.
