Editorial

Bible Verse for this week. Psalm 25:9. "The meek will be guide in judgment; and the meek will he teach his way."

PARAGRAPHS

Girls! Let's try hard to make our chapel exercises what Dr. Brewer and Mr. Boomhour have suggested that we make them. Let's leave our books and conversation outside. The returns will more than repay us.

We congratulate the Juniors on their new costumes! They look mighty fine.

Aeroplanes seem to be the latest vehicle of "checkers." It won't be long before Fords will be out of style.

THE OPEN MIND

If we pause to think for a moment our Bible verse for this week will have a deeper meaning for us. While many of us need to apply this verse to our lives, literally, there are also many of us who do not need it in its most obvious meaning.

Meekness might also mean keeping an open mind. The tendency to express our opinions hastily is one thing which we must all guard against. "Count ten before you speak," is not a bad rule that our Mothers have taught us.

HEED!

DAVIE BELLE EATON

Every college in our land has a few Seniors! As we have roamed around this old campus of ours we have heard a few remarks made about the rights that are due Seniors!

If you ever get to be a Senior you will understand why a Senior feels she should be respected. We grant you that little courtesy is shown Seniors here. When they start out the door you'll see ten freshmen scramble in front of them. Why shouldn't they be respected? Have they not spent four long years here? Have they not in turn paid their respect to those older than they?

And just another thing! The head of each table has been reserved in the dining hall for a Senior. Half the time Seniors go to their tables and there's no place to sit. We beg to remind you that these places are reserved for Seniors every meal. No matter if it be Wednesday, Sunday, or any other day, these places rightfully belong to Seniors. And they're complaining. Well, who wouldn't complain? When you reach your Senior year you'll see how they feel.

We sincerely hope that this editorial will serve to remind some freshmen (and other classmen as well) that the place of prestige and dignity rightly belongs to the Senior Class. Will you kindly recognize this fact and act accordingly.
