EDITORIALS

The omission of a line in the editorial of our last issue caused the absurd statement that "no student was allowed to take more than one course in any foreign language." What the paragraph was intended to say was that no student is given credit for a new foreign language unless she takes more than one course in that language.

To that organization which has so long taken a vital interest and an active part in the affairs of our College, Meredith again owes her gratitude. The noble action of the representatives of the Woman's Missionary Union during their recent meeting was only an outward manifestation of the feeling which we know to have long resided in their hearts.

STUDENT OPINION

ON MORALS IN GENERAL

I heard a freshman say the other day, "I have to use asbestos in my ears." Of course, she said this half jokingly, but she was really in earnest about the things which are said and discussed by some people of her acquaintance.

not care. The freshmen are worst, merely because they think it the thing to do. It is their first year away from home, and they begin to feel sophisticated and do things and say things which could not be approved of by any standards.

And what results in both cases! The suggestion of asbestos for the ears was not so bad. Blinders for the eyes and a muffler for the tongue would be a great help.

KEEPING BOOKS

Everyone knows how annoying it is to go to the library in quest of a certain book, and, upon inquiry, find out who has it and to see the proud (but unappreciative) possessor carrying on a whispered conversation with the girl sitting beside her.

POLITICKING

In the latest issue of THE TWIG there was an article on politicking, the sentiment of which I particularly approved of. However, I think there are a few things on this subject which have been left unsaid.

it has been "on the level," straightforward, honest, intelligent thinking and reasoning about the qualifications of the candidates. Some of it has been unfair, not quite truthful, unintelligent, and blind following the opinion of some prejudiced person.

LECTURES AND GOSSIP

What a jumble! To get bits of an interesting conversation taking place in the hall mixed up with a history lecture—or any other lecture, for that matter.

gossip. Perhaps the rowdy ones waiting outside the door do not realize that their conversation is public property. They think if one is sufficiently interested in the history lecture, she would be entirely oblivious to anything going on outside.

It is easy to forget while waiting in the hall that others are trying to develop an interest or keep it concentrated on the lecture. The raised voices in the hall do attract notice, though, even if the talkers are ignorant of the fact.
