The character about whom the play centers is Mrs. Erlynne, who plays an important part in the lives of all concerned. The plot is developed around the question as to who this Mrs. Erlynne really is. The character is portrayed by Blanche Obenshain in a splendid manner and unusually good

A great deal of interest is being centered in the May-Day festivities, scheduled to be held Tuesday afternoon, May 6, in the grove at 4:45 o'clock. Sophomores Celebrate With 'Big Sister' Class

The seniors were honored at dinner by the sophomores on Thursday evening, April 24, celebrating the beginning of the last six weeks and the beginning of senior privileges. Before dinner the "little sisters" lined the porch and sang and yelled for their "big sisters," who in turn gave yells for them. Then to the strains of an appropriate senior song each "little sister" escorted her "big sister" through the doorway, which was entwined with rambling vines and green and white streamers, to the senior tables, attractively decorated in the senior class colors of green and white. Here the "little sisters" left them to their own group of tables which it will be their privilege to have for the rest of the year.

'College Daze,' Musical Comedy, Is Given Here

Entertainment Sponsored By the Junior League Is Enthusiastically Received

The Washington and Lee Troubadours, sponsored by the Junior League, brought to Raleigh last Friday evening one of the snappiest musical comedies presented in the city this season. "College Daze" was everything the name implied, and was enthusiastically received, particularly by the college girls present.

The story centered around college activities, with Gilmore Nunn in the stellar part, which he played with ease and accomplishment. M. Peel Rivers, comedian-in-chief, proved a colorful drunk both in costume and lurid facial decorations, while Paul McIlvaine and George McClure as two drunks proved almost as funny.

Tom Moore, the waiter; Elbert Hall, who played the feminine rôle of the heartbreaker; Harry Lee Williams and Joe Hart Banks in other girl parts contributed songs which won merited applause. The dancing of Tom Walker was the hit of the performance. Following demands for more dancing at the end of

MISS IDEN DISCUSSES FIELD OF JOURNALISM

Gives Enthusiastic Presentation of Work As a Calling for Women

At the chapel hour on Friday, April 25, Miss Susan Iden gave the first of a series of vocational talks. Miss Iden spoke on Journalism as a Calling for Women. As she herself has been successful in a journalistic career, now holding a position on the staff of The Raleigh Times, she could speak with a definite, personal knowledge of the subject.

In opening, Miss Iden spoke of some of her interesting experiences in her profession, as well as some of the difficulties which she experienced as a woman reporter in a time when a woman on a newspaper staff was almost unheard of.

Miss Iden presented the field of journalism as one offering many opportunities for careers useful, successful, and at the same time pleasant. She went on to discuss the principal requisites for a successful woman journalist, stating that, first, she must have as a basis a substantial education, with a broad knowledge of general subjects. Some study along such lines as music and art will give her an understanding of these fields which will aid her in her work as a reporter. A journalist must know how to write clearly and concisely, with a simple, terse style. Accuracy must be hers—accuracy in observation, account, and diction. Miss Iden stressed, also, a reporter's need of good health, strength to stand the test of mental strain, long hours, and exposure.

However, the two greatest characteristics of the successful newspaper woman, the speaker stated, is a genuine love for the work and "a nose for news." The lure of printer's ink must be strong and irresistible.

The speaker outlined several

The choir, under the direction of Mr. Battin, presented a very brief but very good program, consisting of four numbers, these being: "At the Cradle," Franck; "Rest, Sweet Nymphs," Warlock; "In These Delightful Groves," Purcell, and "Psalm 150," Franck.

Press Association Meets At High Point College

Installation Service Held For S. G. Officers

On Saturday morning, April 12, the chapel exercises were given over to the installation service of the Student Government Association. The old and new officers marched two-by-two down the central aisle of the auditorium, parting at the organ. The old officers went to the right and the new officers to the left, and took their places on the platform. Margaret Craig, the old Student Government president, took charge of the devotionals. The assembly joined in singing a hymn, Scripture reading, and prayer. Dr. Brewer then said a few words in praise of the work of the Student Government on the Meredith campus and the change it has wrought in the attitude of the girls. He also pointed out the fact that certain rules are necessary where there are so many individuals together as there are here, and that it is the privilege as well as the duty of every member of the student body to uphold these laws.

Margaret Craig made her farewell address, which was full of hope for the future of Student Government Association. She gave thanks to everyone who has helped to make Student Government the success that it has been this year under her leadership.

New B. S. U. Officers Accept Office Regalia

Impressive Service Held In the Auditorium Sunday Evening, April 13th

The installation services of the Baptist Student Union of Meredith College, held in the college auditorium on Sunday evening, April 13, proved to be one of the most impressive services of the college year. The service took place at twilight, and candlelight furnished a soft glow for the scene. The stage was decorated with dogwood, irises, and green foliage.

During an organ prelude played by Margaret Wells, the chief marshal, Mary Barber, led the pastors of the Baptist churches of Raleigh, Dr. Brewer, and the Sunday school teachers to seats at the front of the auditorium. The invocation was pronounced by Dr. Brewer, after which the entire audience joined in singing "Holy, Holy, Holy!"

The general officers of the B. S. U. and the general officers of the various organizations of the B. S. U., all dressed in white, came in singing, "O Zion, Haste." The old officers, bearing lighted candles, marched down the right aisle, while the new officers, with
