

N. C. STUDENT FEDERATION MEETS AT STATE COLLEGE

National Convention to be Held in Atlanta

On Wednesday, October 22, the Eastern Convocation of the North Carolina Student Federation met at State College with State and Meredith acting as host and hostess. This convocation was organized at Chapel Hill during May of last term, and of which about twelve North Carolina Colleges are members. Its purpose is to forward a greater coöperation among the North Carolina colleges and especially to promote Student Government. This is a new organization and although it could not be called in the experimental state, it is still open to suggestions and the prospects are most hopeful.

A group composed of about fifty representatives were at the meeting last May, at which time they drew up the constitution, aims, and purposes, and elected as their president John Long, a member of the Rowland student body. The real founder of the State organizations is "Red" Green who is the president this year of the Carolina Student Government. He and John Long were the originators of the idea, and it was they who called the meeting last May. The principal speaker at the meeting of this organization was President Frank Graham of Chapel Hill who is a devoted admirer of Students and Student work.

This last week was devoted to the second meetings. It was composed of the Colleges in Raleigh and those east of the city. During the rest of the week there was a meeting of the western and central colleges which met for the same purpose as the Eastern Convocation.

Those present who are not members of the Eastern Convocation are: President Green, Chapel Hill; President Long, and President Murrow of the National Organization. The meetings were held in Pullen Hall, State College. The first meeting convened at two-thirty, Wednesday afternoon, with a fair representation from a number of colleges. The meeting was opened by a welcoming address by Dan Paul, President of the State College Student Government. This was followed by another welcoming address from Dr. C. E. Brooks, President of State College. His address was exceedingly helpful and was not only a welcome

Meredith Girls Attend Conference In Atlanta

"Pack up all our cares and woes
There we go, singin' low—
Hail Atlanta!"

Singing a song that goes like this, twenty-three Meredith girls left on Wednesday, October 29, for Atlanta, Georgia, where 2,000 students from southern colleges are gathering for the Second Quadriennial All-Southern Baptist Student Conference. The conference will be in session October 30-November

Sweaters to be Given to the Best Athletes

One of the most interesting announcements of the season was made by Bruce Gore at Stunt Night when she announced that this spring three honor sweaters would be awarded to the three best athletes in the college.

The awards will be made by the athletic board on the basis of scholarship, college spirit, sportsmanship and athletic ability.

Dorothy Rowland, last year's athletic president was awarded a Trophy statuette just before this, upon which will be engraved "Meredith's Ideal Athlete, 1929-30." Dorothy had to be taken out of track last year on account of a sprained ankle, but came back strong in basketball, making the varsity team and a letter. She also won tennis singles in

NEWS SERVICE BUREAU ORGANIZED AT MEREDITH

Meredith has recently organized a News Service Bureau which is to handle all college news items which will be of interest throughout the state. It is under the auspices of the college authorities while the items themselves are handled by the various reporters. There is a reporter from each class with a managing editor in charge. Anne Simms has been chosen by the college authorities for this responsible position in which line she has already proven her ability. The reporters from the various classes are:

Mildred Kickline, Senior Class; Lina Lee Spence, Junior Class; Dorothy Meritt, Sophomore Class; Elizabeth Wroton, Freshman Class.

All the large colleges and universities have paid news service bureaus, and this is quite a step for Meredith and will help put her foremost among the important colleges. It is one of the few women's colleges in the state to have any news bureau at all.

DR. C. E. BREWER FILLS AN EXTENSIVE PROGRAM

For the past two weeks Dr. Brewer has been filling quite an extensive program. On Wednesday of last week he attended the Wilmington Association at Teachey. He spoke on Christian Education in general and Meredith College in particular. He reported that he found fine sentiment for Meredith and had the pleasure of enjoying the fellowship of many old friends and former students of Meredith. The Association welcomed Dr. A. J. Barton, the new pastor at Temple Church in Wilmington, as a new member.

On last Thursday he attended a meeting of the Cape Fear-Columbus Association, at New Hope Church, near Whiteville. Rev. I. T. Newton was moderator. President J. A. Campbell of Campbell College, made the

Seniors Win Loving Cup In Annual Stunt Night

Freshman Class Elects Officers for the Year

Great excitement went on over in Stringfield Hall Tuesday night, Oct. 21, when the Freshman Class elected the rest of their class officers. After the first six weeks of school, as is the custom, the Freshman Class holds an election for all their officers, except the president who is elected by the Junior Class at the first of the year. Gwennie Crowder, the Freshman president presided over the meeting which consisted of quite a lot of discussion and excitement, since there are so many capable girls in the class of '34. After some time the class finally agreed upon the following officers: Martha Davis, vice president; Caroline Wray, secretary; Virginia Garnett, treasurer; Katherine Davis, Cheer leader; and Garnett Shipman, Student Government representative. With such a good selection of officers, the Freshman Class is sure to have a successful year.

THREE SENIORS PLAY IN FIRST RECITAL OF YEAR

The first student recital of the year was given on Thursday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock. The program, which included numbers by three seniors in piano, Blondie Morse, Frances Cox, and Ruth Phillips was a varied one and was presented in a manner which evinced artistic ability and preparation. Giving variety to the program were a vocal solo by Mary Lucile Broughton, an organ solo by Margaret Wells, and a violin solo by Eleanor Hunt.

These recitals given by students in the department of music, will be given weekly throughout the year on Thursday afternoon at four o'clock. They offer to all students an excellent opportunity for becoming better acquainted with standard musical works and for developing an appreciation of them.

The program for the first weeks recital is as follows:
Piano—Prelude and Fugue, C major—Bach.

Blondie Morse
Violin—Minuet—Handel.

Eleanor Hunt
Piano—Romanza, Op. 28, No. 2—Schumann.

Freshman Class Comes Second With Modern Stunt Sensation

Seniors first! Freshman second! that was what the judges decided at the Annual Stunt Night which was held in the college auditorium Saturday, October 25, at 8:15 o'clock.

Bruce Gore, president of the Athletic Association, which sponsors Stunt Night gave the Address of Welcome. She told of Stunt Night as being one of Meredith's traditions and expressed her appreciation for the interest so many had shown by their attendance.

The Seniors who were first on the program displayed their usual originality in the play "Polar Stars and Stripes" written and directed by Evelyn McCall, Senior Class president.

The scenes of the story were laid in Raleigh and at the South pole; the latter which was sought after becoming weary of so many holidays in North America. However, a new revolution was waged at the pole after which Susan Layton, who might have been mistaken for a real Englishman, signed a Treaty with the Penguins promising to declare their independence to the President of North America. The other parts were played by Elizabeth Ayscue, Anne Simms, Anne Thacker, Velma Preslar, Lilly
