tor in piano and organ while in Paris. During Mr. Spelman's service as organist and choir director in the American Church, Paris, the new million dollar edifice was dedicated. Mr. Spelman played at this dedication which was broadcasted over all America. He was also guest organist on two occasions for the Christmas midnight Mass at Chapel Gerson and he appeared as accompanist for several voice recitals. Mr. Spelman's work abroad was of a nature to receive especial mention in the August issue of the Diapason—international journal of organists.

Mr. Bunyan Yates Tyner, the former dean of Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S. C., supplants Mr. Malay A. Huggins as head of the department of education. Professor Tyner is originally from Robeson County, near Lumberton, North Carolina. His student life began at Buie's Creek Academy. He is a graduate of Wake Forest College, and has also studied at Columbia University where he received an M.A. degree, and at Peabody College, Nashville, Tennessee, where he has already met resident requirements for his Ph.D. degree. Mr. Tyner's professional career began when he became the Principal of Wingate High School, now Wingate Junior College. This part of his career Mr. Tyner affirms was both interesting and advantageous, for it was here that he met Miss Mary Lee Bivens, a Meredith graduate, who became his wife. Mr. Tyner's next important capacity was as the Dean of the State Teachers' College, in Fredericksburg, Virginia, where he was located until 1929. The following year he was a Professor in Education as well as graduate student at Peabody College, Nashville, Tennessee. For the past two years he has been the Dean of Winthrop College, and Director of the Winthrop College summer school.

Miss Elva Hartness, otherwise known as "Lois Hartness's sister," comes from Raleigh where she has resided since her father was made Secretary of State of North Carolina. Before coming to Raleigh, Miss Hartness resided in Statesville, North Carolina. She is a graduate of Greensboro College for Women.

Much Spirit Displayed in Society Rushing

Both the Astrotekton and the Philaretian societies have been carrying on the rushing of the new girls with the usual enthusiasm. As yet most of it has been done by individual members rather than by the Societies as a whole; however, it is generally known that both Societies are planning numerous activities for the entertainment of the new girls. When the girls arrived they were met by representatives from both Societies, who gave out any needed information and helped the newcomers to get settled.

There has been a great deal of visiting done in the freshman dormitory by the old girls who are desirous of becoming acquainted with the new girls, and of boasting their Society. The Phi's presented a shoulder corsage to each new girl on their first Sunday here. The usual amount of calls and singing in the court has taken place for their benefit.

Decision day is not far off with all its thrills, excitement, and curiosity as to which Society is going to get the largest number of new girls. In the meantime both Societies are doing their best to attract the largest number to their side.

Her charming personality and executive ability well fit her for her position as assistant Dean of Women.

Miss Nora Kelly, who takes Miss Myrl Allen's place as College Nurse is from Hattiesburg, Mississippi. She received her training in the South Mississippi Infirmary in Hattiesburg and comes to Meredith from Mars Hill College with which she has been associated as college nurse for the past eight years. Miss Kelly came to Mars Hill in 1923 when it was one of the thirty-two mountain mission schools of the Southern Baptist Convention. Mars Hill College was the first of these thirty-two schools to employ a nurse. Miss Kelly was that nurse. Her fine qualities in that respect are winning a degree of love and respect from the Meredith girls such as was formerly bestowed on "Son."

J. M. BROUGHTON SPEAKS ON "WEALTH" AT FORMAL OPENING OF MEREDITH

tired of people without animation, purpose, and enthusiasm. Enthusiasm is a note needed in religion, battle, and life.

And finally, one must have a philosophy founded on faith, not one founded on fads. Faith in oneself is the first requisite. The chief thing wrong with people at present could be corrected if they had the second necessary quality—faith in others. And most important of all, one must have faith in the Lord of all. "If we have all these qualities then we can surely possess that sort of wealth which promotes happiness," the speaker concluded.

Before the main talk of the evening there were short speeches of welcome made to old and new students by the representatives of the various Baptist churches in the city. Robert Simms, Jr., spoke for the young people's department at the Tabernacle, and the Rev. Forrest Feezor for the church as a whole. Dr. J. Powell Tucker, who pronounced the invocation, represented the First Baptist, and Rev. W. W. Davidson who conducted the scripture reading, spoke for the Johnson Memorial church. Mr. Poteat welcomed all to Pullen Memorial, and Mr. J. S. Farmer, of the Biblical Recorder gave a general welcome on behalf of all the Baptists. Dr. Caviness, Mr. Mooneyham, and Dr. Hunter were present as teachers of Sunday school classes in the different churches. Special music was furnished by a 'Cello solo, "Hark to the Evening Star," by Miss Alverda Rosel, accompanied at the organ by Mr. Spelman.
